DYNAMITE FAILS IN ROOSEVELT BOOM

ROUGH RIDERS OUT IN FORCE

Special to The New York Times.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 23.—What had been planned as a stampede for Col. Theodore Roosevelt resulted in an overwhelming victory for President Taft in the Fourth District Convention at Coalgate to-day. Despite the reading of a letter addressed to Chairman Edward Perry by Gifford Pinchot, urging that Senator La Follette be indorsed, the convention instructed for Taft by a vote of 118 to 32 and indorsed James A. Harris, present State Chairman, for National Committeeman by the same vote.

The climax came when the minority report, signed by only one of the eighteen members of the District Committee, was read. Shrieking, howling, and other stampede tactics were resorted to, and a pandemonium of unbounded frenzy resulted when Chairman Perry, after the reading of the minority report which indorsed Roosevelt, jumped on the platform yelling at the top of his voice:

"Slap Roosevelt in the face if you dare!"

Under the leadership of Chairman Perry a riotous demonstration was then carried on, in which the "Rough Rider element" and a number of men who, it is said, had not been in the convention hall until then were in the foreground. An American flag was dropped on the stage in tumult by the "Rough Riders." Every violent effort possible was made to get the Roosevelt crowd to storm the platform, all of which, however, after ten to fifteen minutes of rioting, weakened against the placid but determined groups of Taft adherents, who gathered around Jim Harris, who quietly smoked his cigar through it all.

The delegates elected are J. A. Ramsey of Ardmore, and C. W. Miller of Hugo.

One of the spectacular features of the convention was the sending up of a huge balloon this afternoon by the Perry forces bearing Roosevelt's name, and flaunting an enormous Roosevelt banner.

Chairman Harris, in calling the convention to order at 3 o'clock, made a set speech in which he alluded frequently to the "square deal," and used Roosevelt's name occasionally, the cheers growing lustier every time the magic name was pronounced. In the midst of the speech one of the "Abernathy kids," a son of "Catch-'Em-Alive" Jack Abernathy, entered the convention hall astride a diminutive pony, clad in a Rough Rider suit, and rode down the aisle to the rostrum.

When he reached the stage the boy was lifted upon the platform. Turning to the packed hall he shouted shrilly:

"I want Teddy!"

Immediately pandemonium broke loose. There was no attempt to restrain the enthusiasm of the officeholders and officeseekers who, according to Perry and also according to general belief, had promised to support Roosevelt, but when the roll of counties was called the delegates voted almost solidly for Taft.

For an hour after the convention assembled dynamite explosions to the rear shook the building. This feature of the entertainment was arranged by Perry himself, 500 pounds of dynamite having been provided.

A pre-convention night feature was a fistic encounter between Gov. Victor M. Locke, chieftain of the Choctaw Nation, a Taft supporter, and Sam Downing, a Rough Rider and Roosevelt shouter.

The chief feature of the convention was the severe defeat of Perry, the man who tried to overthrow the friends of Taft. No man in the district commands more political power. The Fourth District has been consistently Democratic and has never had a Republican Congressman. Hence "Dynamite" Ed Perry, the Congressional Chairman, has been the sole distributor of patronage. His word in the district has heretofore been absolute party law.

Perry contents himself by saying that he "did his duty." He attributes his failure to stampede the convention for Roosevelt to cowardice on the part of men who had pledged their support to the Colonel. Perry says he received more than 1,000 letters and telegrams in the last two weeks, urging that he use every means in his power to prevent the choice of Taft delegates.

He refused to-night to show the letter he received from Gifford Pinchot advocating the indorsement of La Follette.

"It wouldn't be fair after what has happened," he sorrowfully declared.

But inasmuch as he had displayed the letter to numerous friends it is known that Mr. Pinchot simply urged that such action be taken.

BLAST FOR A KANSAS MAN.

If Yurann Thinks Colonel Said "I Will," He Is an Ananias.

James Yurann, a breezy citizen from Blue Rapids, Kan., blew into the outer offices of The Outlook yesterday to congratulate Col. Theodore Roosevelt. Just what these congratulations were to rest upon did not come out during the warlike time that followed his visit. With Mr. Yurann was J. P. Conkling, an engineer of 125 East Twenty-third Street, and two vipers of the press. On Monday an appointment had been made by telephone for the Colonel to meet the man from Kansas, and when the latter appeared the Colonel came out. Mind you he came out. Mr. Yurann did not go in. He didn't come out in a great hurry, either. Mr. Yurann had plenty of time to see and to admire the many specimens of Eastern beauty who were pounding away at long rows of typewriters before the Colonel bounced into view.

"Howdy," said the Colonel, extending his hand.

Mr. Yurann grasped the hand. He shook it warmly and then said:

"I have come all the way from Kansas to congratulate you, Col. Roosevelt. I know you cannot afford to seek the nomination for the Presidency, and I congratulate you."

Will He Serve His Country?

Up to this point the account of the meeting appears to agree with what came out later. At least nobody could be found hardy enough to contradict it. But this may have been because it was overshadowed by the terrific statement attributed to the Colonel in reply. It is alleged to have run as follows:

"I am not a candidate. I am not seeking it. I will not ask any man for it."

CUBA WAITS KNOX'S ANSWER.

Delay in Gazetting Decree Restoring Civil Service Law Causes Anxiety.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 23.—There is an absence of Washington dispatches as to whether Cuba's pledges satisfy Secretary Knox.

The muteness of Mr. Beaupré, the American Minister, and the reticence of Secretary of State Sanguilly, coupled with the unexpected delay of President Gomez in gazetting the decree drafted to restore the civil service law, suppress the Veterans' Council, and guerrilla chasers, has caused intense anxiety and excitement, which, it is feared, will provoke a new crisis.

El Dia declares that Washington disapproves of the month Gomez fixes for Gen. Nunez to surrender the Veterans' archives, and also that Mr. Beaupré did not disclose the palace demands immediately.

A member of the Chamber of Deputies close to the Executive explains that President Gomez awaits the Supreme Court's opinion as to whether the Pro-Veteran act is in such an unconstitutional form as to justify the decree; otherwise the decree is dictatorial.

The Conservative National Party met and adjourned to-day without nominating a Presidential ticket.

Gen. Estonoz advises Mr. Beaupré that the independent negro party has menaced the proscription project of the delegation to Washington.

The British Minister demands the removal of Señor Baracoa, the Judge who released the man who attempted to assassinate the Manager of the United Fruit Company.

DEMOCRATS WARN DIX.

Ten Senators Refuse to Confirm Men Who Are Choice of Bosses.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—"No more appointments for important public offices, which are merely the result of an agreement with bosses, will be confirmed by the Senate this year."

This is the ultimatum which ten Democratic Senators have served upon Gov. Dix as the result of their discovery that the Governor had been contemplating seriously the nomination of William H. Fitzpatrick, the Buffalo leader, for Public Service Commissioner in the up-State district; John H. McCooey for the New York City commission district, and various physicians not regarded as measuring up to the job for Health Officer of the Port of New York.

"Yes, we insisted to the Governor that he ought to consult the Senators about the big appointments," declared one of the Democratic members to-night, "and not go entirely upon what the leaders have to say on that subject. Under the Constitution of the State we, and not the bosses, are supposed to do the confirming, so we made that known to Gov. Dix."

This declaration of war is said to be acquiesced in by at least ten Democrats and one Independence Leaguer—Senator Duhamel of Brooklyn. The Democrats are Stilwell and Griffin of the Bronx, Long, Black, Cronin, Sanner, and O'Brien of Kings; Roosevelt of Dutchess, and Loomis and Burd of Erie.

These eleven men, with the aid of Republicans, easily can prevent confirmation of Gov. Dix's appointees if not satisfactory to them.

EX-GOV. BLACK TO RETIRE.

Albany Friends Recall Events in His Short Political Career.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—The report that ex-Gov. Frank S. Black is to withdraw from professional and political activity caused much surprise in Albany, inasmuch as he is comparatively young and at the height of mental vigor. Mr. Black was at the Capitol yesterday in connection with the case of the Court of Claims, which was legislated out of office last year.

Mr. Black divides his time between his old home in Troy, N. Y., and his farm in Freedom, N. H. He is fond of outdoor exercise, and in the days when the bicycle was popular he was frequently seen wheeling along the country roads near Troy.

Mr. Black's political experience covers a period of more than sixteen years. His candidacy for the Governorship in 1896 was accidental, his name having been presented in the Republican Convention by his local Congressional district to offset the campaign then being made for delegates by Hamilton Fish and George W. Aldridge. Senator Thomas C. Platt, who then dominated the party, set aside Messrs. Fish and Aldridge, the most formidable candidates, and upon the advice of Louis F. Payn and other leaders threw his support to Mr. Black. The next campaign was most bitter, Gov. Black having been dropped in favor of Theodore Roosevelt. After leaving the Executive Chamber Mr. Black moved his law office to New York.

Mr. Black was always an opponent of Theodore Roosevelt, and in the last State campaign, when Mr. Roosevelt was in control at Saratoga, Mr. Black could not be induced to take part in the fight.

DR. COOK'S HEARERS STUNG.

Bees in a Kentucky Tabernacle Thawed Out During Lecture.

Special to The New York Times.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 23.—Those who attended the lecture of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, arctic explorer, were stung. During the extremely cold weather swarms of bees flew for refuge into Union Tabernacle, and lined the ceiling. Thawed out by the heat of the building they dropped by scores on the heads and necks of people in the audience.

H. L. McPherson, a banker, pulled three stingers out of the back of his neck. Col. Will A. Wilgus's right ear suffered, and W. Herman Southall had an eye nearly closed.

Dr. Cook while describing an encounter with a polar bear was stung on the hand, with which he was wielding an imaginary hunting knife. Apprehending the cause of his painful interruption and seeing other busy bees hovering near, Dr. Cook discreetly left the spotlight and spoke from the far side of the stage.

INTERBORO MAKES A NEW SUBWAY BID

A MESSAGE FROM GAYNOR

It Tells Aldermen the City Must Take the Best Terms It Can Get, as It Can't Build Its Own Subways Now.

A draft of the proposals that the Interborough will make to the city was laid before Mayor Gaynor yesterday, and similar documents are to be submitted to the other city officials immediately concerned in the subways. In a general way these proposals follow the lines laid down by the McAneny report of last July, and cover the entire field at issue between the Interborough and the city. It is not yet decided when they will be formally submitted to the city. It is quite likely that Mr. Rea of the Pennsylvania and Mr. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co. will meet the city representatives for another conference to-day and pave the way for the Interborough to submit its suggestions some time this week.

Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission declared yesterday that he did not think that any offer would be made to the city unless the Interborough was fairly certain that it would be accepted. At the same time there are legal difficulties which have to be overcome in some way. To obviate them so far as possible in advance and to put the new proposals into some kind of shape there was a meeting yesterday between George S. Coleman, counsel for the Public Service Commission, and Francis Lynde Stetson, counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co., the Interborough bankers. They lunched together at the Down Town Association, 60 Pine Street, and then came up to Mr. Coleman's offices in the Tribune Building. Mr. Stetson before leaving had an interview with Chairman Willcox, but in this he dealt not only with subways, but also with the bill to be introduced at Albany to do away with the par value of the capital stock corporations.

The knotty legal point engaging the particular attention of Mr. Stetson and Mr. Coleman was how to provide for a preferential payment to the Interborough without violating the Constitution of the State.

Preferences a Basic Principle.

The Interborough will not make any offer to the city without some sort of preferential payment, and it is now understood that the city officials are ready to grant it an 8.76 per cent. preferential payment on its investment, a reduction of .24 per cent. from that which the company asked last Summer. But it is not easy to make any such a bargain and keep within the law, and it is known that the courts will be asked to pass upon any arrangement between the city and the Interborough which is not palpably legal. William Randolph Hearst was mentioned yesterday as not unlikely to come forward as a champion in the city's interests, and the Interborough itself would not be averse to a judicial interpretation of an agreement involving so much.

It may be argued that any preferential payment infringes Section 10 Article VII. of the State Constitution, which forbids any county or municipality from lending its money or credit to any individual, association, or corporation. The point was raised with reference to the preference promised to the B. R. T. in the injunction suit brought last October against the Lexington Avenue Subway, by the Admiral Realty Company, and was strongly urged by Louis Marshall, counsel for the plaintiffs. The Appellate Division refused to pass on the matter at that time, expressing confidence that any contract that had withstood the scrutiny of the counsel for the Public Service Commission and the Corporation Counsel was not likely to be manifestly illegal and unconstitutional.

The 8.76 per cent. preference has been arrived at by taking an average of the earnings of the Interborough in the last two years, and which were the most prosperous it has known. At one time during the conference the city officials were inclined to stand out for the average of four years being used as a basis, on the ground that the traffic for the last two years had been such a crush that there would be no hope of earnings to pay both the Interborough and the city 8.76 on their investments, unless the present indecent traffic congestion was continued. However the city officials are inclined now to accept the 8.76 rate, and Borough President McAneny said last night that he would not oppose it, so long as other conditions were satisfactory.

What Interborough is to Get.

These conditions will concern the other points touched on in the McAneny report of July, the Interborough to get the Seventh Avenue and the Lexington Avenue four-track lines, a three-track subway and elevated line from the Lexington Avenue line at 138th Street to Pelham Bay Park, and a new two-track tunnel by Whitehall Street to Brooklyn Borough Hall. Moreover it is to sell the Steinway tunnel, which cost $8,000,000, for $3,000,000 to the city, connect it up with the Subway, and extend its line by elevated extensions out to Woodside and Corona and to Astoria. In the Bronx it will also obtain a two-track elevated line along White Plains Road to the city line, and in Brooklyn the four-track Eastern Parkway line with extensions through Nostrand Avenue and Livonia Avenue.

All the present franchises of the Interborough will be made continuous for forty-nine years from the beginning of the operation of the new lines. The equipment of the new lines, which it is reckoned will cost $21,000,000, will be amortized out of the earnings of the subways, and will at the completion of the lease be the property of the city without extra payment. In addition to the new subways the question of the third-tracking of the elevated lines will be taken up, and if possible an agreement will be made with the Interborough which will be accepted by the Directors of the Manhattan Railway Company, by which the license for the operation of the third tracks will be subject to revision every twenty-five years, instead of every ten years, as was proposed by the Public Service Commission.

Mayor Gaynor sent a message to the Board of Aldermen on the debt limit of the city yesterday, dwelling at length on the narrowness of the city's borrowing margin, and declared that if the city were to rely on its own resources for the building of the subway it would take fifteen years to complete the lines now laid out. It is this, he said, that has made it necessary for the city to seek outside capital for subway construction, and he deplores the rejection of the Interborough's offer of December, 1910, in which no guarantees were asked from the city. Now, however, he declares it is necessary to make the best terms possible with the company.

Jan. 23, 1912.

To the Honorable, the Board of Aldermen.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to com-

INSURING AGAINST FRANCO-ITALIAN WAR

WARSHIPS ORDERED READY

Sent on "Manoeuvres"—Will Escort and Protect French Steamers in Mediterranean If Need Be.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 24.—The Times says that one or two large insurances were effected yesterday at Lloyds' in connection with the complications arising out of the Mediterranean war, and also respecting the situation in Northern Europe.

Five per cent. was accepted to cover the risk of an outbreak of hostilities between France and Italy within the next four months, and 6 per cent. was paid on the risk of an outbreak of war involving France, Germany, and this country within the next six months.

TOULON, Jan. 23.—The battleship-cruisers Edgar Quinet, Leon Gambetta, and Ernest Renan, accompanied by five submarines, sailed from here to-day to carry out manceuvre practice between Nice and the Hyères Islands in the Mediterranean.

CHERBOURG, Jan. 23.—The Minister of Marine has ordered the Maritime Prefect of this naval port to assemble a division of the Third Squadron of the navy, consisting of the armored cruisers Gloire, Condé, and Marseillaise, together with a division of destroyers, off Cherbourg, on Jan. 25, in order to carry out war manoeuvres in conjunction with the coast fortifications.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Should Italy refuse to accede to France's demand that the Turks arrested on board the steamship Manouba be turned over to the French authorities, France is prepared to recall her Ambassador from Rome and designate French warships to escort and protect French steamers in the Mediterranean.

Camille Barrère, the French Ambassador to Italy, is due to arrive in Rome to-night. He has been instructed to reiterate firmly France's demand.

The French Government expects that Italy will recede from her position. The warning to her was partly influenced by an interview which it was alleged that Signor Tittoni, the Italian Ambassador to France, gave to the Paris correspondents of Italian newspapers. In these interviews it was intimated that Italy would not surrender the Turks she had taken from the Manouba or abandon her right to capture vessels carrying contraband.

Ambassador Tittoni to-day denied that he gave any interview.

The Temps prints an editorial of a most friendly nature, requesting Italy to accede to the principle of right before "a mere incident becomes a conflict."

ROME, Jan. 23.—The French Chargé d'Affaires, M. Legrand, in an interview to-day with the Italian Foreign Minister, the Marquis di San Giuliano, explained fully the French attitude, and insisted upon the release of the Turks.

The Foreign Minister promised to consider the points put before him, and will reply to-morrow after a consultation with the Premier.

As it was expected that nothing would be done until to-morrow, after the arrival of the French Ambassador, M. Barrère, the interview to-day between the Chargé and the Foreign Minister is taken as an indication of a desire on both sides to reach a quick settlement of the differences. Weight is added to this view by the amicable spirit shown by the representatives of Italy and France.

PERIM, Jan. 23.—An Italian warship stopped the Austrian Lloyd steamer Bregenz in the Red Sea yesterday morning.

WIVES EXPLAIN DEAR LIVING.

Blame Trusts, Speculators, Husbands, and "Lame" Laws.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 23.—Replying to the request from the State of Ohio to explain the high cost of living, the Cincinnati Housewives Co-operative League, through its President, Mrs. J. W. Ellms, made its report public today, and gave the following as the chief causes of the present exorbitant prices:

"Trusts. Selfish, greedy, and hungry for big profits.

"Speculation. Prices fixed by gamblers rather than by the cost of production.

"Husbands. Not as helpful in home management as they should be.

In tracing the high cost of living to husbands, Mrs. Ellms attributed it to their tendency to evade domestic tasks, and said:

"Half of them don't know the price of sugar or how long an incandescent light will last, and, all unknowingly, they greatly add to the already increased cost of living. Husbands should keep household accounts as well as wives, and at the end of the month both should balance up and see if they agree. I don't see why a husband should not know when the flour is getting low as well as the wife."

The league has already started a boycott on butter, the members declaring they will eat "butterless bread until the price comes down."

Six women agents of the Bureau of Labor of the United States Department of Commerce and Labor are in Cincinnati secretly making an investigation of the high cost of living.

DR. PETERS TURNS GROCER TO AID POOR

WAR ON THE MIDDLEMAN

His Store Will Be Open Two Hours on Wednesdays and Saturdays—Hopes for Aid to Open Other Stores.

The Rev. Madison C. Peters will open a grocery store on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, in a room at 440 East 123d Street, which is used in the evening for mission service. It is the opening gun in a campaign against middlemen, the short-weight storekeeper, and the high cost of living. Other stores are to be opened if this one proves successful. From many quarters Dr. Peters is receiving encouraging indications that he will have loyal support in the enterprise, and all he asks is that he shall break even.

He said last evening that he had been following with interest a similar crusade waged in Indianapolis by Mayor Shank, and liked the work done by that doughty municipal officer of the Middle West.

"If we had a Mayor like Shank in New York," he said, "we could come pretty close to abolishing poverty."

It can hardly be said, however, that Dr. Peters got his idea from Mayor Shank. It had been developing gradually as he has surveyed the housekeeper's problem and studied the economics of farmers and middlemen.

"I knew that the farmers were getting $9,000,000,000 for their products and that the consumers were paying $13,000,000,000 for them, and it seemed to me that that was too wide a margin."

Plan Suggested at Church Meeting.

The idea came to the front some weeks ago at one of the regular discussions on public questions that always follow the Sunday evening services at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Madison Avenue and 121st Street, where Dr. Peters is pastor. On this particular occasion the talk turned on the high cost of living, and from among the men and women present came repeated expression of the opinion that the tariff and trusts were not entirely to blame, since the middlemen were largely so. They also reported that they had reason to hold the storekeepers themselves responsible for part of the rise in the cost of setting their table.

One man told of having purchased a bushel of potatoes that should have weighed sixty pounds, of taking it home, thinking it looked particularly skimpy, and of weighing it. He found that the grocer had been satisfied to give him only thirty-four pounds. Dr. Peters thought he would experiment. He bought a bushel of potatoes and weighed his purchase. The pointer turned to forty-three pounds.

"Now, the wholesale price of potatoes just then was 90 cents," said Dr. Peters in recounting the incident yesterday, "and I paid the retail price of $1.25. In addition I was cheated seventeen pounds, so that the profits all along the line amounted to 60 or 65 cents. That incident was just one of many things which inclined me toward this work."

Then on Monday of this week Dr. Peters happened to be talking to the members of the Woman's Professional League, and he urged that those gifted or trained as musical artists should not confine their work to closed concerts to the select circle of those able to pay, but should give of their work to the poor, that such an organization as the league would do well to assist in the work of giving free concerts in the churches that would otherwise be closed in the day time throughout the week.

He was gratified at the instant response, people rising in all parts of his audience with offers of help and expressions of their willingness to give of their talent to such a project. Incidentally, on Thursday of next week, Pilgrim Church will be thrown wide to the first of a series of such concerts, for before Dr. Peters left there had been enough offers to book up the programmes for weeks ahead.

But this idea had its analogy, and Dr. Peters said how much he would like to start a store where the poor could come and buy as they would if the farmers' wagons were lined up for them in a market; where they could escape the cheating grocer and the rapacious middleman. To this suggestion there was a wave of response, and within twenty-four hours he was ready to announce the opening of his first depot, confident of backing, and willing to try it any way.

Out of his own pocket will come the initial cost of laying in a stock of potatoes, apples, canned goods, eggs, and a restricted line of vegetables. His full market list will not be made up until today, for Dr. Peters is going scouting among his possible sources of supply, and from his wide acquaintance he has reason to believe that he can buy as cheaply as the next man.

Store Open Only Two Hours.

The store or depot will be open from 10 to 12 noon, and no longer, for Dr. Peters believes that his will be no proper place for the dawdling customer and the long, expensive waits between customers. To let it be known that the store will be open only during those two hours of the morning will concentrate the marketing and save everybody's time. On his selling staff will be several volunteer and probably some paid assistants.

For the present the idea is to open only on Wednesdays and Saturdays until he feels his way and gets the scheme established. Then, if it works, and he sees no reason why it should not, he will make it a daily market, where folks may buy at cost—and full measure. If this first store on East 123d Street is successful, then there will be other stores, and if the whole idea bears the fruit that Dr. Peters hopes to see it bear, it will lead to farmers coming direct into New York to sell their goods.

Dr. Peters believes that one reason why New York knows a cost of living disproportionately higher than that in Baltimore or Philadelphia is because she has driven out of her borders the great open markets where hundreds of men sell the produce direct to the market basket, and all in competition under one roof. This memory has risen reproachfully, as he has sat at the window of his Flatbush home and seen forty or fifty different grocers' wagons bearing the fruit and vegetables to a hundred families or thereabouts.

In all this work the emphasis and effort will be directed toward the necessities of the dinner table. On this account butter, which has been a large item of expense of late, will probably be left out of the scheme.

"Butter is a luxury," said Dr. Peters. "When I was a boy in the country I didn't have any butter on my bread. I had molasses, and was mighty glad to get it."

Dr. Peters is full of enthusiasm over his plan and believes that it will work.

"Christ wrought a miracle to feed the multitude," he said. "I cannot work a miracle, but in the matter of bringing food to the poor people I believe that I can come pretty near it."

MUST GIVE AWAY $250,000.

Chicago Man Puzzled by Novel Will Provision.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 23.—How shall a Chicago man spend $250,000 for charity? This question is puzzling Charles A. Purcell, malt dealer living at River Forest. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary B. Purcell, left him $250,000 to be spent for charity, as his judgment dictated. The rest of her estate, valued at $250,000, was bequeathed to relatives.

Mr. Purcell said to-night he didn't know whether he had been left a fortune or a misfortune.

"What do I know about distributing $250,000 among the poor?" he asked. "It is the biggest job of my life, and the only duty I have ever hesitated to perform. My sister-in-law didn't know how to spend it, and so she willed to me the responsibility. She wanted it to go to charity, but didn't know where to begin, and now I am confronted with the same problem."

THINKS JAPAN A MENACE.

Lecturer in London Says That We May Be Attacked Any Day.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—"The Pacific Ocean as the Strategic Centre of Mankind" was the subject of a lecture by F. W. Miller Maguire at the Royal Colonial Institute to-day.

The Japanese might attack and defeat the Americans any day, said the lecturer, adding that the fact that Japan was Great Britain's ally was neither consoling nor comforting.

"Japan," said Mr. Maguire, "will be England's ally as long as an alliance is worth having, and no longer. Our own territories in the Pacific are by no means safe."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 23.—Three hundred old square grand pianos are to go up in smoke here at the annual convention of the National Piano Dealers' Association in May.

The instruments will be shipped here in carload lots from every section of the country, placed in a heap fifty feet high on the edge of the meadows, and the torch applied. This huge bonfire will be the spectacular feature of the shore convention.

DYING AFTER CLASS FIGHT.

Two Other Toulone University Students Badly Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 23.—Three students badly hurt, one of whom probably is dying of concussion of the brain; four others nursing sprains and bruises, and half a score of bruised heads and blackened eyes tell the story of the annual tank rush at Tulane University today. The rush came a few days ahead of schedule, due to the fact that the second year men accused the freshmen of painting their class numbers on the big water tank on the campus. About eighty students took part, and the rush speedily turned into a free-for-all fight.

Members of the Faculty finally stopped the riot, but not until they had threatened to call the police and order wholesale arrests.

Lewis Furestenberger is the most seriously injured. It is stated at Touro Infirmary that he may not live through the night. He is a freshman. Charles Kahman, freshman, has internal injuries and a sprained knee. Solis Seiferth, son of the city editor of The New Orleans Picayune, has a broken shoulder and other injuries.

SAVING ROCKEFELLER APPLES

Tree Doctors Called In to Kill the San Jose Scale in the Orchard.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 23.—John D. Rockefeller has a small army of tree doctors at work on his estate at Pocantico Hills, trying to save his apple orchard. For three years Mr. Rockefeller's trees have failed to produce a normal crop, and this has caused him some worry. He called in a tree expert recently, and found that the San José scale had attacked them. Immediately he caused arrangements to be made to have the trees treated, and to-day the men were at work scraping off the bark and removing the scale.

Mr. Rockefeller has a good-sized orchard. He is fond of apples, and usually harvests more apples than he can use. The surplus supply is sent to local and New York hospitals. He ships away a great many barrels every year to these institutions.

Mr. Rockefeller is a tree lover. He never permits one to be cut down, and transplants more trees than any man in the country. He is now at Pocantico Hills, and was out to-day watching the workmen, and appeared much interested in their method of destroying the scale.

CAN HOUSE TAMMANY HOST

But Baltimore Hotels Are Slow to Tie Up Rooms Yet.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 23.—Thomas L. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, who was here the other day to engage headquarters at the Emerson Hotel for Mr. Murphy and his immediate lieutenants, went back to New York and reported that he could not get rooms in Baltimore for the rest of Tammany's 2,000.

"We'll have no trouble taking care of Tammany," said Harry Busick, Chairman of the Hotel Bureau, "but it would be foolish for the hotel men to tie up all their rooms thus far in advance, before more than 40 per cent. of the accredited delegations to the convention have been placed. This thing will be done systematically, without advancing rates or crowding the visitors. One of the largest hotels, I am informed, is now filled to the roof; another has room for only thirty or forty more."

Mr. Busick intimated that the hotel men are anxious to guard against the rooms being gobbled up by speculators, who will hold up delegates and visitors.

CORNELL STUDENT SHOT.

Lieut. Burton Hit by Bullet from Gun of Leo Blog of Brooklyn.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 23.—F. E. Burton, a senior at Cornell University and Lieutenant in the cadet corps, was shot in the leg by the accidental discharge of a rifle in the hands of Leo Blog, a freshman from Brooklyn.

Burton has charge of rifle practice. Blog was standing in position and the rifle was cocked when the accident occurred. It is presumed a passer-by jarred Blog, and the gun was discharged. Burton was taken to the infirmary. It was said the wound was not dangerous.

CHINESE REBELS ARE QUARRELING

SUN'S AGREEMENTS BROKEN

He Made New Demands When the Throne's Abdication Was About to be Announced.

WU THREATENS TO QUIT

Premier Yuan Is for Renewal of War, but Would Await Rebels' Advance—Mongols Offer to Aid Manchus.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 23.—Dissension between republican factions is the real cause of the present situation—the failure of the throne to abdicate and the resulting deadlock.

It is not the opposition of the Manchus, but the actions of President Sun Yat Sen in changing at the last moment conditions that had been agreed upon, ignoring Premier Yuan Shi-Kai, and arrogating new powers to the Nanking Government, to which the new crisis is due.

As a result of the existing situation the disruption of the republicans is threatened.

Wu Ting-Fang strongly resents the actions of Sun Yat-Sen in ignoring agreements that had been made. It is now known that Dr. Sun, when he was elected provisional President, promised that he would retire in favor of Yuan Shi-Kai when the convention met, but that after he had been established at Nanking and surrounded by foreign advisers, mostly Japanese, a number of ambitious republicans and upstart radical politicians began to perceive an opportunity to retain power, and gradually shifted their attitude.

Whenever Wu Ting-Fang and Yuan Shi-Kai reached an agreement Sun Yat-Sen would impose new conditions. Finally the abdication of the throne was agreed upon and the edict announcing it was drawn up. The Manchus at their meeting last Friday were to have authorized the appointment of Yuan as the successor of the retiring Regent, and the powers were about to recognize the new Government.

That morning Sun Yat-Sen telegraphed new demands without consulting Wu Ting-Fang, upsetting the whole programme and causing uncertainty and distrust in Peking.

Since then there has been a constant exchange of telegrams between all parties. Wu insists that Sun keep his original agreement, and there has been a very heated correspondence.

As a result the situation, which gave promise of a speedy and satisfactory settlement, is again most precarious. Personal ambitions now overshadow the primary objects of the rebellion.

The arrival of Sun Yat-Sen introduced the element of intrigue and injected a disturbing factor. Whether Sun is personally responsible for this or whether he is being badly advised is not certain.

I understand that Wu Ting-Fang declares the new republican demands to be wrong and impossible of acceptance, and that he threatens to withdraw if they are persisted in. The responsibility, if there is further bloodshed, will thus be exposed.

Dissensions among the republican Generals are also growing.

Chinese busines interests are extremely anxious that hostilities should not be resumed and desire a settlement with Yuan Shi-Kai as head of the Government. THOMAS F. MILLARD.

PEKING, Jan. 23.—Premier Yuan Shi-Kai secretly visited the imperial palace early this morning and concurred with the Empres Dowager in favor of a resumption of hostilities. He suggested that the Manchus sink their differences wholeheartedly and provide the necessary funds for the campaign, but advised awaiting the advance of the revolutionaries.

The advice of Yuan Shi-Kai to await an attack by the rebels is distasteful to the younger Princes, whose talk of war is alarming Peking.

It is persistently reported that Tieh-Liang, formerly Tartar General at Nanking, who is largely responsible for the reaction, advocates the killing of Yuan, whose influence, he thinks, is so great that Yuan should not be permitted to leave the capital.

Yuan evidently foresees the possibility of an attack upon himself, and is adopting extreme precautions. Another 1,000 Chinese troops of the imperial army from Pao-ting-Foo arrived here this evening, making Yuan's force of Chinese 4,000. Against these there are 12,000 Manchu troops of the imperial army, who, it is suspected, are being incited against Yuan.

It is difficult to believe, however, that even the more hotheaded Princes will countenance Yuan's assassination, which would assuredly entail the extinction of the clans, as the majority of the northern troops are loyal only to Yuan Shi-Kai.

Yuan to-day authorized The Associated Press to make the following statement regarding his position:

He is inspired by the desire to serve the best interests of the Chinese people and not the interests of either the republicans or the monarchists. He is seeking no selfish ends, and hopes to continue in office as Premier long enough to cause a proper election of members of the National Assembly or otherwise ascertain the correct view of the majority of the people. As, however, a general election seems difficult to accomplish, considering the attitude of the republican leaders, he desires to bring about peace and some form of substantial government as quickly as possible. He would be willing to resign and deliver the control of the Government to any capable man, who would and could find a solution to the best interests of China. Certain foreign legations have urged him or expressed the hope that he will continue in office, stating that they have confidence in his administration.

"The Empress Dowager after carefully weighing the opinions expressed by the Princes of the imperial clan and leading Manchu officials during yesterday's conference at the palace is inclined to think that the resumption of hostilities is the only solution of the present situation." This statement was made to-day in The North China Daily News, which is always regarded as an organ of the Foreign Board in Peking

In a long telegram sent from Nanking to-day to Wu Ting-Fang, the Minister of Justice, President Sun says he has serious doubts of Yuan Shi-Kai's motives. Therefore he will retain the Presidency until the powers recognize the republic, and unless Yuan Shi-Kai severs his connection with the Manchus and publicly avows his adherence to the republic. Only then would Sun Yat-Sen be willing to retire in favor of Yuan.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 24.—Prince Kung, the leader of the Mongolian antiabdicationists, has offered to raise 50,000 troops to assist in keeping the Manchu dynasty on the throne, according to a dispatch from Tien-Tsin. The money to finance the campaign is to be raised by selling the gold and silver treasures in the imperial palace at Mukden, which are valued at 10,000,000 taels, (approximately $7,000,000.)

It is generally understood, says the Peking correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, that Japanese brains are directing the republican strategy, which aims at developing the main attack in North China, on the coasts of Shan-Tung, and Pe-chi-Li.

municate to you a statement of the Controller showing the condition of the city's debt, and also showing the city's borrowing margin, at the close of Dec. 31, 1911.

And also to communicate to you the reports of the different departments of the City Government under the Mayor for the year 1911.

I particularly call your attention to the narrowness of the city's borrowing margin. Prior to 1910 the city had $47,482,725.18 invested in subway construction which was self-supporting. In the year 1910 the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court exempted this sum from the borrowing margin of the city, fixed by the Constitution of the State, namely, 10 per cent. of the assessed land values as shown by the city assessment rolls. This was done to make the said sum available for purposes of new subway construction, all as provided for in a recent constitutional amendment. On April 8, 1910, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment added $13,000,000 to this sum, thus making a toati of $60,482,725.18 available for subway construction. U to this time $24,106,252.54 thereof have been used in the making of contracts for subway construction. This leaves $36,376,472.64 thereof now available for subway construction.

Margin Needed for Other Uses.

In addition to the above-mentioned sum available for subway construction, there is the total sum of $89,308,223.97 available for any or all municipal purposes which go to reduce the city's borrowing margin, including subway construction. Of this the expenditure of $52,911,047.33 has been heretofore authorized for purposes other than subway construction by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This leaves a balance of $36,397,176.64 still available for such general purposes. This balance will be found to be not more than sufficient for purposes other than subway construction. Indeed, those who have given the matter any attention are of opinion that not less than that amount should always be available and kept unimpaired as a borrowing margin for any emergency or calamity, such as a great fire.

There is an increase in the assessed land values each year, but the increase for the next three years will not be large, for the reason that in the year 1910 there was an extraordinary increase of $800,000,000 in order to give us at once an increase in borrowing margin of $80,000,000 to help us out in the building of subways. The normal increase in land values in that year would not have been more than from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000, which would have given us an increased available margin of only from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. You will perceive, therefore, that except for the said extraordinary increase of $80,000,000 in the borrowing margin in 1910, the said present available borrowing margin of $36,155,843.08 would not now exist at all.

Nothing More in Sight.

The normal increase in assessed values for the next three years will not give us any available borrowing margin for subway construction. It will be needed for other city purposes . If there be any margin over and above such purposes it will be small. And this leaves out of account any fixed borrowing margin for emergency or calamity, which I have mentioned above. Of late years, although there has been comparatively little money used for subway construction, the annual sales of corporate stock or bonds have nevertheless averaged about $55,00,000. This must be taken into account in considering whether there will be any borrowing margin left for Subway purposes out of the increased valuations for the next three or more years, after the other imperative needs of the city are satisfied.

The foregoing facts and figures furnish the reason why so great an effort is being made to get private capital to enter into subway construction. To build the necessary subways with the city's credit or borrowing margin alone will take many years, probably not less than fifteen years, whereas with the aid of private capital they can be built in a much shorter time.

Perhaps I should say here (owing to efforts to pervert the public mind to the contrary belief) that by putting in part of the construction money, or even all of it, the operating companies cannot get a lease for one day longer than if the city put up all of the money and the companies put up none. The period of the leases is fixed by the statute. Whoever puts in the money, whether the city or the companies, a sinking fund is established to pay it out of the earnings, in the very same way, so that it does not matter how the money is put up. The city could put it all up if it had it, but being short in borrowing margin it is very desirable that private capital come in to help.

The Old Interborough Bid.

On Dec. 5, 1910, the operating company of the present Subway offered to help to build all of the extensions of its present route by putting up one-half of the capital, the city to put up the other half, the city and the company to share equally the profits of operation. It did not ask for any subsidy or any guarantee whatever, nor lay down any condition that the city should not build any other subway. This offer was not accepted and the company withdrew it and will not renew it. It now exacts a subsidy or guarantee from the city. A committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has been negotiating with the company for over one year, and it is expected that such negotiations will soon come to an end. But it is no longer expected that the company will renew its former offer. On the contrary, it is known that it will not come to any agreement unless the city guarantees a fixed return on its capital, namely, of about 9 per cent. on the capital which it now has in, and also the same per cent. on the capital that it now offers to put in, namely, one-half of the cost of construction (the city to put in the other half) and the whole cost of equipment, the total being $77,000,000. Having lost the said offer of Dec. 5, 1910, the city must now get the best terms it can, so that the said subways may be built. Respectfully,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Theodore P. Shonts, President of the Interborough, came back yesterday from Chicago, but had nothing to say as to subways. He was in consultation all the afternoon with officials and directors of the company on the company's new offer.

Some speculation was indulged in yesterday at the City Hall as to the attitude the Mayor is likely to take toward the lines that the McAneny committee designed for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit. They include a two-track line under the East River from Brooklyn to the Battery and the Fifty-ninth Street line, neither of which has yet been adopted as rapid transit routes. The Mayor's assent will be required, and for three months he has refused to act on the Fifty-ninth Street line. If he takes the same position with regard to the East River tunnel, the result will be that the city will have built at its own expense a line under Seventh Avenue, Broadway, and Church Street from the Battery to Fifty-ninth Street, which will have connections at neither end.

The B. R. T. in such a case would be not unlikely to refuse to operate it. One possibility that has passed through the Mayor's mind with regard to it is that the city might operate it in connection with the Staten Island ferries, with one-cent transfers to and from the boats.

DUKE, AMAZED BY IT, ENJOYS CITY'S RUSH

DINNER DANCE ITS FINISH

The second day of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia in New York was even more strenuous than the first. They began it by viewing the city and surrounding country, under ideal atmospheric conditions, from the top of the Metropolitan tower, visiting later the private art gallery of J. Pierpont Morgan, Grant's Tomb, Columbia University, and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt was one of the guests at the luncheon yesterday at Ambassador Reid's home. Last night a dinner and small dance were given in honor of their Royal Highnesses and the Princess Patricia by Mrs. Reid, the function being one of the most brilliant of the season.

At the close of a day in which he was jostled by a curious crowd, followed by a battalion of photographers, approached by a Suffragette, and held up by congestion of traffic on Fifth Avenue, the Duke appeared to be immensely pleased with his experiences. He was particularly impressed with the wonderful view from the Metropolitan tower, which gave him a panoramic view of the size and might of the city, and he was amazed not only by the height of the buildings, but by their beauty and efficiency as well. The width of the streets and avenues, as seen from a height of 700 feet, also drew favorable comment from him and he marveled at the beauty and grandeur of Grant's Tomb. He also was highly pleased at what he saw in Mr. Morgan's treasure house of priceless ancient tomes and works of art.

He expressed good-natured surprise at the zeal displayed by the camera men, who form a skirmish line wherever he goes. Yesterday he complied with the urgent request of the battalion of kodakers, as did also the Duchess and the Princess Patricia, and obligingly posed for them.

The entire party looked upon their experience outside the Metropolitan Building, when they were pushed about by a curious but cheering throng, as a rather remarkable one. The Duke and Duchess, and especially Princess Patricia, laughed heartily at the good-natured greetings shouted at them from all sides as they forced their way through the crowd to their automobiles.

The royal visitors showed little or no signs of fatigue when they greeted those who had been asked by Ambassador and Mrs. Reid to meet them at dinner last night. Among the guests at the dinner were Mayor Gaynor, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Choate, ex-Ambassador to France and Mrs. Henry White, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Gen. Horace Porter, Mrs. John Hay, wife of the late Secretary of State; Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, and Mr. anc Mrs. George B. McClellan.

Additional guests came in after the dinner, some coming from the opera. Mme. Gadski and Sarnoff were the artists who appeared after the dinner.

Crush at the Dance.

The guests for the dance began arriving shortly after 10 o'clock. By 11 o'clock the neighborhood was congested with motor cars, the line extending up and down Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets on each side of Madison Avenue two deep for half a block.

The number of guests at the dance was between 200 and 300. Many came as late as midnight, and some who came early departed soon after 12 o'clock.

A coffee wagon stood at the corner of Fiftieth Street and Madison Avenue, and, although the night was not cold, many of the footmen and chauffeurs enjoyed a hot cup of coffee and sandwiches before their long wait was over.

There were many guests from out of town. The majority came after Mrs. Orme Wilson's dinner and musicale, Charles E. Sampson's musicale, Miss Leary's dinner, and a reception to Cardinal Farley.

The Reid home was decorated with palms and cut flowers in vases, Spring flowers being used in abundance and American Beauty roses and orchids. As the guests arrived they were presented to their Royal Highnesses and the Princess Patricia by Mrs. Reid. Many beautiful costumes were worn, and there was a dazzling display of diamonds. The dancing was general, and after midnight a buffet supper was served.

Duke Out Early For a Stroll.

The morning programme carried out by the Duke was an early stroll with Capt. Rivers-Bulkeley, his aid de camp and Controller of the Royal Household. They left the Ambassador's house about 9:30 o'clock, and walked down Madison Avenue for a block, turning west into Fifth Avenue, where they looked in the shop windows, and paused awhile to watch the workmen climbing over the girders of the new addition to the Ritz-Carlton. The Duke seemed to be highly interested in the rapidity with which the girders were placed in position, after being hoisted skyward. Then they returned leisurely to the Reid residence.

Later the royal party left for the Metropolitan Building. John R. Hegeman met them there and conducted the visitors to the tower, supplying them all with powerful glasses. The day was clear and sunshiny, and the Atlantic Ocean, the Orange Mountains, the Statue of Liberty and the harbor stood out clear and sharp. Far below men and women, trolley cars and automobiles, moved hurriedly but aimlessly about like mechanical toys.

The party remained in the tower half an hour, Mr. Hegeman pointing out the different suburbs and naming the tall buildings and parks.

Meantime, in the street below, a crowd was collecting. It soon extended over into Madison Square Park, as the word passed that royalty was viewing the city from the tower. The crowd was so dense, there being no policemen in sight, the ducal visitors hesitated upon their descent to venture out to their limousines. Lieut. William Funston and Inspector Parkinson of the Secret Service of Ottawa were finally compelled to get four special policemen from the building to assist in clearing the way. A suffragette endeavored to approach the Duke to sell her papers, but did not succeed in doing so.

From there the party was whisked up Madison Avenue to the Morgan Art Gallery, at 33 East Thirty-sixth Street, where they were met by J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr. A hurdy-gurdy was grinding out "The Wearing of the Green," and ten little girls from a private school waved their handkerchiefs and cheered as the royal party entered the gallery.

The visitors remained here for about half an hour, Mr. Morgan personally conducting his guests through the art treasures. Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., and Mrs. Herbert Satterlee were among others who welcomed the distinguished guests in the library. When the visitors left they were again met by a battalion of photographers, and finally consented to pose, Ambassador Reid being among the party.

Col. Roosevelt Calls on Connaughts.

Shortly after their return to the Ambassador's home Col. Roosevelt arrived. He had been at the Grand Central Station to meet his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., with their three months old daughter, who came from California to make a six weeks' visit here. The train was two hours late, and the Colonel, after seeing his son and family to their destination, hurried over on foot to the Ambassador's house. He left the house about 2 o'clock, pursued by the camera squad.

It was close on to 3 o'clock when the royal party left in motors for a trip uptown. Ambassador Reid and the Duchess occupied the first car, the Princess riding with the Duke and Capt. Rivers-Bulkeley in a second car. Lieut. Col. Lowther and Miss Pelley rode together in the third car The camera men, undaunted, followed in taxicabs.

The trip up Fifth Avenue was uneventful, except that on several occasions the party was held up by the traffic. At Fifty-ninth Street a man jumped upon the running board of the motor occupied by Lieut. Col. Lowther, but leaped off again, to jump upon another car in the rear, only to be finally chased away by a policeman. Nobody knew who he was or what was his motive.

The automobiles made a quick journey along the east drive of Central Park, and along the way the chauffeur of the Duke's car pointed out the notable residences on Fifth Avenue, Senator Clark's and Andrew Carnegie's among them. The cars proceeded across 110th Street, up Amsterdam Avenue to 116th Street, where a halt was made before the Columbia University Library.

Ambassador and Duchess Lost.

In the rush uptown the car occupied by Ambassador Reid and the Duchess had been left behind, and as they were no where in sight the party then proceeded to Grant's tomb.

After leaving the tomb the Duke and his party were again besieged by the camera men, and they posed for the third time during the day upon the steps of the mausoleum. The Princess seemed to think that she had posed often enough, and with the Duke and Miss Pelley hurried off to her motor.

While they were inside the tomb one of the party set out to find a telephone to locate Ambassador Reid and the Duchess. When it was found that they were awaiting the others at the university library the party whisked around there in short order.

Here they were met, in the absence of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who was unexpectedly kept away, by Dean Frederick A. Goetze, who escorted them into the Trustees' room at the right of the main entrance. Secretary Frank D. Fachenthal was also present. For a few minutes the party studied the oil portraits of former Presidents of the university on the walls, and then the original charter of King George of 1754, which was written on parchment and showed the stain of time, was exhibited to the visitors. This parchment interested the Duke very much, and he read it over carefully.

From the library the party proceeded to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The Very Right Rev. William H. Grosvenor, Dean of the Cathedral, was absent, and the evensong service was just drawing to a close when the party entered the Cathedral.

During the afternoon trip the Duchess wore a long mink coat over a black suit and a black velvet hat topped with gray plumes. Princess Patricia wore a seal coat edged with sable over a blue cloth street costume. Her hat was blue felt, trimmed with asters of many autumnal hues. She also wore a large corsage bouquet of violets. Miss Pelley had on a street gown of cerise and a short seal coat with sable edgings. Her hat was blue, and was topped with dark blue plumes.

After going through the Cathedral the Duke and his party returned to the home of his host.

CALL ON TAFT TO BE BRIEF

But Dinner to Duke Will Be Attended by Several Cabinet Members.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The call which the Duke of Connaught will make on Thursday afternoon on the President will be of the simplest sort. The Duke is coming to Washington alone, and when he visits the White House he will be accompanied only by his Military Secretary, Col. Lowther, and Ambassador Bryce.

The President will receive the Duke in the Blue Room, Major Butt, his military aid, being his only attendant. None of the Cabinet members will be present. The call will be brief, and probably will not last over ten minutes at most.

The dinner at the embassy is one which was planned a month or more ago. The list of guests was made out weeks ago, and therefore was not selected with special reference to the Duke's visit. The guests will number not over thirty, and the list will not be made public, as the affair is regarded as strictly private. It is known, however, that to the original list there have been added the Secretary of State and Attorney General, and Major Gen. Wood, Chief of Staff, who on his journey home from the Philippines made the acquaintance of the Duke at Malta. Secretary Meyer dined with the Duke at Ambassador Reid's residence in New York yesterday.

BLAMES AERO CLUB FOR PAGE'S DEATH

One of Its Officials Encouraged Aviator to Take Too Great Risks, Meet Manager Says.

WILL BAR HIM FROM FIELD

Conflicting Directions to Blame for Accidents in Los Angeles, Head of the Contests Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 23.—"If the Aero Club of America would mind its own business and let us alone, perhaps we would not have accidents," said Manager Ferris to-day. "We have mapped out a programme each day," he continued, "and I am doing all in my power to hold the aviators to the scheduled events; but the representatives of the Aero Club are continually arranging things which conflict with our plans."

"Page was as gallant a youngster as ever got enthusiastic over aviation, and his death was due solely to his enthusiasm. He was anxious to make a record, and was more interested in furthering the advance of aviation than he was in making a personal record, but because the Aero Club tries to give orders about flying he was there when he had no business to be. If he had waited he might have escaped. An Aero Club official told him to go after a record with Beachy. I will find out who that official was and bar him from the field if it outlaws the whole bunch."

GHASTLY JOKE BY BEACHY.

Aviator Leads Los Angeles Crowd to Think He Has Fallen.

Lincoln Beachy, who has been one of the fliers at the meet played a ghastly joke to-day on a crowd that was still on edge as a result of the tragic fall of Rutherford Page yesterday

After several thrilling dips, Beachy rose to 400 feet, and then made a sheer drop and disappeared in the gulch where Arch Hoxsie fell to his death a year ago. From the grand stand it appeared that Beachy had fallen, and when he did not reappear after an interval of more than a minute, automobiles with doctors, mechanicians, and reporters went to the foot of the hill. Three minutes later Beachy reappeared at the north end of the course, flew past the grand stand, and laughingly waved to the crowd.

Although the day was devoid of accidents, H. Kearney of St. Louis had two narrow escapes in the five-mile handicap—first when his engine stopped while "banking" and a moment later when the "wash" from the propeller of a stationary aeroplane almost capsized his machine.

Races, altitude, and trick flights made up the day's programme. The figure-eight contest between Phil O. Parmalee and Lincoln Beachy furnished several intense moments. Parmalee won in 1:05 2-5. Beachy's time was 1:09 4-5. Parmalee also captured the altitude honors for the day, reaching a height of 7,500 feet.

MR. UNTERMYER EXPLAINS.

When THE TIMES's telegram from Washington announcing that he would appear before the Committee on Rules on Friday in connection with the so-called money inquiry, was shown yesterday to Samuel Untermyer, he said:

"That is a little misleading. It is true that I have agreed in response to the persistent demand of the committee to meet with them on Friday morning, but I have not been asked, and have no intention of appearing in the capacity of a witness or of volunteering anything in the nature of testimony. The Committee on Rules has no power to summon witnesses, and nothing of that kind is contemplated. I am neither the sponsor nor the champion of this resolution, and did not know of its existence until weeks after it had been introduced.

"I have, however, advised the committee, at its request, and have stated in public addresses and elsewhere that we shall never be able to solve either the trust or currency questions until we understand the sources and operation of the money power that dominates them all. For that reason I favor a conservative, painstaking, non-partisan investigation at the proper time. The subject is, however, one of the utmost delicacy and difficulty, which must not be made the football of politics or used for sensational or muckraking purposes. The exposure of existing abuses that must be made as the basis rily create a certain amount of unrest, but that can be minimized by dealing with the subject in an unemotional way."

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

PRR

Service that Scores.

Service covers a multitude of details. A big bank of capital is the foundation stone. Ability to foresee, skill to adapt turns this capital into utilities for the convenience, comfort and safety of the traveling public. Nothing is done haphazard; it is all worked out from the minutest detail. Within fifteen years the Pennsylvania System has been reconstructed. That means a twentieth century railroad with every facility that money, skill and science can supply. Its construction typifies the ripest work of modern engineers. Its operation is in the hands of men who know their respective section of the line as they know their alphabet.

Given perfect physical conditions, equipment is the next consideration.

Nothing has been skimped here. The Pennsylvania is the first road to adopt and use all-steel equipment from engine to observation platform. The superiority of such cars has been tested as to their security—their easy running qualities are known to travelers.

They are safe and sanitary, their furnishing is complete and the personal attendants are picked people. The limited trains are elongated hotels with all the features of a hotel that can be reproduced in a moving vehicle.

Time was when a long trip was anticipated with anxiety, now it is a distinct pleasure. Even a business trip becomes a holiday jaunt for the nonce.

PANAMA PLOT HATCHED HERE

Letter from First President to Son Says We Backed Revolution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—In anticipation of his appearance before the House Foreign Affairs Committee next Thursday in advocacy of an investigation of the creation of the Republic of Panama, Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois made public to-day what purports to be a letter written by the late Dr. Amador, first President of Panama, to his son, Dr. Raol Amador, relative to what Mr. Rainey characterizes as the "alleged" Panama revolution on Nov. 3, 1903. The letter bears the date of October, 1903, and is regarded by Mr. Rainey as proof that the Panama revolution was planned in the United States. It says:

> New York, Oct. 18, 1903.
> Dear Little Son: The reason for your coming was for you to meet Bunau Varilla, to whom I have spoken of you. He said that if all turns out well you shall have a good place on the Medical Commission, which is the first that will begin work; that my name is in Hay's office and that certainly nothing will be refused you.
>
> The plan seems to me good. A portion of the Isthmus declares itself independent and that portion the United States will not allow any Colombian forces to attack. An Assembly is called and this gives authority to a Minister to be appointed by the new government, in order to make a treaty without need of ratification by that Assembly. The treaty being approved by both parties, the new republic remains under the protection of the United States, and to it are added the other districts of the Isthmus which do not already form part of the new republic, and these also remain under the protection of the United States.
>
> The movement will be delayed a few days. We want to have here the Minister who is going to be named, so that once the movement is made he can be appointed by cable and take up the treaty. In thirty days everything will be concluded.
>
> We have some resources on the movement being made, and already this has been arranged with a bank.
>
> As soon as everything is arranged I will tell B. V. to look out for you.
>
> He says if you do not wish to go he will look out for a position for you in New York. He is a man of great influence.
>
> Your affectionate father, AMADOR.

Bunau Varilla, though a French citizen, was the first American Minister of the United States to the republic of Panama. He never made any secret of the fact that the revolution was planned here and had the support of the Roosevelt Administration. Only recently Col. Roosevelt himself in a speech boasted of how he "took" Panama from Colombia.

RICHESON PRAISES JAILERS.

Weak and Haggard, He So Expresses Himself to Prison Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 23.—The Committee on Prisons of the Boston City Council received to-day a personal assurance from the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson that he had nothing but praise for the treatment he is receiving at the hands of Sheriff Quinn and the jail attendants.

The committee was making its semiannual inspection of the Charles Street Jail, and spoke to the condemned murderer, who appeared to them to be very weak and haggard. When they entered his cell Richeson was pacing it slowly, his head bent in thought and both hands clasped behind him.

NOW DECLARE BACON REWROTE THE BIBLE

Baconians' Latest Belief Is That He Put the Style Into the Authorized Version.

THEOLOGIANS ARE SCORNFUL

And with a Few Statements of Fact Dispose of the Theory—Bacon Did Not Have Time, for One Thing.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Baconians now declare that their hero wrote the Bible in the authorized English version.

T. W. Smedley, at the Bacon Society dinner to-day, said the final revision of the authorized version was handed to King James in 1609 and returned by him completed in 1610. During that year a stylist had been at work, and it was not King James.

In Mr. Smedley's opinion there was only one stylist in England at that time.

Theologians and Biblical scholars in New York were amazed last night when they were informed of this latest theory of the Baconian school. They wondered whether its proponent was prepared to support his assertions by the discovery of cryptograms in the Sacred Text, and were in no way disposed to discuss the matter seriously. The historical facts of the preparation of the Authorized Version, they declared, made the idea preposterous.

The Authorized Version is the work of a commission of forty-seven scholars, presided over by Bancroft, Archbishop of Canterbury. It was the result of the Hampton Court Conference of 1604, which petitioned King James I. to prefer the Genevan Bible to the Great and Bishop's Bibles, or else order a new translation. The commission was then formed, and was at work for seven years, publishing the Authorized Version in 1611. Its English has always been justly admired and has undoubtedly had a profound effect in fashioning the present English tongue, and there is nothing in it that suggests that it has ever gone through such a hasty revision as a busy man like Bacon would have been able to give it.

At the period when this translation was made Bacon was Solicitor General of England. He was deeply immersed in all the politics and intrigues of his time, and it is regarded as absurd to suppose that he could possibly have found time to revise, even from the mere stylist's point of view, such a library of volumes as the Bible really is. Moreover, a revision of the style would be certain to affect the accuracy of the translation. A remarkable point in the revised version, made twenty years ago, was the small number of emendations found necessary in the Old Testament. The changes in the New Testament, which were more numerous, were necessitated by the revision of the Greek text and a more profound knowledge of the Greek language. None of them was the correction of an error which might have been caused by a stylist touching up from the literary point of view a bald translation.

Consequently, to accept this latest theory of the Baconians, the Bible scholars said last night, it would be necessary to assume that a busy lawyer and politician found time not only to write the plays of Shakespeare, but to go through a word of very great length and polish its translation with quite remarkable attention to the original versions. To state the case, the theologians maintained, was to disprove it.

CANALEJAS NOT TO RESIGN.

But His Statement That There Was No Crisis Is Hardly Credited.

MADRID, Jan. 23.—The unexpected and mysterious Ministerial crisis appears to have ended as abruptly and inexplicably as it began.

Premier Canalejas, on leaving the birthday reception at the Palace to-day, told reporters that the King had just questioned him about the reports of his resignation, and had asked to be informed upon the exact situation.

The Premier said he answered that he knew nothing about the matter, except that his fall had been announced everywhere, and added that for his part, in view of the persistence of the reports, he was quite disposed to quit.

The King, however, said he would not hear of such a thing. Premier Canalejas declared to the newspaper men that the reports in question were fabricated in the lobbies of the Chambers, and that Parliament would resume its labors normally to-morrow.

The Premier's statement has been received with incredulity. The general conviction is that something really happened, but an unfavorable impression was created on public opinion by the unexpected news of the fall of the Cabinet, and for some unknown reason all idea of a Ministerial change has been abandoned.

Queen Wilhelmina Convalescent.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 23.—An official communication to-day confirms the report that the hopes of the birth of an heir to the throne of the Netherlands had been shattered. The condition of Queen Wilhelmina, who has been indisposed for some days, is now stated by the physicians in attendance to be satisfactory.

J. P. Morgan Sails for Egypt.

VILLEFRANCHE, Jan. 23.—J. Pierpont Morgan left here to-day for Egypt on board the steamship Adriatic.

Republicans to Discuss Primary Law.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 23.—William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, issued a call to-day for a meeting of the committee in New York City on Saturday next to hear the report of the Sub-Committee on Primary Law Amendments. The Republican members of the Legislature will be urged to refrain from trying to amend the primary law.

FAIL TO GET FUND FOR LONDON Y. M. C. A.

REBUFF FROM J. P. MORGAN

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Falling short of the required amount by over £30,000, London's twelve-day campaign to raise £100,000 in aid of the Young Men's Christian Association funds closed to-night with the total standing at £66,677.

Naturally every one is disappointed that the full amount was not obtained within the specified time, but collecting will go on until the object is attained. The big subscriptions which all hoped for did not materialize, although strenuous efforts were made in this direction.

Among those appealed to to save the day was J. Pierpont Morgan, who was seen by Mr. Arbuthnot, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee. Mr. Morgan politely but firmly declined, saying he had enough to do to look after the needs of his own country. A similar reply was given by Lord Strathcona, referring to Canada, and he added:

"London ought to be ashamed of itself if it could not raise a million pounds for such an object."

Among others appealed to were W. R. Hearst and John Wanamaker, with no result.

Charles S. Ward of New York, Secretary of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, who organized the campaign, will sail for New York in the Arabic on Thursday. He is naturally disappointed that the campaign was not a complete success, but told a New York Times correspondent that from an educational point of view it was most successful. He added:

"It has taken so much time to overcome the deep-seated antipathy to the association's work in London in recent years on account of its narrowness that the time set for collecting the money was not long enough. Another reason is that most of the wealthy people are away from England, but it is universally agreed here that one achievement of the campaign has been the presenting to England of the broad ideas of the modern association.

"You can say that there is no difference between the people of England and those of America in the matter of generosity. The difference is with the association. It has been the greatest educational campaign with which I have ever been connected."

Mr. Ward received many congratulations at the final meeting of the collectors to-night, the greatest enthusiasm prevailing. He promised to come back in the Summer.

LOWTHER'S RUSSIAN MISSION.

Plan to Foster Emperor's Friendship Criticised in London.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Headed by James William Lowther, Speaker of the House of Commons, a distinguished party, including a number of members of Parliament, Peers, Bishops, and men of affairs, left for Russia to-day. The object of the visit is the desire of persons of various political views and public interests to develop further the ties that exist between the two countries.

The party will be received by the Emperor on its arrival, and will pay visits to St. Petersburg, Moscow, and other cities.

The visit has given rise to considerable controversy. Radical opponents of Sir Edward Grey's policy of friendship toward Russia attack the visit as ill-timed, in view of the alleged ill-treatment of the Persians by Russian, while other persons returned the invitations to accompany the party, which were sent to them, on the ground that the real aim of the visit is to facilitate the development of Anglo-Russian railways and other enterprises in Persia, and not to promote the friendship of the Russian and British peoples as is claimed.

LONDON HONORS EARL GREY.

Third Member of His Family to Receive Freedom of the City.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—To Earl Grey, ex-Governor General of Canada, the freedom of the City of London was presented to-day. The ceremony took place with the usual picturesque historic observances.

Earl Grey is the third member of his family to receive the honor of the freedom of the City of London. This forms a precedent in the annals of the ancient city. The first Earl, who was a distinguished General, was awarded the freedom after he had conducted a successful West Indian campaign, while the present Earl's grandfather received the distinction for his efforts as Premier on behalf of the great reform bill enfranchising the majority of the people of Great Britain and Ireland.

Earl Grey, in the course of a speech in which he thanked the Corporation of the City of London for the conferment of its freedom on him, said that he recognized that it was the desire of the City of London to do the fullest honor in its power to the spirit of the people of Canada, which some day was destined to be a controlling part of the British Empire.

The day was approaching, he said, when Canadians would be ready to assume the full status of partners in the responsibilities and obligations as well as in the privileges of the empire. The desire to acquire as soon as possible the fullest measure of imperial citizenship was growing among the most thoughtful people of Canada. All must rejoice, he concluded, at this evidence of the quickening of self-respect in an adult and no longer an adolescent nation.

NEW GERMAN PANAMA BOAT.

Ship of 16,500 Tons to Sail Between New York and Valparaiso.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—Germans are beginning to interest themselves more actively from day to day in what will follow the opening of the Panama Canal.

It is announced to-day that the Hamburg-American Line has given to the Weser Shipyard at Bremen an order for a special type of Panama Canal vessel. The Hamburg-American Company stated in its annual report last week that its shipbuilding programme would require to be considerably increased in view of the expected heavy increase of traffic through the canal.

To-night's Berliner Neueste Nachrichten makes an editorial appeal to the United States Government to be moderate in fixing the canal charges. It says the Isthmian waterway is destined before long to offer to the Suez Canal the sharpest sort of competition for traffic bound for the Far East.

The Neueste Nachrichten points out that America can afford to be generous in regard to canal fees because, unlike the Suez Canal, the Panama Canal is not essentially a moneymaking enterprise, while the United States is so rich that it does not need to think of recouping itself for the cost of the canal from its revenue.

HAMBURG, Jan. 23.—The Hamburg-American Line has just placed a contract for the construction of a steamer which is to be attached to the passenger service to Panama, which was foreshadowed in the annual report presented to the stockholders on Jan. 16.

At that date it was announced that the capital of the company was to be increased by $6,250,000, with the idea of providing for expansion in order to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by the opening of the Panama Canal.

The new steamer ordered for the Hamburg-American Line is to displace 16,500 tons, and will ply between New York and Valparaiso.

KAISER MAY QUIT POTSDAM.

May Also Close Palaces to the Public if Socialist Is Elected.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—The Tages-Zeitung, one of the leading papers of Potsdam, says there is foundation for the rumor that the Kaiser will boycott Potsdam and remove his residence to a more loyal clime if the constituency elects a Socialist to the Reichstag the day after to-morrow.

The paper also says that his Majesty threatens to bar the public from the palaces and other show places of Potsdam, while the military authorities are considering the transfer of the three principal guard regiments.

The Radicals and Socialists denounce the reports as an attempt to intimidate the voters of Potsdam.

Herr Liebknecht, the Socialist candidate, led his Conservative opponent, the Burgomaster of Potsdam, by 600 votes on the first ballot on Jan. 12, and his election on Thursday seems probable.

It is officially announced that the new Reichstag will be opened in state by the Kaiser on Feb. 7. The new naval and military bills will immediately be submitted. Practically all the parties except the Socialists favor them, so the presence of 100 or more "Reds" will not seriously embarrass the Kaiser's Ministry.

ITALIAN CENSOR KEPT BUSY.

Stops Dispatches About Kiderlen-Waechter's Visit to Vatican.

CHIASSO, (on the Italian-Swiss Frontier,) Jan. 23.—The Italian Government is afflicted by a new spell of censorship.

Last Saturday the censor stopped my telegram saying simply that Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter, the German Foreign Secretary, would visit Cardinal Merry del Val the next day, and yesterday he stopped dispatches giving information concerning the conversation between the two personages, thus forcing correspondents again to have recourse to the frontier for the transmission of messages. The uselessness of such measures is only equal to the inocuousness of the news which the censor attempts to stop.

The conversation between Cardinal Merry del Val and the German Minister dealt with the questions, religious or otherwise, pending between Germany and the Holy See, chiefly that in the Diocese of Posen, where the conflict is still most acute between the Poles, who wish for a Polish Bishop, and Berlin, which insists on having a German. The influence of the Holy See to induce the Poles to accept a German was asked.

Cardinal Merry del Val also took the opportunity to hint that the Vatican also needs the assistance of a great power like Germany, having now 25,000,000 Catholics, to find a solution of the unbearable situation in Rome, which is becoming daily worse, as is shown by Mayor Nathan's speech insulting the Pope as the head of Catholicism.

LIFE SAVERS NEARLY STARVE.

Cut Off from Outside World for Three Weeks, Live on Half Rations.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 23.—Members of the Government Life-Saving crew at Little Beach, after subsisting on half rations for three weeks, managed to reach here to-day for a new supply of provisions. Although only twelve miles distant it took the crew nearly twenty-four hours to make the trip because of the ice through which they had to break their way.

The crew was iced in on Christmas Day, and since then has been cut off from the outside world. When the ice started to break up a few days ago, attempts were made to get out, but these proved failures. On Sunday night their food was about exhausted, and prompt measures were necessary. Leaving the station with four men, Capt. Bennett started at daylight yesterday morning. It required until nightfall to break through the ice to the outside channel. Axes and boathooks were used to cut a lane through the foot of salt ice.

After reaching the outside inlet the crew took the ocean route to this city, arriving at 10 o'clock this morning. Early this afternoon the surfmen started on the return trip to carry back food to two men who had been left behind.

RUSSIA AND SHUSTER COULD HAVE AGREED

If He Had Consented to Work Secretly in Persia for Russian and British Interests.

PERSIA OFFERED CONCESSION

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—W. Morgan Shuster to-day made a further statement to The New York Times correspondent. He said:

"It is said that during my term of office I tried to foster American interests in Persia. I wish to state, first, that there are no American interests in Persia; second, that the political predominance of Russia and Great Britain would make such a proceeding difficult in the extreme; third, that if I had been asked my opinion as to the desirability of American capitalists making an effort to gain a footing in Persia I should have strongly advised against it; fourth, that during the whole term of my office as Treasurer General I never heard of American capitalists contemplating entering Persia; fifth, that I was frequently asked by leaders of the Mejliss (Parliament) to request American financiers to take an interest in Persia and persistently refused even to write a letter on the subject to any American capitalist.

"It was the Persians' design to get Americans interested in the country, and on Nov. 29, the day of Russia's ultimatum, members of the Mejliss asked me to draft a bill for building a railroad from Julfa to Tabriz and Teheran, leaving the names of the concessionaires blank. It was the Persian scheme to push the bill through the Mejliss in a few minutes, and then I was to fill in the blanks with the names of whatever American financiers I chose to suggest.

"By this move Persia hoped to obtain the support of the American Government before the expiration of the Russian ultimatum, and at the same time prevent the Russians from coming to Persia's political capital."

Concerning the Russian charge that he, although an able business man, is not a diplomatist, Mr. Shuster said:

"What Russia wanted me to do was ostensibly to serve Persia while in reality secretly working in furtherance of Russian and British interests. If this is Russia's idea of diplomacy, I am not a diplomatist."

Mrs. Shuster was also interviewed and said:

"No more of those queer countries for me! The United States is good enough for me. We really had a very anxious time. For weeks while my husband was fighting against the intrigues of foreign powers, the children's clothes were kept packed and their toys put away, ready for an immediate flight in case we were obliged to start without warning.

"I don't mind admitting that I was mighty glad when we left Teheran. It was the end of an almost unendurable nerve strain."

TO JOIN WEAVERS' UNIONS.

Three Workers Who Caused All the Trouble in Lancashire Give Way.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Riley and Margaret Bury, the three Lancashire non-unionist weavers who caused the cotton lockout, have now given way.

The Rileys are to have work at another mill, where they say they will join the union. Miss Bury will do likewise.

Work in the Lancashire spinning mills is to be resumed on full time, owing to the ending of the weavers' lockout.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Riley and Miss Margaret Bury, Lancashire weavers, last December caused strikes at the mills in which they were employed by reason of their persistent refusal to join the Weavers' Unions.

WALTERS ANGRY IN LONDON.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Eugene Walters, whose play, "The Easiest Way," is to be produced at the Globe Theatre here on Feb. 10 by a company headed by Sara Brooke, arrived in London this week for the purpose of superintending the rehearsals, but after being present at one rehearsal came to the conclusion that he was not wanted, and therefore eliminated himself. He brought over with him Laura Nelson Hall, who is to play her original part of Ellie, and Violet Rand, the original Annie.

When Mr. Walters attended the rehearsal he, as is his wont, took off his coat and started in to rehearse.

"I soon found," he says, "that I was up against a person nowadays called the stage director, but who in old days was known as the stage manager, who knew his business and did it. He wanted to do things his own way, evidently knowing more about the play than the author, so I quit, and if they want me they can send for me."

Mr. Walters had a previous painful experience in London, his "Paid in Full," after receiving fulsome praise from the London critics, having "died like a dog," to use his own expression, after a fortnight's run.

Mr. Walters is not very optimistic over the prospects of "The Easiest Way." He said:

"It is a great question to my mind whether the English people are keen about American plays, and in these days of stage directors, who are mainly a crop of dignified parasites calling themselves by that name and whose chief stock in trade is bluff, together with incompetent actors built up by commercial reasons, what chance has an author got? I am not referring to the company which is to play 'The Easiest Way,' for I consider it very strong and capable, but merely to the system, which suffers by comparison with the good old days. In America an author has carte blanche, but it is different here, where the stage director holds sway."

Mr. Walters, who has been indisposed since his arrival as a result of an exceedingly rough voyage, may sail on Saturday.

SABLE SKINS $90 EACH.

At Least Forty of Them Go to a Long Coat—Excited Sale in London.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Furs are likely to be higher in price owing to the edict of the Duma of last Sept. 23, restricting the hunting of sables throughout the Czar's dominions.

This coming restriction of supply was responsible for a scene of considerable excitement in the public salesrooms in London this afternoon. The occasion was one of the periodical sales of skins and furs which take place in London four times a year—in January, March, June, and October.

The room was packed with a polyglot crowd of 250 dealers drawn from the four corners of the earth. The excitement was due to the fact that 1,044 Russian sables, the first offered in a public market since the passing of the edict, were to be sold.

Prices were high from the start. Ermine skins fetched anything from a few shillings to over 300s. ($75) for forty skins, of course undressed. At the other end of the scale were tails of mink, which went for as little as a penny (2 cents) each.

There was fierce competition for sable, as much as 360s. ($90) being paid for a single skin. When it is remembered that a sable is about the same size as a domestic cat, that it takes anywhere from forty skins upward to make a long sable coat, and that the price is the price of the raw skin only, it is readily seen that sable coats are not yet going to become everyday wear.

SNUB FOR GOV. BLEASE.

Legislature Expunges His Message on Libel Law.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 23.—The friction between the Legislature and Gov. Cole L. Blease to-night reached its climax in the decision of the House to expunge from its journal all but the first two paragraphs of the Governor's recent message on the so-called libel bill.

The vote, which followed a day devoted to argument, was 86 to 263 in favor of expunging from the record that part of the Governor's message which contained a bitter attack upon the press of South Carolina.

BRITISH PEERS GO TO HAMMERSTEIN'S AID

A COMMITTEE BEING FORMED

Argyll Likely to be Chairman, and the Prospects of a Summer Season Are Very Good.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Word was received by Oscar Hammerstein to-day from Lord Howard de Walden accepting a seat on the committee that is being formed for the purpose of procuring subscriptions for a Summer season at the London Opera House. With it also was an intimation that Lord Howard de Walden would take two £500 boxes, and that he would be pleased to do all that he could to induce his friends to subscribe.

The Chairmanship of the committee was offered to Lord Howard de Walden, but he declined it, saying the Duke of Argyll would be the proper person. The Duke has already expressed his willingness to do everything in his power to retain Mr. Hammerstein's opera for London, and, with two such prominent persons actively interested, the prospects that Mr. Hammerstein will get the necessary support are very good.

An influential committee is now in process of formation, and within the next few days an important announcement of its plans is expected.

Naturally Mr. Hammerstein feels much more hopeful over the future, realizing the importance of Lord Howard de Walden's assistance.

The support of Lord Howard de Walden is a most important aid to Mr. Hammerstein, as the young peer has a unique position in England. He is one of the richest men in the world, and quite the richest bachelor in the United Kingdom. He is one of the great landlords of London, all his property having passed to him from his great-aunt, Lady Ossington, who inherited it from her brother, the late eccentric Duke of Portland. His London possessions include acres in the Hampstead district and a square mile of real estate in the Marylebone quarter. This section alone yields Lord Howard an annual income of $1,500,000.

The support of the Duke of Argyll is no less important to Mr. Hammerstein. He is the husband of the Princess Louise, one of the daughters of Queen Victoria, and his social influence is naturally very great. Like Lord Howard, he is also an author, and he once wrote the libretto for a musical work.

TO BOARD UP BELFAST SHOPS

Merchants Fear Rioting—Troops to be Held in Readiness.

BELFAST, Jan. 23.—Several regiments of cavalry and infantry have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to come to Belfast at short notice in consequence of the passions awakened among both Nationalists and Unionists by the announcement of the coming home rule demonstration. The manoeuvres of the Unionists to blockade Ulster Hall, where the home rule demonstration is to take place, has incensed the Liberals and Nationalists and trouble looms up distinctly.

Brig. Gen. Count Gleichen, the commanding officer of the district, is returning from Switzerland, where he has been on vacation.

The merchants of the city are arranging to barricade and board up their properties in the vicinity of Ulster Hall.

The Corporation of the city has agreed to let Ulster Hall to the unionists for the purpose of a demonstration on Feb. 7, the day preceding the meeting at which Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists in the House of Commons, are announced to speak there in favor of home rule. The Unionist meeting is believed to be a scheme by which the Unionists will retain possession of the hall and thus keep the Nationalists from holding their demonstration the next day.

GETS AN ALIMONY DODGER.

Ex-Wife Meets Him in Subway and Has Him Locked Up.

Clad in a long sealskin coat and a large picture hat, a woman who said she was Mrs. Elise S. Miller, 30 years old, of 55 South Ninth Street, Brooklyn, appeared before Magistrate Breen last night in the Men's Night Court as complainant against her husband, Alexander, 36 years old, whom she said she met in a Subway train last night, two and a half years after he had been ordered to pay her alimony, pending a divorce.

Mrs. Miller said that her husband, who was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct, disappeared shortly after being ordered to pay her alimony. Last night's meeting was the first since his disappearance, she said, and he abused her and used loud and profane language. Miller admitted this, and was held in $500 bail to keep the peace for one month. In default of bail he was taken to the detention pen.

HITCHCOCK FOR TAFT, HE LOUDLY DECLARES

For His Renomination "as Strong as a Man Can Be," Says Postmaster General.

INDIGNANT AT 'ANTI' REPORTS

Hopes No Friend of His Believes He Has Been Helping McHarg Boom Roosevelt.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Postmaster General Hitchcock took occasion to-day, on going to the Cabinet meeting, to denounce as utterly false and without shadow of foundation the stories that have been circulated recently to the effect that he was disloyal to President Taft and had been assisting in the organization and work of the movement that is going on to obtain the nomination of Col. Roosevelt for the Presidency by the Republican National Convention at Chicago next June. As Mr. Hitchcock went to the White House for the regular Tuesday Cabinet meeting he said:

"I am for Taft as strong as a man can be. I did not realize until a day or two ago how far these stories about my alleged differences with the President were going. There is absolutely no foundation for any of them."

Mr. Hitchcock stayed for some special conferences after the Cabinet meeting had adjourned, and reverting to the subject, said:

"It makes me indignant to think that any friend of mine could for a moment listen to stories that I have ever been anything but loyal to Taft. I dislike very much to say even as much as this, because I cannot think that any friend of mine would for one minute believe any of the stories that have been printed."

Mr. Hitchcock added that he was chagrined to think that newspaper correspondents so familiar with affairs in Washington as are the men who have been writing the stories charging him with disloyalty to the President would be willing to circulate such baseless charges against him.

These charges have been predicated chiefly upon the activities of Ormsby McHarg, who was associated with Mr. Hitchcock in the campaign of four years ago for the nomination and election of Mr. Taft. In these stories it has been assumed, because Mr. McHarg was then on confidential and friendly relations with Mr. Hitchcock, that he is, of course, still on the same terms with the Postmaster General. And the fact that Mr. McHarg in his recent activities in behalf of Col. Roosevelt has been visiting and working with men who four years ago were assisting Mr. Hitchcock in the effort to nominate and elect Mr. Taft has been used to bolster up the theory that Mr. Hitchcock must necessarily now be directing or at least conniving at the movements of Mr. McHarg.

This argument entirely overlooks the palpable fact that Mr. McHarg, because of his work four years ago, must have become acquainted with the very men whom he is now visiting and must have known their political capabilities. Of course, when he sets out now to work for the Roosevelt movement, the most natural step for him to take is to consult the very men whom his experience of 1908 showed to be the Republican leaders in their districts and States. But the assumption that Mr. McHarg is now on friendly relations with Mr. Hitchcock is entirely without foundation. Those relations between the two men, as a matter of fact, ceased some time ago.

Mr. McHarg is associated with the law firm of Noble, Jackson & Hubbard of New York City. This is the firm which was concerned with the steel wire pool, which was prosecuted by the Department of Justice last year. Mr. Jackson of that firm was indicted on several counts, and was fined $45,000.

Mr. McHarg's firm has been representing some of the magazine publishers in their opposition to the proposal of the Postmaster General for an increase in the postage rate on second-class mail. They are vitally interested in defeating Mr. Hitchcock in this move. On several occasions within the last few months Mr. McHarg has come to Washington to see the Postmaster General, and has indicated that he considered himself entitled, partly because of old associations and partly because of the business in which he was engaged, to special consideration from the Postmaster General. Mr. Hitchcock, however, has always declined to treat Mr. McHarg in any way differently from the way in which he treated all others appearing before him on magazine matters.

Mr. McHarg has not been at all pleased with his inability to obtain some special consideration for his clients, and friends of the Postmaster General asserted to-day that they were not surprised to find Mr. McHarg silent while stories questioning the loyalty of the Postmaster General to President Taft were being circulated.

It is well known that the Postmaster General has taken no active part in the politics of the Administration for the last two years. He retired voluntarily from active political management because he desired to devote himself exclusively to the business of the Post Office Department. Mr. Hitchcock became a member of the Cabinet at a personal sacrifice, which involved the refusal of business offers which would have been of decided advantage to him financially.

When Charles D. Norton resigned as Secretary to the President, and before Mr. Hilles was selected for that place, the President asked Mr. Hitchcock to resume the active management of the political affairs of the Administration. This request was made with full knowledge of it on the part of Mr. Hilles, and he was in thorough accord with it. Mr. Hitchcock then asked the President to excuse him, and pointed out that he was wholly absorbed in the business administration of his department, and that, moreover, the department was under a double fire from Congress, where the Committees on Post Offices and Post Roads in both House and Senate, numbered in their membership men hostile to him, who were seeking to make as much trouble as they could for him and for the Administration.

The President regarded Mr. Hitchcock's reasons for declining the political management as thoroughly sound, and acquiesced in Mr. Hitchcock's plan to devote himself entirely to the work of the Post Office Department. But while Mr. Hitchcock has not been active in the management of the Administration's political affairs, it may be said advisedly that he has not hesitated to lend his assistance to the work that Mr. Hilles is doing, and that he will continue to do so whenever and as long as there is any occasion for his services.

PAY CARNEGIE HIS FEE.

Check for $22.70 Sent Him for Testimony in Steel Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Andrew Carnegie will have received by to-morrow his fee for the testimony he gave the Steel Trust Investigating Committee. When on the stand Mr. Carnegie said he would not take the money, but later a duly attested voucher with his signature attached was received from New York. Payment was refused because a notorial seal was omitted.

"I know these formalities are trying," wrote Jerry South, disbursing officer of the House, in returning the voucher to Mr. Carnegie, "but a certain amount of red tape must be unwound and a government official is at the spool end."

The voucher in proper form was received to-day, and a check for $22.70 was remitted to Mr. Carnegie by return mail.

Would Dissolve Telephone Trust.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The petition of George Lambert, a Justice of the Peace of Pelham, N. Y., for the dissolution of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, on the ground that it is a monopoly in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, was received by the Department of Justice to-day. The department has been investigating the corporation for several weeks, to ascertain its relation to the Sherman law.

champing his jaws. It was Mr. Yurann's turn to play, and he thought he made a pretty good shot when he said:

"I have told all my friends in Kansas and the West that while you are not seeking the nomination you are a patriot and will serve your country, if needed."

The Colonel looked all around the office. He did not notice the scorpions of the press if they were there, and they say they were, and then he is alleged to have lowered his voice and replied almost in a whisper:

"Most assuredly."

When Mr. Yurann left the office he is quoted as having declared triumphantly:

"Ah, the way is now clear. The Colonel's statement means that he is going to be the nominee. He cannot refuse the demand that will grow up for him."

A Few Facts Not in Dispute.

When this story came out with black heads and every kind of modern and antique type in the composing rooms of the afternoon newspapers it caused a sensation. Reporters began chasing about the town looking for Messrs. Yurann and Conkling. It was learned on fairly good authority that Mr. Yurann is a Republican, that he admires the Colonel, that Kansas is a State with a surface that gently undulates, that Blue Rapids has a population of 1,400, that it lies near the Nebraska border, and is subject to high winds. Mr. Yurann could not be located nor could Mr. Conkling, although his office and home addresses were dug out. At his office it was said that he is never there except early in the mornings, unless the occasion is special, and at his home it was said:

"Mr. Conkling never sees anybody here."

At the office of The Outlook, Mr. Wardrop, the Colonel's assistant secretary, said that he remembered distinctly the call of Mr. Yurann, also he remembered distinctly that the Colonel saw him, but more distinctly than all did he remember that there were no reporters within ear shot or eye sight during the brief interview between the Colonel and Messrs. Yurann and Conkling. He, himself, did not hear what was said, but he was strongly of the opinion that what had been printed concerning the interview was completely and wholly inaccurate. He intimated that it must be untrue or it would not have been printed.

Then the reporters hurried up to the home of Douglas Robinson, where the Colonel stays. A taciturn servant came to the door and declared that Col. Roosevelt would see no reporters. The reporters wanted to know why. It seemed a foolish question, but it met with this unexpected answer:

"The Colonel is now talking to a lot of men upstairs."

The servant was prevailed upon to carry a card up, but it was intercepted at the head of the stairs, and a strong masculine voice announced:

"The Colonel will see nobody here. There will be a statement given out at The Outlook office a little later."

Yurann Vaguely Recalled.

This looked like business, and the flying squadron of newspapermen rushed back to The Outlook, where Secretary Harper appeared and handed out this:

> Mr. Yurann is a total stranger, although I have a vague recollection of his having called once before. It is, of course, an absurdity to suppose that I would select such a means to make known my position. If at any time I have any statement to make I will make it over my own signature.

The foregoing statement was without the Colonel's signature. Mr. Harper was asked about Mr. Yurann, but he appeared to have no knowledge concerning him.

"The Colonel is having plenty of fun, isn't he?" it was suggested.

But Mr. Harper only smiled.

AS MUNSEY SEES ROOSEVELT.

A "Photographically Accurate" View of a Statesman Awaiting the Call.

Frank A. Munsey, who has been mentioned as one of a group of influential men having for their object the nomination by the Republicans of Col. Roosevelt for President, admitted to a reporter for THE TIMES at his apartment in Sherry's last night that he had talked with Col. Roosevelt, but would not admit that he had discussed the subject of his nomination with him or tell how recently he had talked with him. He said he was not authorized to state Col. Roosevelt's attitude, but referred the reporter to a signed editorial on the front page of The Washington Times, of which he is proprietor, on Jan. 11.

The editorial, "Mr. Roosevelt and the Presidency," contained these passages:

> If between now and the assembling of the Republican National Convention on June 18 it becomes a conviction with the party that Mr. Roosevelt is stronger with the people and would have a better chance of election than any other man, he will be nominated. If this is not the conclusion of the party, then assuredly he will not be nominated. The whole question rests right on this one point, and that is exactly where it should rest.
>
> Mr. Roosevelt's nomination under such conditions would put up to him a responsibility which he would have to accept, no matter what his personal wishes, and no matter how serious the fight ahead.
>
> The nominee of the Republican Party will have no child's play in the coming election. * * * But this fact would make no difference with Mr. Roosevelt. He has never yet shirked an important responsibility. He never yet shirked a hard job, and certainly would not get out from under this one with the life of his party at stake.

Mr. Munsey dictated to THE TIMES reporter the following comment on this editorial:

"Mr. Munsey recently published a signed editorial in his Washington paper which bears all the earmarks of being photographically accurate of the situation and of Mr. Roosevelt's attitude.

"The editorial was published a week or ten days ago, but recent developments make it clear that Mr. Munsey was not without a pretty good knowledge of what he was discussing."

Mr. Munsey was asked to define what he meant by photographically accurate, and elucidated as follows:

"If I should go out from this room and say I saw you sitting at the desk writing on a piece of paper, that would be photographically accurate. I would not need to have your authorization to say it or to make my declaration correct."

Mr. Munsey was asked to dictate this definition, but refused, saying:

"I think photographically accurate is a pretty expressive term."

Mr. Munsey said he had talked with Mr. Roosevelt a great many times "during the last dozen years." He declined to state how recently he had talked to Mr. Roosevelt. His dictated interview follows:

"All this talk emanating from Washington about men prominent in the Steel Corporation and other corporations being behind the Roosevelt movement because of financial interests in these corporations and because of the Government's suit against the Steel Corporation is kindergarten politics. It isn't good enough, because it isn't true, and nothing that doesn't rest on a basis of fact and truth can get very far with the American people.

"So far as I know the situation, the matter of the Roosevelt agitation has its origin in the belief—I will go further and say conviction—that Mr. Taft cannot be elected if nominated, except by some great political blunder on the part of the Democratic Party—a blunder either in its policies or in the candidate it names for President.

"The voting strength of the Democratic Party to-day is obviously greater than that of the Republican Party. Therefore to win out in the coming election the Republicans must have a candidate stronger than the party; strong enough to hold the votes of the party and gain a sufficient number of votes from the Democratic Party to elect its candidate.

"So far as I am concerned, there is or has been no mystery in my position in this matter. My analysis of the situation points clearly to the conclusion that Mr. Roosevelt is stronger with the people of this country than any other man in the Republican Party, and therefore I would like to see him nominated.

"And as a citizen it is perfectly legitimate to work for the man or measure that means most for the general prosperity of the country. Beyond this general prosperity, I have no interest of any kind whatsoever.

"This is not a year for playing favorites in either party. It is a year for putting in nomination the ACCEPTABLE" (the capitals are at Mr. Munsey's request) "man who can win, or will come nearest to winning. This is equally true with the Democratic Party as with the Republican Party.

"While I regard Mr. Roosevelt as a man of exceptional ability and exceptional worth to the country, either in or out of office, yet I should prefer to see Mr. Taft nominated, or Justice Hughes, or some other good man, if he could make a better race than Mr. Roosevelt.

"There is nothing in the idea that the country or the party owes a debt of gratitude to the man honored with the office of President of the United States. Conventionality in renominating a man, in giving him a second term, should have no bearing in a close election, such as we have ahead of us.

"I repeat, it is the man who can win that we want, assuming that he is fit for the job. And on this assumption we should take into account no other consideration."

Mr. Munsey expressed, during the informal portion of the interview, a belief that the economic programme of the Democratic Party was not so well adapted to the business prosperity of the country as that of the Republican Party, and for that reason, and not out of party loyalty, he desired the Republican Party to have a strong man at the head of the ticket.

PERKINS CHANGES HIS MIND.

First Offered to Answer Written Inquiry, Then Decided Not To.

George W. Perkins yesterday declined to discuss a report published in several morning newspapers to the effect that he was one of the main agents in financing an anti-Taft and pro-Roosevelt political campaign.

When a reporter for THE TIMES visited Mr. Perkins's home at 76 Park Avenue last night, Mr. Perkins declined absolutely to grant a request for a personal interview, but stated through a servant that he would answer any queries made of him in the form of a note.

The following note was then submitted to Mr. Perkins:

"Will you kindly state through THE TIMES whether or not you believe that there exists a popular demand for the renomination of former President Roosevelt?

"Do you favor his candidacy?

"Do you believe, as stated in an evening paper, that Senator La Follette would be a good choice for President?

"Are you, as has been claimed, actively opposed to the renomination of President Taft?"

Within a few minutes the messenger who had carried the note upstairs to Mr. Perkins returned with the message that the latter "did not care to answer any of the questions and had absolutely nothing to say concerning politics."

ROOSEVELT OR LA FOLLETTE.

George L. Record Says Progressives Will Support Stronger in Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 23.—State Assessor George L. Record was at the Capitol to-day, and declared that the progressive Republicans of New Jersey were united as much as they possibly could be—united in opposition to the renomination of President Taft.

He thought that matters would finally be adjusted at the National Convention, when all of the progressive support would be thrown to the stronger—Roosevelt or La Follette. He said that he knew Col. Roosevelt would never be an avowed candidate for the Presidency.

AGNUS AGAINST THIRD TERM.

Warns Republicans to Check the Roosevelt Boom.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 23.—Gen. Felix Agnus, editor and publisher of The Baltimore American, in a signed editorial in to-morrow's issue under the caption, "No Third-Term Candidate," will say:

> It is time that serious attention were given the efforts to force upon the party a third-term candidate. Theodore Roosevelt is a Presidential impossibility. The sooner this fact is recognized and the more firmly it is stated, the sooner will the Republican party get its true bearings and the drivel of hysteria that invokes his name as a savior of the party and the country be checked.
>
> Roosevelt is an impossibility, because no American, however eminent or esteemed, can assure the confidence of the people to the extent of having them set aside the fixed tradition and honored practice of the Nation in this regard. Washington would not accept a third term. Grant could not secure it. Roosevelt will not have the opportunity to gain this distinction.
>
> The party should not be distracted by a fallacious issue; it should not be assailed through the anxiety of certain persons to get back at Mr. Taft. It should not be subjected to the injection of a disintegrating proposal and one that, designedly or otherwise, plays into the hands of the Democratic Party.

The American is a Republican newspaper.

GOV. HADLEY FOR ROOSEVELT.

Believes a Majority of Kansas Republicans Favor the Colonel.

Special to The New York Times.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 23.—Gov. Hadley came out with a square declaration to-day in favor of Col. Theodore Roosevelt as the Republican nominee for President. The Governor's statement in part follows:

"From information that has recently come to me from all parts of the State I am convinced that a large majority of the Republicans are in favor of the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt as our candidate for President, and a large majority of the people are in favor of his election. While they held Mr. Taft in high esteem and are now unmindful of the many good things that have been accomplished during his administration they feel that the candidacy of Col. Roosevelt will insure success in the State and Nation in the coming campaign, and, further, I believe they feel that Col. Roosevelt represents as no other man represents, those principles and policies of Government with which his name is associated and which appeal so strongly to the American people, without reference to party.

In 1908 I believe a majority of the people wanted to give him a renomination, and it was only his positive declination that prevented it. While it was through his leadership that Missouri was taken from the Solid South and placed in the Republican column, I am confident that the sentiment in favor of his nomination is not confined to this State."

FOUR GOVERNORS FOR COLONEL.

Expected to Come Out for Him Soon—Pennsylvanians Helping.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—Information was received from an authoritative source in this city yesterday that within the next two weeks Governors of four States will address to Col. Theodore Roosevelt a letter requesting him to become a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Ex-Senator William Flinn, head of the Roosevelt movement in Pittsburgh, who has come out in favor of the Colonel's nomination, has visited him at Oyster Bay, it was learned to-day. Another visitor at Oyster Bay was E. A. Van Valkenburg of The North American. Although this newspaper has been blazing the trail for Senator La Follette, it is expected that it would be for Roosevelt in preference to the Senator from Wisconsin.

In this city the political leaders who have given encouragement to the Roosevelt movement are State Senator Edwin H. Vare, Receiver of Taxes Hugh Black, ex-City Treasurers R. R. Bringhurst and Harry R. Shoch.

The Roosevelt movement in this State, in the opinion of local politicians, is based more on antagonism to Senator Penrose and the present management of the Republican machine than on any particular love for the former President. The line-up of the Roosevelt men in this city followed immediately the declaration of Penrose that he would turn over the seventy-six Republican delegates from Pennsylvania in the National Convention to President Taft to aid him in obtaining the nomination.

CHICAGO BOOMERS REJOICE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—The formal opening of the Roosevelt headquarters in the Congress Hotel to-day was made the occasion for rejoicing on the part of the local boomers. Edwin R. Sims, ex-United States District Attorney, was installed as manager. Alexander H. Revell, Chairman of the Roosevelt National Committee, was beaming with smiles over the receipt of telegrams from Kansas and Missouri, saying that everybody out in the alfalfa regions is for the Colonel.

Like the offering, which has seen no equal in fine clothes selling in New York, no response in all our history has equalled this.

Yesterday with our sales force increased by one-third we were unable to give anything like the service on which we have come to pride ourselves; but today, with a still more greatly augmented selling staff, we promise that the standard of service, which you have rightfully come to expect in the Smith Gray & Co. stores, shall again obtain.

And the magnitude of this response is, after all, a masterly compliment to the discernment of the better dressed men of New York, for in all our years there has been no offering that could rightfully take rank with this.

More than a third of the offering—nearly three thousand suits, are just from our shops—cut on advance style models from our exclusive special tailoring fabrics—suits that are not only advanced in style now, but suits that you have our positive assurance will be good style for a year or more to come.

Smith Gray & Co. tailoring is conceded the finest found in ready-for-service clothes—the models are accepted as standard and are recognized as the most advanced and distinctive, and the fabrics represent the cream of the world's best mills.

If you were to pay full beginning of the season's prices you could not reasonably expect to find fabrics and models in such wondrous assortment as these offered now at practically half price.

Come in today—investigate—prove to your satisfaction that this is the fine clothes opportunity of the year.

SPLIT WITH HARVEY NEEDED, SAYS BRYAN

Realignment of Political Changes Essential with Vital Changes in Public Issues.

STAND FOR DIVERSE AIMS

Observes That Wilson's Presidential Boom Was Started Before He Identified Himself with the Reformers.

Special to The New York Times.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 23.—William Jennings Bryan justifies the break by Woodrow Wilson with Col. Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly. He declares that a realignment of political friends is necessary whenever a fundamental change takes place on public questions. In an editorial to-day Mr. Bryan said:

"The recent break between Gov. Wilson and Col. Harvey illustrates the impossibility of co-operation between men who look at public questions from different points of view. Col. Harvey became a supporter of Mr. Wilson when he was selected as the Democratic candidate for Governor of New Jersey, and he continued his support when Gov. Wilson began to be discussed as a candidate for the Presidency. Of course, it is absurd for Col. Harvey's friends to talk about his 'bringing Gov. Wilson out.'

"But let us assume that Col. Harvey was doing all that he could for his choice. What was the situation? His conspicuous support was not only of no advantage, but it became actually a disadvantage; it did not bring to Gov. Wilson the class for which Col. Harvey speaks, but it alienated men just as honest as Col. Harvey's friends, who could not understand why Col. Harvey praised Gov. Wilson personally without indorsing the things for which Gov. Wilson stands.

"It naturally aroused suspicion as to the sincerity of one or the other. Gov. Wilson used to be consciously or unconsciously on the aristocratic side. He was there when Col. Harvey saw in him an available candidate for Governor, and the Presidential boom was launched before the Governor had allied himself with the reformers.

"Then came a change—if not a change, at least the open manifestation of it—and Gov. Wilson's support shifted. As soon as it became apparent that he was a progressive Democrat, the predatory interests were shocked, and this anger has grown hotter and hotter every day. The masses, on the other hand, were attracted, and his political strength to-day is in exact proportion to the confidence that they have in the completeness of the change he has undergone. His former friends are now his bitter enemies, and they are proving the sincerity of his present position by the violence of their attacks upon him. They are now publishing his former utterances in the hope of alienating his new-found friends.

"A realignment of political friends is necessary whenever a fundamental change takes place on important questions. The most conspicuous Biblical illustration of a fundamental change in life is found in the experience of Saul of Tarsus, who became Paul.

"Col. Harvey has shown no signs of conversion; if he communes with Ananiases it is not with any consciousness of blindness. He has seen no new light, and when he does he will feel so ashamed of his lifelong fight against progressive Democracy that his first desire will be to bring forth fruits meet for repentance—not to assume leadership. It must pain Gov. Wilson to break with old friends, but the breaks must necessarily come unless he turns back or they go forward.

"It should matter little to him whether he reaches the White House or not—that depends on circumstances which he can but partially control. The joy that comes from the faithful rendition of service surpasses any satisfaction that one can derive from the gratification of political ambition—a joy that makes one strong enough to endure even the severest of strains, namely, the breaking of the bonds of friendship."

TILLMAN IS FOR WILSON.

Thinks Him Stronger for Harvey Break—Attacks Watterson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The Wilson boomers are at last recovering from the dismay into which they were thrown by the Harvey-Watterson affair, following on the heels of the publication of the "cocked-hat" letter. Lately there has been an undercurrent of talk that the New Jersey Governor's break with Col. Harvey might not be so bad after all, and last week the Governor's New York campaign manager, William F. McCombs, issued a statement putting a favorable interpretation upon the incident and declaring that it arose simply from Mr. Wilson's refusal to be tied to Thomas F. Ryan and the interests in Wall Street.

To-day Senator Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina issued a statement going even further than this.

Mr. Tillman takes the position that Gov. Wilson measured Mr. Watterson and Col. Harvey correctly and refused flatly to be used by them. He even assails Mr. Watterson's Democracy, recalling that he bolted Bryan and free silver in 1896. This reference of Mr. Tillman's to free silver is not received with pleasure by the majority of the Wilson supporters here.

"I shall wait before committing myself," declared Senator Tillman, "but I am greatly impressed with Gov. Wilson. I do not want the Democratic Party to name a Republican in disguise, as has been done in the past. As things now appear, I believe Wilson is stronger with the people than he was before the Harvey-Watterson incident. He has been tried in the fire, and came out without singed wings. I had given Henry Watterson credit for more sense than to try to foist off a story like this with the material facts concealed, though I now recall that he went back on free silver and Bryan. Instead of Wilson's showing a lack of gratitude to Harvey, as we have been led to suppose, he saw through the scheme, measured Harvey and Watterson correctly, and refused to be lassoed and tied to Thomas F. Ryan."

Other Democratic candidacies are also becoming active. It was announced today that ex-Senator Fred Dubois of Idaho has taken charge of the campaign of Speaker Champ Clark, and is now in St. Louis trying to make certain Mr. Clark's capture of his own State from the Folk advocates. This marks the beginning of the real fight between Mr. Clark and Mr. Wilson for the nomination, as Mr. Folk is admitted to be a Wilson stalking horse. The Folk people on the other hand have charged that Mr. Clark is a stalking horse for Gov. Harmon, but while it is certain that Mr. Harmon in the end will get the Clark strength if Mr. Clark finds he cannot be himself nominated, it is known positively that Mr. Clark just now is fighting earnestly for delegates in his own behalf.

DEMANDS CAMPAIGN INQUIRY.

Culberson Cites Harriman's Aid for Roosevelt as Reason for It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—In the Senate to-day Senator Culberson of Texas, former minority leader, spoke to his resolution providing for an investigation into the funds of the last two campaigns, but in reality his remarks were aimed to show that the Republican sinews of war were drawn from a few men of wealth, while the Democratic munitions were supplied by the rank and file.

The Texas Senator went into some detail regarding charges that the late E. H. Harriman had raised $260,000 to which he himself had contributed $50,000, in support of the Republican ticket in 1904. He declared that within the last few weeks an effort had been made to clear up this charge, and added, "this attempt to unload upon the dead the obloquy of this disgraceful transaction which is said to have changed 50,000 votes in the city of New York alone, may be significant in several ways. It may be the common and ordinary case of malefactors waiting for the absconding or death of witnesses, or it may presage a political movement of National consequence and magnitude."

NEW GAMBLING LAW RULING.

Act Referring to Recording of Bets Not Changed by Amendments.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 23.—While the Legislature has amended the law so as to make it a crime to engage in pool selling or bookmaking with or without writing, it has not changed in any respect the law as to recording and registering bets, according to a decision of the Court of Appeals to-day.

The court decided that the giving of a memorandum showing a bet by the bettor to the bookmaker at a time previous to the enactment of the law which makes oral bookmaking a penal offense does not constitute a crime, but that if such a memorandum had been given by any one connected with the bookmaker it would have constituted a crime.

The court orders the discharge from custody of Michael Lambrix, who was convicted of receiving and recording bets in violation of the anti-gambling law.

Consumers' League Meeting To-morrow

State Senator Robert Wagner, Chairman of the State Factory Investigating Committee; Dr. Henry Moskowitz, and Mrs. Frederick Nathan will be the principal speakers at the annual meeting of the Consumers' League to-morrow afternoon at the Ethical Culture Meeting House, Central Park West. The meeting will take place at 3 o'clock. A report of the year's work of the league will be presented.

WILSON FOR INCOME TAX.

Will Urge Legislature to Ratify the Federal Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 23.—Gov. Wilson was at the State House to-day, and again declined to discuss the Harvey-Watterson incident in any way. He told the reporters that he would likely send a special message to the Legislature soon urging the ratification of the amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the levying of an income tax.

Following the adjournment of the houses of the Legislature this afternoon for the week, Gov. Wilson had a conference with the Democratic Senators and Assemblymen on the subject of legislation. At the conclusion the Governor said there had been a discussion of all the pledges in the party's platform last Fall and that it was agreed to favor bills to carry out those promises.

Senators Fielder of Hudson and Johnson of Bergen were appointed to prepare a grade-crossing bill, it being said that the Pierce measure, already before the Senate, is too arbitrary and does not deal with conditions on any rational basis. The Democratic bill will provide for the elimination of such crossings as the State Utility Commissioners may order removed.

Senator Silzer was named as Chairman of a committee to prepare a bill for the creation of a commission to make a study of the system of State Government to the end that a general reorganization upon a more comprehensive and economical basis may be recommended.

According to its new plan of devoting Tuesday mornings to committee hearings, the Assembly did not convene until 2 o'clock this afternoon, but the Senate got to work at 11 o'clock and passed several bills. Among them were the Colgate measures, permitting chains on automobile tires when roads are slippery, and requiring automobiles to be equipped with devices for preventing excessive noise and prohibiting use of "muffler cut-outs"; the Fielder bill, giving first-class counties Boards of Freeholders of nine members; a joint resolution for a monument over the grave of Gen. Kearny in Arlington Cemetery; and a bill for a hospital at the Vineland soldier's home.

A communication was received from the New Jersey Club at Washington, D. C., asking an amendment of the Geran election law, permitting Jerseymen in Washington to register.

Dr. C. E. Binck of Burlington also presented a communication asking that osteopaths have equal rights with physicians of other schools.

Among the bills introduced was one by Senator Leavitt to adjust the law regulating salaries of police and firemen so that it would be possible for a municipality to lower salaries. A similar measure passed the Senate last year, but failed in the Assembly.

The Senate received the report of the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners on its investigation of the Leavitt full crew bill, and it places the commission on record as being opposed at this time to any legislation arbitrarily regulating the size of train crews. The belief is expressed that the subject is too complex and intricate to be disposed of satisfactorily by any law prescribing the exact number of hands which must be employed to run a particular train. The bill is disapproved as defective and erroneous in principle. Among other things, the board argues that enlargement of crews, where such enlargement is not necessary, would work against the maintaining of proper discipline.

Orientals

The Largest Specialty
Rug House in America.

The Modern Oriental

Many men are natural worshipers of antiquity.

The distance of ancient origin lends enchantment.

As ruins are preserved for their picturesqueness, the handiwork of men who lived four or five centuries ago acquires a glamour which sometimes it is difficult to understand.

Persians and their Eastern neighbors truly attained their greatest skill in rug-weaving in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth centuries.

But rug weaving is far from a lost art.

Because Michael Angelo's pictures surpass everything else in the history of painting, it does not follow there is no good painting to-day.

Rugs now being woven in the East by the most artistic and conscientious weavers, if given such care in their preservation as the old rugs now in existence enjoyed, may well become valuable antiques.

These rugs are now reasonable in price—sufficiently so to fulfill the office for which rugs were intended—to cover a floor and at the same time ornament a room.

Few can consistently put a $25,000 antique rug on the floor.

But men and women who may buy the best of modern paintings may also purchase the best of modern Orientals with propriety.

Wild's Orientals include many WORTHY ANTIQUES—but only those which are in good, serviceable condition.

To select the modern Oriental judiciously is an important part of the work of the Wild experts.

To cast aside the hastily woven rug, the half-worn-out modern rug masquerading as an antique, the spurious rug which may well deceive less trained eyes, the rug UNWORTHY FROM ANY CAUSE, means to exert a guardianship which is certain to find appreciation.

By doing this we present in Wild's Orientals only the best grades of both antique and modern rugs at prices which are a measure of their usefulness to you.

SAYS THAT BRACKETT OWNS THE COUNTY

HE'S SUING FOR $25,000

But Must Take His Chance in Brackett's Bailiwick Because He Can't Show Legal Residence in New York.

Supreme Court Justice Gerard granted a motion yesterday to have George S. Goodrich's $25,000 suit against ex-County Judge Nash Rockwood of Saratoga transferred to Saratoga County. In bringing the suit, Goodrich said he had been a resident of this county for five years. This Judge Rockwood denied.

The suit was brought to recover the $25,000 as the agreed price for services. Goodrich said Judge Rockwood was employed as counsel for Frederick A. Peckham in some of Peckham's litigation, and expected a fee of $100,000. Peckham became dissatisfied with Rockwood's work, Goodrich said, and dismissed him. Then, he said, Rockwood came to him and told him if he could persuade Peckham to re-employ him as counsel, he would pay $25,000. Judge Rockwood denied any such agreement.

In opposing the change of venue Goodrich first called atttention to the fact that State Senator Edgar T. Brackett, the Republican leader of Saratoga County, is Judge Rockwood's lawyer. He said that Brackett absolutely dominated the county, and that all the prospective jurors of the county who were not under obligations to him for political favors or engaged in business deals with him, either owed him money or had been his clients in law suits. He said that Brackett had all the judges of the district under his influence also. He said Rockwood was a political henchman of Brackett, who would use all this alleged influence to prevent Goodrich from getting a fair trial.

Brackett, according to Goodrich, has an intense hatred of him, and some years ago began what Goodrich calls a "war of extermination" against him. Goodrich said he did not know the reason, but declared that the manifestation of this ill will had driven him out of Saratoga County, and compelled him to live in New York. He has lived at the Hotel Belmont, the Hotel Plaza, and the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria in this city.

In his replying affidavit, Judge Rockwood said that Goodrich's legal residence had been in Saratoga County since 1905, and that at least three times since in recent years he had voted in Saratoga County. He also charged Goodrich with various matrimonial irregularities. In answer to these charges, Goodrich submitted to the court a history of his matrimonial relations.

He said that in 1898 he married Cornelia Gray, who left him a few weeks later. He said he didn't hear from her for nine years, and believed she was dead. Then he married Lilla Vane in 1907. One day when he was crossing Fifth Avenue he saw his first wife in a cab. He ran after the cab, but failed to catch it. He went home then and told his second wife that since his first wife was alive their marriage was invalid, and advised her to go to Cincinnati and get a divorce. She went there and got an annulment of their marriage, in October, 1911. In the meantime his first wife did really die, he asserts, and left him entirely free from any matrimonial entanglements. This he said was the situation when he married his present wife, Anna S. Henry, a wealthy resident of Saratoga.

In granting the change of venue, Justice Gerard held that Goodrich had never acquired a legal residence in this county.

Carries Away Companion Ladder, but Leaves Passengers Unharmed.

That "giant wave" of which so much has been heard lately is still busy, and it was just as big and ugly as ever when the Atlantic Transport liner Minnewaska, in from London yesterday, ran into it off the Irish Coast about a week ago. It passed over her and carried away a companion ladder. Some of the passengers were thrown down when the wave cme bord, but nobody ws hurt.

"That's one great thing in favor of that wave," said a passenger on the Minnewaska. "It hits, on an average, a ship a day, but nobody ever gets hurt by it. It's a big and ugly wave, certainly, but it is considerate."

J. A. S. McDonald, who said he recently bought $50,000 worth of horses for William K. Vanderbilt's French stable, was one of the Minnewaska's passengers. He said that the Atlantic Transport Line vessels are being used by the British Army authorities, who rush horses to the Tilbery Docks in London and practice loading them on the vessels. To his mind, Mr. McDonald said, this seemed to indicate that the British were getting ready for trouble at any time.

P. H. Geare, a banker associated with the banking combine in China, was another passenger. He was in China during the revolution.

"It is not generally known," said Mr. Geare, "that the revolution broke out about nine months ahead of schedule. It was intended to begin it next Summer, but it was so well planned and so ably managed that even though the start was premature there never was a chance of its failure. After everything is settled, I expect to see China prosper as never before."

COMPLAINT AGAINST CRAVATH

Filed with Bar Association Because of Choate's Remarks in Metropolitan Case

William Starr Miller, a retired lawyer of 39 Fifth Avenue, signed yesterday a formal complaint against Paul D. Cravath, which he forwarded to the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association. The complaint was drawn by Einar Chrystie, attorney of the Grievance Committee, at Mr. Miller's request, and was based on a letter written by him. The letter said:

"I beg to call your attention to the published statements made by Mr. Joseph H. Choate in the Ladd Receivership case. Part of Mr. Choate's argument was as follows:

"'I do not hesitate to say that the greatest financial enormity ever committed in New York was the flotation and inflation of the Metropolitan Street Railway, its securities and those of its subsidiary companies. The defendants have taken through this pretext of discounting notes $2,797,000 of the City Railway and hid them away in the bicameral box where the creditors of the City Company cannot reach them. Now they have made many explanations, but the trouble is that these explanations don't explain. The question still remains [turning to Mr. Cravath] why did you do it?'

"I am informed and believe that Mr. Choate was justified in making these charges, and I therefore charge that Paul D. Cravath, as Director and counsel, was an active participant in the said financial enormity."

Mr. Miller was quoted as saying that he had made verbal charges against Mr. Cravath several months ago and believed them to be under investigation. This was denied by both Mr. Cravath and Mr. Choate. Mr. Choate declared at that time that he had not made any charges against Mr. Cravath, had not testified against him, and did not intend to do so. Mr. Choate was attending a dinner and ball in honor of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught last night and could not be reached. Mr. Cravath was seen at his home, 107 East Thirty-ninth Street, and said:

"I have nothing to say for publication at this time. No official notice of any charges against me has been communicated to me as yet."

BIRD SINGS AT GRIGSBY SALE.

Quaint Piping of Seventeenth Century Gold Marvel Sets Bidders Giggling.

A little bird belonging to Miss Emilie Grigsby kept the audience last night at the Anderson Company's galleries, where her art objects and costly household effects are being sold, laughing for several minutes and delayed the auction. All the little bird did was to sing, and that is not usual even in an auction room.

There were two birds up for sale, both little feathered creatures, not the kind that live in cages, but the more expensive ones which have their homes in beautiful solid gold boxes, and only come out to sing when a spring is wound. One of the boxes, a beautiful thing, decorated with Watteau scenes, had been sold, going to S. Russell for $400, the bird remaining decorously inside. The second one had been put up, and the price run up to $200, when the boy who was handling it turned the key and out hopped a little creature, fluttered its wings, turned its head and began to warble a tune.

The bird and its golden home date back to some time in the seventeenth century, so possibly the little singer was moulting, or the hall may have been too large for its voice, but, whatever it was, its song was flat and colorless, and its quaint piping set every one, the auctioneer included, to giggling, and bidding stopped for the time being. Then with another flutter of the wings the bird hopped back into its golden casket, and was sold to D. G. Dery for $325.

Four Genoese sixteenth century mural panels with applique embroidered medallions of Biblical scenes were sold to E. D. Long for $3,150, and six embroidered wall tapestries from the Pallavicini Palace in Rome went for $6,000. Mr. Long bought a necklace of pendant cabochon emeralds for $760. The sales for the day totalled $38,268, making the total to date $69,236. The sale continues this afternoon and evening.

FINGER PRINTS MAY CONVICT.

Take Important Place in Canal Street Murder Case—Negro on Trial.

Joseph Roberts, the negro elevator boy at 125 Canal Street, who was arrested on Dec. 6 for the murder of Isaac Vogel, whose body was found protruding from the furnace in the Canal Street building, was put on trial before Judge Foster in General Sessions yesterday for murder in the first degree, and more than half of the witnesses for the prosecution were examined.

Vogel was a jewelry dealer, who had no shop of his own but went about the city buying and selling jewelry. His body was discovered on the morning of Dec. 6 by Engineer Sharp of the Canal Street building. The aged man's head was crushed as though hit by a hammer, and not far from where he lay there was a bucket of water which contained traces of blood. Detectives at work upon the case discovered several articles of jewelry taken from the dead man, in a vacant loft of the building, and on one there appeared bloody finger marks. Finger prints were taken from both Sharp and Roberts, and those on the case were identical to the marks appearing on the negro's hands.

No finger print testimony was given yesterday, but the articles of jewelry identified as being in the possession of Roberts by witnesses, and known to belong to the murdered man, were identified and put in evidence.

Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss also succeeded in proving a motive for the crime. One of his witnesses, Lillian Childers, a negress of 159 West Sixty-first Street, took the stand and testified that she had been engaged to the defendant, and had promised to marry him. She said:

"The marriage was to take place on Thanksgiving Day, but Roberts did not have any money to get married on, so we postponed it. I know that the defendant was already married, but I thought we could go to another State and it would make no difference."

ROUND THE WORLD IN AUTO TO PREACH

Richard Tjader, Banker Thorne's Son-in-Law, Soon to Start on Unique Mission.

SPEAKS NINE LANGUAGES

With Touring Car and Expert Chauffeur He Will Do Mission Work Among the Fallen and Indigent.

Richard Tjader, big game hunter, who has made two expeditions into the wilds of Africa, was on the passenger list of the George Washington, which left port yesterday for Europe. His departure was deferred at the last minute, but he will leave these shores within a few weeks at most for a tour of the world which is to last about fourteen months.

Mr. Tjader is not going abroad this time to hunt, but to preach. He was educated for the ministry and until eight years ago he followed that calling. On Sunday night he initiated his evangelical tour by talking to the "down-and-outs" at the Salvation Army's Industrial Home, in West Forty-eighth Street.

Tjader is the son-in-law of Samuel Thorne, the banker, and a brother-in-law of Oakleigh Thorne, President of the Trust Company of America. He is well known in society. His marriage to Miss Margaret Thorne occurred in 1899. Mr. and Mrs. Tjader made a honeymoon trip around the world and spent several months in the remote mountain districts of India. On their return they organized a missionary movement and raised funds for missionary workers. In 1907 he went into Africa and came back with 500 animal skins for the Museum of Natural History in this city and a live rhinoceros for the Bronx Zoo. In 1909 he made a second trip and there met Col. Roosevelt, with whom he since has been on terms of intimacy.

Mr. Tjader, who is a Swede, came to this country about twenty years ago and joined Dwight Moody in his evangelical tours. While a preacher he met Samuel Thorne, the banker, who took a deep interest in the religious work Mr. Tjader was doing. It was in this way that he met Miss Thorne.

Mr. Tjader, who is wealthy, is over six feet in height and weighs 225 pounds. He speaks nine languages. With a large touring car and an expert chauffeur he will visit the principal cities of Europe and Asia, stopping in each long enough to preach to the fallen and the indigent, with the aim of giving encouragement and making converts to Christianity. He will visit missionary centres in some of the out-of-the-way places and study their needs with a view to rendering assistance.

Prior to his departure Mr. Tjader has been conferring with the Salvation Army officers in this city. He visited the Industrial Home on Sunday night and was at headquarters on Monday. He saw Col. A. M. Damon at headquarters and asked many questions about the methods of the army in its field work. He is a firm believer in foreign missions. When he returned from his first visit to Africa he wrote of the natives of East Africa and the missionaries:

"We found that wherever missionaries had been working among the natives their condition had in every respect improved. They have learned to build better houses, to clothe themselves decently, and to cultivate the land. They have stopped ghastly and cruel customs—all of which convinces me that money spent for foreign missions is a good investment for the elevation of the human race."

SUES FOR $10,000 FEE.

White Got Offer of $485,000 for Haig Home That Went to Another for Less.

The trial of a $10,000 suit for commissions brought by George A. White against the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Devendorf and a jury. White testified that he had been engaged in August, 1908, to procure a purchaser for the property at 374 Fifth Avenue, of which Mrs. Ogilvie Haig, sister of Col. John Jacob Astor, was the owner. He got an offer of $485,000 for the property from Klein & Jackson, and submitted it to William H. Wheelock, Vice President of the Robinson-Brown Company. Wheelock in turn submitted the offer to Mrs. Haig, and she accepted it, in the presence of William M. Cruikshank, White said.

Wheelock told Mrs. Haig to "go slow, those fellows are realty brokers and may fall down," White says he learned. The next day, White charges, Wheelock told him Mrs. Haig had rejected his offer.

A day or two later the property was bought by Robert Dowling for the City Investing Company for $450,000. Shortly thereafter, White said, the City Investing Company endeavored to get a renewal of the $485,000 offer from Klein & Jackson.

The answer of the Robinson-Brown Company to the suit is that Mrs. Haig was in a hurry to sell because she had engaged passage to Europe, and that Klein & Jackson did not produce the $485,000 in the agreed time, so that Mrs. Haig was obliged to accept the lower offer of the City Investing Company.

H. G. Kesch appears for White, and Henry G. Gray is attorney for the defendants. Trial of the suit will continue to-day.

MRS. OLSON SEEKS DIVORCE.

Wife of Part Owner of Gilsey House Defeated His Attempt to Get One.

Mrs. Lillie S. Olson, wife of John F. Olson, a realty operator and part owner of the Gilsey House, began suit against him yesterday in the Supreme Court for divorce, alleging intimacy, beginning Nov. 15 last, with a woman whose name is unknown to her.

Olson sued his wife for divorce a year ago. The case was tried before a jury, which found her guiltless of the charges of misconduct with a farmhand at Mount Pleasant, N. Y., preferred by her husband. Mrs. Olson said on the stand that a confession she had signed had been forced upon her by threats to take away her 4-year-old daughter, Anna. Clarence Howland, the farmhand Olson named as co-respondent, came to the trial and testified in Mrs. Olson's behalf.

Next Summer, in the country, the mountains or at the seashore you will still be wearing the Holeproof Hosiery you can buy here to-day.

"The Street Called Straight"
Author of "The Inner Shrine"

Few serials have ever attracted such general attention by their opening chapters. It promises to outdo even the successes of those two notably successful books by the same author, "The Inner Shrine" and "The Wild Olive."

The most successful of American novelists writes, "Congratulations on 'The Street Called Straight,'—it begins with fine impetuosity of interest."

THOMAS FAY'S CHUM ALSO KILLED BY AUTO

GARAGE CLUE IN OTHER CASE

Time Card Shows Car Returned Soon After Killing—Eisendrath and Driver Held—Both Get Bail.

Seven-year-old Domicanus Mahler was killed by an automobile in West Sixty-fourth Street last night. He was a playmate of ten-year-old Thomas Fay, who was killed by an automobile on West End Avenue on Friday night, and had attended the funeral on Monday.

Young Mahler, who lives at 152 West Sixty-fourth Street, had gone to the Paulist Fathers Church, where he, as well as Thomas Fay, were to receive their first communion next Sunday. With him were Ernest Judd, 11 years old, and Clifford Judd, 9 years old. They were on their way home from the church when an automobile driven by Ellis Kulp of 533 West 115th Street, owned by the automobile firm of Cimotti Brothers of 1,653 Broadway, came along Sixty-fourth Street.

The boys, who were playing a game in the street, apparently did not see the automobile. Kulp threw on his brake, but the mudguard caught the young boy, knocking him senseless. Kulp stopped as soon as possible and rushed the boy in his automobile to Roosevelt Hospital. The boy had a fractured skull, a broken leg, and internal injuries, and died while on the operating table.

When Kulp learned that the boy was dead he asked permission to use the telephone in the hospital, and called Police Headquarters. He was told to go to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station. There he told Capt. Conroy what had happened.

"Lock me up," he said to the Captain, "and you can investigate and find my story to be true."

He was not locked up, however. The police investigated the case and came to the conclusion that Kulp could not have avoided the accident.

The dead boy's father is James Mahler, a butcher, with a business on Seventy-second Street, near Columbus Avenue.

Frederick Heyl, chauffeur, of 1,697 Lexington Avenue, and Simon B. Eisendrath, an architect, who were the driver and the owner, respectively, of the automobile which, the police say, struck and killed 10-year-old Patrick Fay, Jr., of 12 West End Avenue, near his home last Friday, were arraigned yesterday before Coroner Hellenstein. Heyl was held in $5,000 bail on the charge of homicide and the bail of Eisendrath, who was arrested as an accessory, was reduced from $5,000 to $3,000. Both were subsequently bailed out, awaiting the Coroner's inquest on Feb. 1.

The police, it was learned, asked for a week in which to collect their witnesses, of whom there are half a dozen. Detectives Sharpe and McCormack of the West Sixty-eighth Street Police Station, said yesterday that they would have a complete case when it comes before the Coroner again. A new link in the chain of evidence, they said, is the time card in the garage where Eisendrath's automobile was kept.

"This card shows," said Detective Sharpe yesterday, "that the automobile left the garage at 4:31 P. M. and returned at 6:06 P. M. The accident happened at 5:45 P. M. We also learned that Dr. Richard Blum, the dentist who lives at 230 West Ninety-seventh Street, in the same house with Eisendrath, and whose chauffeur Heyl was at the time of the accident, was picked up by Heyl at Sixty-seventh Street and West End Avenue a short time after the accident. Dr. Blum had also ridden in the car a little while before the accident, but it is true that he was not in the car when the accident occurred.

"It was Dr. Blum who telephoned to Heyl and told him that we were looking for him. If it had been Heyl who telephoned to Dr. Blum the case would have been different, but Dr. Blum denied this. When we asked him why he had discharged his chauffeur a day after the accident he said it was for reasons not in the least connected with an automobile accident."

Neither of the accused men made any statement yesterday to the Coroner. Heyl was accompanied by his 16-year-old daughter and his wife, who, after some delay, got bail for him. Bail for Eisendrath was given by his brother-in-law, Charles E. Block of 528 Eighth Street, Brooklyn, and his two sisters, Mrs. Block and Mrs. Ida Lyons, their Brooklyn home going as security. Eisendrath was represented by Alfred Frankenthaler, a lawyer of 35 Nassau Street.

"Mr. Eisendrath knows nothing about the accident," said Mr. Frankenthaler. "He admits freely that he was driving in that vicinity last Friday afternoon, searching for Dr. Richard Blum, a dentist. He felt a jar to the car, but thought that the boys in the neighborhood were throwing stones, and later when the broken lamp was discovered he laid that to the same reason.

"He has not tried to run away. He has been at his office every day since, and did not happen to read about the fatality in the newspapers."

The National Highways Protective Association has thought so well of little Thomas Lorentz, the next-door neighbor of the Fay boy, who, with other playmates of the dead boy, pursued the fleeing automobile, that the Executive Committee of the association voted yesterday to present him with a gold medal. The Lorentz boy got the figures on the license number, although not in the right order, and the detectives thus were able to trace the car.

Both McCormack and Sharpe were commended yesterday by Commissioner Waldo for their work in the case. Sharpe, who was a second-grade detective, was promoted to a first-grade detective, and McCormack, who is a first-grade detective, was awarded honorable mention, which entitles him to an additional point in all future civil service examinations.

SUFFRAGE WOMEN AS GUESTS

Dartmouth Alumni Give a Reception to Miss Milholland and Others.

While the alumni of Harvard sat in their rooms, just across the street, and recalled stories about the unrelenting refusals which met the recent requests of Mrs. Pankhurst to be allowed to address the students at Cambridge, the alumni of Dartmouth last night entertained Miss Inez Milholland, Mrs. Pierce Bailey, and Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore at their clubhouse, 12 West Forty-fourth Street, and listened eagerly to arguments in favor of the cause of woman suffrage. It was easy to tell that the alumni of Dartmouth enjoyed the situation, for at short intervals they gave vent to their college yell, ending with cries of "Milholland! Woman Suffrage! Bailey!" that fairly shook the building and reached the ears of every one in the neighborhood.

Miss Milholland said that she was totally unprepared for such a reception, and inquired anxiously if it was sincere. She was assured that it was.

It was time that the women had something to say about the laws, Miss Milholland said. Why, the law wouldn't even permit Sheriff Julius Harburger to appoint women deputies, and every one admitted they were badly needed.

Mrs. Bailey smilingly remarked that, as a result of her reception, she had about come to the conclusion that Dartmouth must be a little more intelligent than some other colleges, and the alumni gleefully applauded and cheered her.

After the addresses there was an open debate and several of the alumni attempted to prove the cause of the antis. The ringleader called out after half an hour's discussion, however, that while they were not completely squelched, they were pretty well done up.

It developed at the reception that Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones, head of the National League for the Civic Education of Women, and an anti-suffragette, had suggested that she would like to speak at the meeting. The Dartmouth men decided against the proposal, however, and Mrs. Jones did not attend.

TO ARBITRATE WOOL STRIKE.

Mayor and Strike Leader Arranging Terms with Agent of the Mill Owners.

Special to The New York Times.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 23.—Negotiations for a settlement of the textile strike in this city, carried on in Boston, to-night are asserted to be at the crucial point. In official circles to-night it was declared that on Thursday the path would be cleared for the settlement of the trouble or its developments would plunge the entire State into a still greater strike.

Ettor and five of the Strike Committee in Boston to-night learned just how far the masters would go toward a bargain with the workers. This committee will present the matter to the strikers at a mass meeting. Ettor met Max Mitchell and two others, one of whom represented the mill owners. They discussed plans for arbitration. The Strikers' Committee told their side of the case, and after hearing what the mill owners would be willing to do stated that they would put the question to a vote of the strikers as a whole.

This will be discussed to-morrow when the mass meeting assembles at City Hall at 9 o'clock. There will be an executive session, and after this the strikers will meet William D. Haywood at the railroad station, and a parade will be formed. The strikers will march to the Common for the big meeting of the day.

Should the strikers fail to take action on the peace proposals then the greatest industrial strike ever known in this section of the country will be started.

The first sign of retreating from the stand the mill owners took to meet only the men of their own employ came from the Arlington Mills this morning.

Agent William D. Hartshorn, in a statement, said the mills he represented were willing to place the grievances before the State Board of Arbitration.

Justin M. Varney, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, which has been trying to bring the strikers and mill owners together, is to see President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company to-morrow and a further attempt will be made to press on the advance already gained.

The Atlantic Cotton Mills were shut down to-day because of the extension of the strike. They will not be opened until there is an improvement in the situation.

The loom fixers in all the mills stopped work to-day because of the unsettled state of affairs. They insist they are not on strike. They say they will return as soon as the general stirke is settled.

Refusing to stop when ordered to do so, an unknown Syrian of South Lawrence was bayonetted by Private Smith of Company H, Eighth Regiment, this afternoon. The bayonet lacerated the man's left arm and hand. It was said that he was attempting to cross a bridge near the Pacific Mills.

WORLD'S BIGGEST ARMORY

To Be Built in the Bronx for the Eighth Regiment, N. Y. N. G.

On the site of the old Jerome Park racecourse the largest armory building in the world is about to be erected for the Eight Regiment, N. G. N. Y., now occupying the greater part of the armory at Madison and Park Avenues, Ninety-fourth and Ninety-fifth Streets. The new structure will cost $1,000,000, according to the estimates of the architects, Pilcher & Tachau. Plans for the mammoth structure were filed yesterday in the Bronx Bureau of Buildings.

The plot to be occupied by the new armory is the southeastern loop section of the Jerome Park reservoir site. The greater part of this large plot is used for reservoir purposes, the remainder was deeded by act of the Legislature last year to the Armory Board.

ESCAPE FROM MATTEAWAN.

Posse So Far Can't Trace Two Patients Considered as Trusties.

Special to The New York Times.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Edward Brown, aged 27, and Leander Sheldon, 48, patients at the Matteawan State Hospital, and considered as trusties, escaped to-night, and although a posse of attendants have been searching the surrounding country, they have not been captured so far.

Sheldon was committed from Saratoga County in 1892. He had been employed in the dining room for the past ten or twelve years. Brown was committed from Brooklyn in 1909 for manslaughter.

REDUCE TAXI FARES, FOSDICK SUGGESTS

Thinks Sixty Cents for First Mile and Forty for Second Is a Proper Rate.

TO ABOLISH PUBLIC STANDS

Says Licenses of Vehicles Carrying False Registering Meters Should Be Revoked.

Commissioner of Accounts Raymond B. Fosdick sent to Mayor Gaynor yesterday his report on the investigation of taxicabs and other passenger-carrying vehicles in the city, which he has been making for several months. Many abuses regarding licenses and fares are pointed out, and recommendations to overcome them made. It is likely that the recommendations will be embodied in the form of a new ordinance to be submitted to the Aldermen.

In the matter of fares, Commissioner Fosdick points out that the present legal maximum rate for four-seated coaches, including taxicabs, is $1 for one mile or any part thereof, and 50 cents for each additional half-mile or any part thereof, but that different rates are charged by different companies. The most popular rate with the taxicab companies, he says, is 80 and 50 cents. The Commissioner recommends that the rate be made 60 cents for the first mile and 40 cents for each mile thereafter, and believes that a reasonable profit can be made at this rate. The report also says:

> We believe that this concession, together with the elimination of hotel and restaurant fees, and an ordinance prohibiting taxicab drivers from operating without placing the taximeter flag in a recording position, will unite to make the rate which we suggest a fair and equitable one. On the other hand, we do not believe that any rate lower than the one proposed could stand the test of a court proceeding.

As for charging for waiting time the Commissioner says that the present rate of $1.50 for one hour or any part thereof and 75 cents for each addtional half hour or any part thereof is violated with impunity by almost every taxicab in the city.

The Commissioner recommends that licenses of cabs equipped with an incorrectly registering taximeter be revoked, and that all drivers of licensed vehicles be required to furnish a receipt for the amount of fare paid when requested to do so.

The Commissioner points out that certain cab companies make a practice of paying regular fees to various hotels and clubs for the privilege of using premises adjacent thereto, as special hackstands, and that over $350,000 is paid annually for this purpose in the city.

These are other recommendations regarding license fees:

> Each passenger-carrying vehicle kept for hire and having an inside seating capacity for two persons, to be charged an annual license fee of $5.
>
> Each such vehicle with an inside seating capacity of from four to seven persons inclusive, to be charged an annual license fee of $10.
> Those having a seating capacity of eight or more persons, other than those operating under a franchise, $25.

All vehicular licenses are to expire on March 31 each year, in order to avoid confusion. Each vehicle must also have a distinct mark, so that a policeman may know if it has been regularly licensed. Another recommendation is that no license be granted to any cab or taxicab which is constructed with a seat beside the driver. This, says the Commissioner, would do away with robberies and assaults committed by hackmen with the assistance of companions.

A uniform fee of $2 is recommended for drivers' licenses, and that drivers must pass an examination as may be prescribed by the License Bureau. Drivers should also be required to wear a badge containing their license number.

SEEK $50,000 DICKENS FUND.

Headquarters Opened Here to Raise Big Gift for His Granddaughters.

The centenary of Charles Dickens will be celebrated on Feb. 7, and it is the hope of the Charles Dickens Centenary Fund Committee that by that date $100,000 may have been contributed to be held in trust for the five granddaughters of the author. Already $25,000 has been collected in England, and a committee, of which Joseph H. Choate is Chairman and Clarence H. Mackay Treasurer, has opened headquarters in the Singer Building to collect at least $50,000 of the desired fund from lovers of Dickens in this country.

Chairman Choate made this public appeal yesterday:

> Those concerned in the movement are vitally solicitous of its success in this country. The centenary will be observed Feb. 7, which means that the time is short. If we raise the $50,000 expected of us to match a similar fund in England, of which $25,000 has already been subscribed, it will be necessary to hurry. To stop short would be a sad commentary on our loyalty to an author whose works have been a source of lifelong inspiration to us. It is not contemplated or desired that all the money should come from a few sources. That would be contrary to the spirit of the undertaking, which is aimed primarily to give the average man and woman a chance to show loyalty to a writer whose heart was always with the average man and woman.
>
> How could this loyalty be better shown than by creating this $100,000 trust fund for five necessitous granddaughters of the author? Dickens was a practical man. He believed in substantial evidences of love—real helpfulness. It is the philosophy of his writings.
>
> Had Dickens been protected in the enjoyment of American royalties morally due him on his books, none of his family would be in need. We did not grant him that protection. This is our chance to make amends. It will not come again.

So far $2,600 has been received by Mr. Mackay, and $1,000 more in small sums has been pledged. The representative character of the contributors is shown by the fact that among them are Robert J. Collier, Mr. Mackay, Forbes-Robertson, and Lewis Waller.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. HUSTACE.

Witnesses Tell How They Caught Her Husband, as He Said, 'with the Goods.'

After hearing testimony yesterday in Mrs. Corinne Prince Hustace's suit for divorce from William A. Hustace, a broker of 25 Broad Street, Supreme Court Justice Platzek announced he would grant an interlocutory decree. Hustace was in court. He took the stand to testify that he was the defendant, but did not oppose the suit.

The Hustaces were married in 1907, and have a young son. Mrs. Hustace, her mother, Mrs. Cora Prince of 405 West End Avenue, and Frank A. Norcross, a family friend, testifed about a raid, April 21 last, on the apartment at 22 West Thirty-second Street, where they found Hustace and a "red-haired woman." They said Hustace bowed courteously to his wife and mother-in-law and acknowledged that they "had the goods on him."

When Justice Platzek signified he would grant Mrs. Hustace's application for a divorce she said:

"Oh, I'm so happy, I could just scream!"

FOUR HURT IN AUTO UPSET.

Car Turned Turtle on Long Island Road, Mortally Injuring Its Owner.

Charles Laber of Bergen Beach was driving his automobile along Cooper Avenue, in Glendale, Queens, just before dark yesterday afternoon when, in trying to make the turn into Dry Harbor Road, the car skidded and turned turtle.

Laber and Valentine Weberbauer of Bayport, L. I., who were in the front seats, were caught beneath the overturned machine and badly injured. With a fractured skull and possible internal injuries, Laber is in the German Hospital, Brooklyn, in a dying condition, and Weberbauer is there with an injured back.

Hugo Enders of Evergreen, L. I., and George Bauer were the occupants of the rear seat. They were patched up by the ambulance surgeon, but did not go with him to the hospital.

HUDSON RIVER FLOWS OVER ARMORY FLOOR

A TOWN WALKS IN, TOO

"Rip Van Winkle's Dream" a Picturesque Surprise for Audience—The Times Rides in Chariot.

The Washington Irving High School girls outdid themselves in the big pageant they gave yesterday afternoon in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, Lexington Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street, at their big annual reception and Appreciation Day.

Appreciation Day is the annual giving of thanks of the Washington Irving girls to their teachers, Superintendents, officers, School Commissioners, and friends. To them they send tickets for the big festivity, and in their programme they show what they can do. The visitors came in throngs yesterday, and with only a few exceptions stayed until the end, though it was at fully 6 o'clock.

"Rip Van Winkle's Dream" was the subject of "Ye Simple Schoolgirl Playe," as it was denominated on the programme, but there was nothing that was not original about it, the composite product of the clever brains of 4,000 bright girls. Even Dog Schneider was there, a nice little high school girl, who, though she walked and danced on her own two feet, was wrapped in a curly fur skin.

The affair was under the patronage of Col. Louis D. Conley, through whose courtesy the armory was given to the girls, and Mrs. Conley, and it was the latter who set the ball rolling, or, to be more exact, the time flying. A gigantic hour glass was drawn in to the floor in front of the gallery, where the guests of honor were seated. Mrs. Conley dropped a green ribbon over the edge of the railing. This was attached to a ribbon on the hour glass, and Mrs. Conley drew in her ribbon, and, presto! a door in the hour glass flew open and out flew a little fairy girl. She was Pleasant Hour, who danced a fairy-like dance "to drive Dull Care away." Then the Hudson River came sweeping along.

If any one thinks that a lot of girls cannot make a big river flow through an armory that person should have seen the Washington Irving girls do it yesterday. There was a small army of them that came winding in, four abreast, massed together and swathed about with broad bands of dark green ribbon. It was a swaying, serpentine, gliding body, topped by heads and arms, the latter raised high in the air, passing from hand to hand down the line little full-rigged boats, a great winding river and its shipping.

Even more interesting was the "little Towne of Kaaterskill," by which the river passes, but which in the exigencies of the pageant walked in on its own feet. Leading the procession was the little village church, white, with green shutters, and one low steeple—the skirts of two girls in white could be seen below it—next came the little yellow Town Hall, one girl in yellow under that; two girls in red supported the biggest little red house, and one was under the littlest red house—the entire village.

Rip Van Winkle himself was due about here, and it was a beautiful gauzy Dawn who was to waken both Rip and the sleepy town. Of course, no one could waken a town if it didn't go to sleep, and this one did, and after the fashion of Rip himself. Rip threw himself on the ground to sleep, and so did Kaaterskill. It threw itself down on its side, little white church, little yellow Town Hall, two little red houses. Then gauzy Dawn, waving pink clouds, appeared with the biggest chanticleer that ever crowed to wake the morn, another Washington Irving girl, and brought Rip and the town both to their feet in the most natural manner possible.

Incidentally, Play brought in dances and Work many of modernity's triumphs, and among these newspapers. The newspapers were shown in individual processions. THE TIMES girls were all in delicately colored gowns, and one, standing in a chariot, carried a placard which bore, in red letters on white paper, the name "THE NEW YORK TIMES," while back of this two more girls bore two placards, "Not Yellow But Read" and "All the News That's Fit to Print." Following them the procession of girls carried round clock faces on sticks high above their heads. The girls in the lead carried copies of THE TIMES picture supplement.

The Sun led the newspaper processsion, the name printed in big black letters on many placards; a big globe led The Globe procession, followed by innumerable little globes and placards: "Best Home Paper" and "Authority on School News." The World came rolling in, a big wheel, and after the procession real newsboys with copies of the paper. The Evening Post also had a placard.

One of the prettiest features was "Education Inviting the Children of All Nations." The red brick schoolhouse led this procession. Then came a band of German girls, every little fraulein knitting, while the band played a German air. There were France, Russia, and Japan, each introduced with appropriate music by the band. All the nations not represented individually came in together at the rear. The girls of each nation wound up in the red schoolhouse, from which they came running out, finally, with a glad shout and waving American flags.

The whole pageant, the scheme and the carrying out, was the work of the girls, and there was not a hitch in it anywhere. It moved like clockwork without a single delay.

HER HICCOUGHS VANISH.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 23.—Miss Mary Shinn, who was said by some imaginative persons to have taken the "minstrel cure" teen-day fit of hiccoughs, is so well today that she is up and about her home, and, according to her physician is on the road to recovery.

Dr. Kensinger is thoroughly angry at the statement that the ancient jokes of the minstrels cured the young woman. He declares that his medicine was effective enough, and that jokes or no jokes Miss Shinn would have stopped her hiccoughing last night. Likewise he resents the many suggestions he has received from New York as to the best method of curing hiccoughs.

"They came from all sorts of people," said Dr. Kensinger, "who had not the first idea of what they were talking about."

BASEBALL WITH JAPAN TEAM.

First Game in Philippines, Second in Tokio by Our Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—A mild invasion of Japan was authorized today by Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the Army, in permitting an officer and nine enlisted men to proceed from the Philippines to Japan to conquer that country, not with muskets but with baseball bats. The games to be played will be a return engagement for games played by the Tokio University team in the Philippines.

The trip of the American soldiers is to be made on condition that the Japanese Government will permit their landing in Japan.

USES HIS FRIEND'S NAME.

Fear of Disgracing His Family Puts McKay in Disfavor with Court.

Fearing to disgrace his father by giving his right name when arrested, George McKay of 595 Decatur Street, Brooklyn, used the name of his friend, Hugh Fanning of 550 Chauncey Street, to conceal his identity. Yesterday morning he was confronted by the real Hugh Fanning. Magistrate Harris in the Gates Avenue Court sharply called him to account for his duplicity.

McKay was arrested on Saturday night and locked up in the Classon Avenue Station, charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct. When he appeared the following morning in the Gates Avenue Court a man who gave his name as Max Yanaowsky, a furniture dealer of 311 Henderson Street, Jersey City, was in court and accused the prisoner of having stolen a horse and wagon valued at $250. Magistrate Harris paroled him on the intoxication and disorderly charge, but held him in $2,000 bail on the larceny charge for examination yesterday.

There was a friend of Hugh Fanning in court at the time, and when the case came up yesterday the real Fanning was there and faced the man who had used his name. He was surprised to find that the accused man had been a friend.

McKay's father appeared in court ready to give bail, but the Magistrate ordered the young man sent to jail until some one gave new bail. Fanning left the courtroom and announced that he would take steps to have his name taken from the blotter of the Classon Avenue Station and from the records of the Gates Avenue Court.

DEFFINO FAMILY DESTITUTE.

Deserted by Husband and Father and Robbed of Their Last $5.

Neighbors of Mrs. Carmella Deffino and her three children who live in two little rooms at 2,266 Second Avenue, called the attention of THE TIMES yesterday to the plight of the family who have no food and no money to procure it. The neighbors are nearly as poor as Mrs. Deffino and her brood, and though they are anxious to help the family their means suffice scarcely for their own needs.

Last night a reporter found Mrs. Deffino, Philip, 15 years old; Lena, 12, and Ralph, 11, huddled around a small stove in which there were few coals. The heat did not radiate a foot from the stove.

Mrs. Deffino was a widow when she married the second time ten or a dozen years ago, and she said last night that her husband had deserted her and the children a little more than a month ago. The mother got work in a piano factory and the older boy in a varnish factory, but two weeks ago each was discharged. They had $5 left, and one evening gave it to Lena to get some milk in a nearby grocery store. Some one grabbed the bill from the child's hand, depriving the family of their last cent.

Mrs. Deffino confessed that she did not know what was to become of them unless they received help quickly.

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS.

Wealthy Peruvian, Here Only a Few Weeks, Dying in Newark Hospital.

Anthony Suriol, a wealthy mine owner of Peru, who has been living at 136 West Forty-sixth Street, was crushed between two trolley cars at Broad and New Streets, Newark, last night. He was hurried to St. Michael's Hospital, where it was said that he was so badly injured that he would die.

At the hospital he asked that Eduardo Higginson, Consul General of Peru in New York, be notified. Mr. Suriol has been in this city only a few weeks.

CHIEF KENLON DINED; 'PHONE AT HIS EAR

HIS BOOTS AND AUTO OUTSIDE

Firemen and Others at Hotel Astor to Do Him Honor—Welcomed with Resounding Cheers.

Fire Chief Kenlon's big red automobile stood in front of the Hotel Astor for hours last night. Chief Kenlon's fire boots were on the front seat with the Chief's chauffeur. The Chief was equipped right there for a fire call while he enjoyed dinner with the greater part of the New York Fire Department inside the hotel.

It was the big appreciation dinner which the friends of Chief Kenlon had arranged, and every one who is in the Who's Who of the fire world was there, from the Chief himself to the blue-shirted fireman who swings on the scaling ladder.

Every once in a while a little bell tinkled under the table and the chief reached for the telephone.

More than 400 were at the dinner. They were seated when Chief Kenlon, escorted by Deputy Chief Martin, Battalion Chief Crowley, R. H. Mainzer, and Dr. H. M. Archer, Honorary Surgeon of the Fire Department, entered the dining room.

Prolonged cheers greeted the chief. If he never knew before that he was popular with his men he found it out last night. It was one of the noisest dinners ever given, as the management of the Hotel Astor can testify, but the noise was decidedly agreeable even to the outsiders.

Fire Chaplain McGean opened the dinner with prayer, and those few moments were practically the only quiet ones of the evening. Chief Kenlon himself made a speech, and so did Fire Commissioner Johnson and Police Commissioner Waldo.

Welcoming cheers and a rousing send-off were also given to ex-Fire Chief Croker when he entered the room and when he left again to attend another dinner.

Patrick J. O'Beirne, the toastmaster, set things going by a stirring welcome to the guest of the evening. He said a few words, too, about Battalion Chief Walsh, who lost his life in the recent Equitable fire, and then there was reverent silence.

Chief Kenlon said he was not much of a talker. Nevertheless he roamed all over ancient and mediaeval history in talking about fires of the past, and when he finished talking the consensus of opinion was that he was not only a speaker, but an orator.

"Shall I talk about fires?" he began.

"No," shouted a fireman, who was later to regret what he said, "for we've had enough fire already."

"No," replied the chief in characteristic retort, "you can't mean that, or else you are not a good fireman, for a good fireman never gets enough of fire."

He began with the fire in Alexandria, and traced other big fires, ranging to Chicago and Baltimore. "But New York—" said the chief, "she hasn't burned down yet."

"And she never will," came from many parts of the room.

"No, she won't," said the chief, "but there are plenty of magazine writers who are trying their hardest to burn her down. They say that Vesuvius won't be in it when New York starts burning.

"But I want to say New York has started burning within the last fifty years at least 500,000 times, and was just as often extinguished."

Fire Commissioner Johnson lauded Chief Kenlon, and then also made an attack on his critics.

Commissioner Waldo said that he was celebrating his eighth anniversary as Police Commissioner.

"You mean months," said some one near him.

"No, I mean anniversaries," he repeated, for a Police Commissioner measures his anniversaries in months."

At the conclusion of the dinner the Chief was presented with a 2½-carat diamond ring, and when he waved it aloft so that Mrs. Kenlon, who occupied a box, could see it, it was a little fire in itself.

The first call that required Chief Kenlon's attention came shortly after midnight when the dinner was over and he was shakind hands with his friends. The fire was in a seven-story loft building at 570 and 572 Grand Street. Deputy Chief Langford responded to the first alarm, and because of the proximity of tenement houses to the fire, turned in a second.

Kenlon jumped into his automobile and speeded to the blaze. He found that the fire had eaten up through the top three floors of the building, and had been prevented from spreading. It was under control and he sent no other alarm.

Four watchmen were asleep in the place when the fire started on the third floor. Policemen helped them out. Occupants of the tenement adjoining, at 568 Grand Street, were panic stricken because of the smoke which poured into their rooms, and they ran to the fire escapes. The firemen helped them down, though the tenement did not catch fire.

Fireman Philip Nealy of Truck 11 had his hand cut by falling glass and was sent to Gouverneur Hospital.

MINERS FAVOR SOCIALISTS.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 23.—An effort was made in the miners' convention to-day, by the socialist element, to frame the new constitution, so as to shear the International officials of much of their power and place it with the rank and file to be expressed by the referendum vote. In some instances the effort was successful, but in the more important matters the authority was left with the International President and other officials.

After the next annual elections International officers will be chosen bi-annually instead of annually. A report of the constitution committee to this effect was embodied in the new constitution after a long debate in which an effort was made to keep the clause out of the constitution until it had received the endorsement of the membership through a referendum vote.

Almost the entire day was devoted to the constitution committee's report. It is thought that at least two days more will be required to pass, or reject the proposed constitution.

PACKERS MERGED 13 RIVALS.

Government Contends They Used National Packing Co. for This Purpose.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Evidence that the National Packing Company was one of the agencies used by the alleged packers' combination to destroy competition was submitted to-day in the trial of the ten defendants charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law.

By the books of the company the Government showed that the corporation acquired by purchase thirteen competitors after its organization, in March, 1903, and that the price paid for these concerns was $8,000,000. A majority of them were immediately closed.

The packers have contended, according to the Government, that the sole object of organizing the National Packing Company was to operate the fifteen independent packing companies purchased in 1902 to put in the proposed billion-dollar merger, which was abandoned because of inability to finance it. This contention was refuted by the Government to-day by evidence showing that the National Packing Company purchased the thirteen competing companies after its organization. These were the Continental Packing Company, the United Dressed Beef Company, the New York Butchers' Dressed Beef Association, the Western Packing Company, the Colorado Packing and Provision Company, Ruddy Brothers, the Plankington Packing Company, the Smith Brothers Packing Company, the Dover Beef Company, the Denver Union Stock Yards Company, the North American Provision Company, the German-American Provision Company, and the Milwaukee Union Stock Yards Company.

Many items of cash, in several instances amounting to $100,000, were charged on the books to "E. T.," which it was explained meant Edward Tilden, President of the National Packing Company, and were revealed by District Attorney Wilkerson's examination of the corporation's books. It was said these sums were used by the President of the company in the purchase of rival packing concerns.

FORTUNE HUNTERS HUNGRY.

Brooklyn Lads Wanted to be Horse Trainers—Stranded in Rahway.

Special to The New York Times.

RAHWAY, N. J., Jan. 23.—Officer Thompson at 12 o'clock last night found four lads wandering around St. George Avenue and Kinsey Corners cold and hungry. At the police station they gave their residence as Brooklyn and destination Charleston, S. C., where they hoped to go into training horses for racing.

Their total capital was $1.11. They left Brooklyn yesterday morning, They are being detained for instructions. The names and addresses given are: Joseph Rohan, 17, of 294 Quincy Street, the capitalist of the quartet; Leon Gould, 18, of 607 Flushing Avenue; Benjamin Taimhig, 18, of 517 Lexington Avenue, and Charles Ross, 16, of 480 Lexington Avenue.

They declared that a fifth boy, who could walk faster than they, had gone on ahead.

At 294 Quiney Street, Brooklyn, last evening Mrs. Kate A. Rohan said that her son had gone off ostensibly for school the morning before, and it was not until the afternoon that she received a postal card saying he was going away for awhile and that he was all right. He is next to the youngest of ten children and she did not worry.

Would she go down to Rahway for him? She most certainly would not, nor send any money either, for she was of the opinion that if Joseph and his friends were to make their way back to Brooklyn as they left it the process might beget in them a better appreciation of home life in that borough. At the Ross home on Lexington Avenue it was said that Mrs. Ross had gone to Rahway.

WONDERS WE'RE NO WORSE.

Too Many Laws to Permit Proper Conduct of Business, Metz Tells Women.

Ex-Controller Herman A. Metz spoke yesterday afternoon before the National League for the Civic Education of Women at the clubrooms, 20 East Forty-sixth Street, on "The Difference Between Public and Private Business."

"All this talk about business principles in public life, all this clamor for business men in office, sounds all right," said Mr. Metz, "but it's a dream. Sometimes a man is foolish enough to leave his business and take a public position, and he begins then to realize that there are no such things as business principles in public administration. It's all law.

"If a man ran his own business as public officials are compelled to run the public business, he would soon be bankrupt or in an insane asylum. You can't do a solitary thing without being permitted. Law prescribes how everything is to be done. And so it goes all along the line—waste, waste, waste.

"In my honest opinon there is less graft and dishonesty among officials in public life than in private life. But if you violate the law you may go to prison and if you don't violate it you are a fool. When you understand that it only took ten commandments to set the world right, you must wonder that it takes thousands of laws to set the Government right. And I don't hope for any change very soon, either."

Mr. Metz warmed up to his subject as he went along and, encouraged by questions from Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones, who presided at the meeting, and other members of the league, he jumped into a discussion of the much-talked-of commission form of government and the direct primary idea. The former he classified as simply a new name for the old system and the latter as hopelessly inadequate to cope with the situation.

Mrs. Jones, after explaining that the league was opposed to woman suffrage, asked Mr. Metz if he thought, inasmuch as things were so complicated, it would help to clear the situation if the women were allowed to vote.

"If some of the ladies haven't any more sense than some of the men who vote, then I don't think it would," he said. "There are too many voting now."

GIBBONS IN DRAW WITH JACK DENNING

St. Paul Welterweight Shows Less Ability in Ring Than Was Expected.

Mike Gibbons, the widely heralded welterweight from St Paul, did not quite come up to the mark expected of him last night when he tackled Jack Denning of this city in a ten-round bout at the Fairmont Athletic Club. The go, while very interesting, could hardly be given to Gibbons because of his harder blows, and it could not be given to Denning for the reason that, while he landed the oftener, his blows were hardly effective.

Gibbons, however, lost little of the prestige he gained by his recent victories over Lewis and Coffey, but he surely is no "wild cat," and to have decisively won last night he must have taken more chances than he did. Denning, on the other hand, was on top of the Westerner always, and made him show his best to get away with an even break.

They did a little old-fashioned stuff when they arrived in the ring, when they tossed a coin for the choice of corners. Gibbons won and chose the south angle.

The boys fixed the weight feature during the afternoon, when they scaled within the prescribed 150 pounds. It had been generally understood that the weight limit was to have been 148 pounds. As they stood up in the centre of the ring arranging the final preliminaries, Gibbons seemed to top the local boy, though they didn't appear to weigh unevenly.

The house was crowded, and by the time the principals in the main go were ready, there was not an inch of available space left. The prices were $2, $3, $5, and $10.

Denning was seconded by Joe Jeannette, John Kerrigan, Dave Cook, and [illegible]. Gibbons was looked after by Ed Reddy, Fred Meyer, and Phil Levy. Denning took the first chance, and danced around the Westerner, poking in a couple of light lefts to the face which didn't do any heavy damage. They were both a bit wary of each other during the round, and seemed content to size each other up. Denning was again the first to start in the second round, and worked both hands freely. Gibbons [illegible] around and ducked. Twice he tried his best blow, a short right punch to the jaw. He landed both times, but Denning anticipated them and slid aside just enough to save damage.

Denning excited the crowd early in the third round by landing a hard left on Gibbons's ribs. In recovering Gibbons slipped and dropped on all fours. He was up instantly and went for Denning cautiously. After a bit of manoeuvring he again got his right over, but Gibbons was just backing away. Sparring mostly occupied the round.

Gibbons got his left working and pushed it out vigorously. Denning parried well, and Gibbons dropped back to his defensive tactics. The crowd became a bit impatient and yelled for action. Denning supplied all of this for the remainder of the round, but there was no damage done. It was anybody's bout still.

Denning was once more the initiator in the fifth, and was constantly on his toes. His left jabs frequently landed, and Gibbons didn't seem able to stop them. The Westerner showed nothing in this round.

Denning kept to his regular system of pushing his left out and trying for anything else. He saw Gibbons's defense was not even working for him, for while he sidestepped and kept his mind on his guard he could not keep the New Yorker from scoring. Strictly on points it was Denning's bout at the end of the sixth round.

Gibbons started to get busy when he went in for the seventh round, and poked away at Denning's face. He landed several hard ones which, however, did not set Denning back any. The local lad kept moving at it and bore in constantly.

About thirty seconds before the round closed Gibbons lifted over his right, following a left feint, and caught Denning square on the jaw. Denning looked silly for a second and wobbled, but he was able to stall the round through. It was Gibbons's best showing thus far.

Denning came up for the eighth round greatly refreshed and dived into Gibbons pell-mell. Gibbons bided his time well and got in several hard left jabs, interspersed with a couple of stiff rights on the mouth. Denning was bearing the marks of the battle when the round ended.

Denning was the busier of the two in the ninth round, but Gibbons was the more effective. During the time he was not parrying Denning's lefts and rights he socked real lefts and rights into Denning's face and body. The latter was brave, but he was being beaten.

Denning did about all the work in the last round, but he did little damage.

The referee mercifully stopped the semi-final in its second round to keep Battling Henry from being hurt by Billy Fitzsimmons, who was on top and all over the battling person.

Two middleweights, Eddie McMahon and Jimmy Jarvis, were substituted to make a consolation bout. McMahon had the better of this merrymaker.

THAT ATTELL DOPE STORY.

The investigation into the Abe Attell-Knockout Brown bout by the State Athletic Commission will be continued this afternoon at the commission's office, 41 Park Row. Tom O'Rourke, Referee Patsy Haley, Dr. Joseph Safian, and Charles Doesserick, managing director of the National Sporting Club, have been cited to appear at this hearing, and other witnesses will also be examined. Up to a late hour yesterday afternoon Knockout Brown and his manager, Danny Morgan, had received no notice that they were wanted at the hearing. Scouts from the commission's office were trying to locate Danny Goodman, Attell's chief second, but they met with little success.

Tom O'Rourke, whose name was so strongly linked with the dope story by Attell, last night re-echoed the statement made by Dr. Safian Monday night that it was unfortunate that Attell should have been able to give testimony and then depart from the State before the men whom he had accused could be brought face to face with him. In speaking of Attell's charges last night Mr. O'Rourke said:

That story that he had received an overdose of cocaine was made up by Attell for two reasons. The first is that he wished, if possible, to make some excuse for his poor showing against Brown without giving out the real reason—that he is going back; and the other reason was to protect his date for the bout with Kilbane on the Coast. He is to get a large guarantee for this bout, and a defeat by Brown might have resulted in the date being canceled. So he framed up this argument to protect himself, regardless of what it meant to others. Attell said that Dr. Safian was a stranger to him when he entered the dressing room Thursday night, which is untrue. Dr. Safian has been the physician at the club for a year, and he examined Attell for three bouts previous to Thursday night. Attell did the best he could, which was far below his old standard, so he had to find some excuse.

Answering Attell's statement that he could defeat Brown every night in the week if he was right, Danny Morgan, Brown's manager, yesterday asserted that he would gladly give Attell a return bout in the presence of the Boxing Commissioners and newspaper men only, just to prove that Attell would be as helpless before the little German as he was Thursday night. Mr. Morgan said:

Attell has been going back for two years, and Brown proved it so decisively. Matt Wells admitted to me after the bout in the Garden last September that he could have knocked Attell out if he desired, but figured that he would get no credit for it, in view of the weights, so was contented to let Attell stay. No, there was nothing wrong about that bout Thursday night, except that Attell has gone back, and he falls back on that old dope story to make things appear otherwise. He has been winning against heavier men during the past two years mainly by bluffing them, but Brown refused to be bluffed, and Attell was at sea. I will gladly go before the commission and so will Brown, if we are wanted, but there is nothing that we can say except that "Kayo" did his best and we figure that Attell did his best, too.

In discussing the case yesterday a man prominently identified with the boxing game said:

It seems to me that Attell, rather than to say he is not as good as he once was, chose to attempt to cloak his inability with a flimsy excuse which was embellished by contradictory statements. What he should have said, to be [illegible] the truth, is that he does not feel as strong as he used to feel, consequently he hasn't the same inclination to pitch into a strong, rugged youngster and take a chance.

It does not seem plausible that a reputable physician is going to inject enough cocaine into a fighter's hand to make him as insensible as Attell says he was. If Attell was drugged, as he said he was, then Brown was "pulling," for it is only reasonable to suppose that the Dutchman could knock out any boy weighing ten pounds less who could neither think, feel, nor see. It is also hardly likely that Attell would be taking any advice from O'Rourke after having a wordy argument in which the name of "liar" was exchanged. Attell fought as hard as he ever fought, and while he did not accomplish as much his time was taken up in keeping Brown off. At that he managed to mess Brown up quite a bit.

Why an investigation, anyway? It is being conducted on lines that would tend to prove that Attell was able to, but did not, knock Brown's head off. Is it the intention of the boxing law that patrons are to be guaranteed a knockout when they buy a ticket? Is it not sufficient that a bout has a decisive result one way or the other, and that both contestants should be busy at all times? Both were busy every minute of Thursday night's affair. Mr. O'Neil and Major Dixon are supposed to be experienced boxing patrons. They should be able to judge as well as any one if a bout where they are present and looking on, as they did in this case, was or was not a fake. Then why get the opinions of others?

The whole trouble with Thursday's bout was that the crowd was in a bad humor. Many of them said that they had to pay in excess of the regular price for their tickets, and then most of them went there fully expecting to see Attell trim Brown. Rather than cast a reflection on their judgment they chose to cast it on the bout itself, and Attell helped the thing along by his queer actions and talk.

MALONEY A WINNER.

Willie Howard Fails to Appear for Bout at Royale A. C.

Willie Howard, the Brooklyn lightweight who was engaged to box Tommy Maloney of the West Side last night at the Royale A. C., Brooklyn, failed to appear, and in his place the management substituted a fairly good opponent for the west sider in Young Evans of Savannah.

The management gave the patrons the privilege of getting their money back if they did not care to witness the substitute bout, but they were probably satisfied, as none left the hall.

Maloney won easily after allowing his opponent to stay the limit, and although the bout at times showed some real good flashes of work it was not up to the standard.

Maloney did not extend himself to the limit in more than one round, contenting himself to take matters easily and go through with the contest and give the spectators a run for their money.

The majority of the west sider's work was done with left jabs, which he used almost constantly. He had little difficulty in scoring on Evans's left eye, and before the fifth round he had opened up a bad gash on the under side of it, which bled freely to the end.

Evans, in view of the fact that he was a substitute, put up a good exhibition, but in addition to his heavy blows Maloney with his cleverness held his man safe at all times. When Maloney tried, which was in the eighth round, after toying along with his man until this time, he went out and dropped his man for the count, and almost had him out as the bell rang. In the closing two rounds Maloney again took matters easy and allowed his man to last the limit.

The management also announced before the bout that they intended putting the case of Howard up to the State Athletic Commission.

JOHNSON IN DEFIANT MOOD.

Negro Boxer Coming to Clash with Boxing Commissioner, So He Says.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Jack Johnson to-day announced he had a telegram from G. F. Schefski of Salt Lake City offering him $30,000 to wrestle Frank Gotch in that city.

"After much thinking I've decided I'm the man to defeat Gotch and become both the champion pugilist and the champion wrestler," said Johnson. "I'll wrestle in April or May, and fight Flynn in July."

Pat Powers called on Johnson to-day and asked him to fight in New York some time in March. Johnson is willing because of the announcement that the Boxing Commission will not let him perform here. He wants a chance to clash with it. The champion will leave for New York on Sunday.

WARD AGAINST SPIKES.

Chairman of Rules Committee Wants Them Reduced in Size—"Griff" Kicks.

When the Rules Committee of the National League meets in this city on Feb. 13 it is likely that some action will be taken to change the size of the rubber slab on which the pitcher stands when he delivers the ball. The committee is composed of John Ward, Chairman, Manager Roger Bresnahan of St. Louis, and the veteran umpire, Robert Emslie. Another important change which Mr. Ward will try to put through is to reduce the size of the spikes worn by ball players.

Mr. Ward believes the spikes nowadays are entirely too large. He says that when he was playing ball they were only half as big, and were just as effective. He refers to the long, shining spikes on players' shoes nowadays as "murderous." Every year there is a protest against spikes. Two years ago it was Ty Cobb who was accused of using them carelessly while sliding to the bases. Last year in the World's Series Snodgrass of the Giants made himself unpopular when he twice spiked Baker of the Athletics.

A crusade to abolish spikes two years ago fell flat because it would be next to impossible for ball players to gain any footing without cleats of some kind. Mr. Ward's objection is not against spikes, but against the size of them.

The question about the change in the size of the rubber in the pitcher's box comes from Manager McGraw of the Giants and Manager Clark Griffith of Washington. Nowadays it is a favorite trick of pitchers to let their heels slip back of the rubber slab and get a footing in the dirt, which gives the foot an added purchase when the pitcher throws.

McGraw's idea is to remove the dirt from behind the rubber slab, so the pitcher's foot will have no place to rest if he draws his heels back. The Giant leader also believes the rules should be changed so that while the pitcher has one foot on the rubber the other must be within a limited space in front of the rubber. This would prevent a pitcher from throwing his foot far over to one side of the box in the manner used by a flinger to deliver the "cross-fire" ball.

Griffith advocates a larger rubber slab for the pitcher's box. He thinks it should be as wide as the pitcher's foot is long, and that the pitcher should be required to keep his foot on it. With a wider rubber, it would be easier for the umpire to see if the pitcher were delivering the ball legally. Griffith is a fanatic on pitching styles, and hardly a game passes during the season but that he objects to the umpires about the opposing pitcher's foot being "behind the rubber."

President Lynch of the National League, who is also a member of the National Commission, said yesterday that the commission had not yet received any word from the officials of the United States League in relation to their plans. At their last meeting the new league announced that their position in baseball would be outlined to the powers in organized baseball. They will suggest that if the major leagues will recognize the contracts of their players, they will recognize the contracts of the players in the organized ranks.

Just what the plan of the United States League is no one seems to know. Anyway, the intrusion into the precincts of organized baseball is being watched by officials of the National and American Leagues. A local baseball official said yesterday he believed the plan of the new outlaw league was nothing more than a scheme to play Sunday baseball in this vicinity. The ultimatum of the new organization that unless the major leagues are willing to recognize them, a baseball war will result is not taken seriously by local baseball officials.

Sunday baseball by semi-professional teams in Greater New York has been a good proposition in spite of the fact that the selling of programmes and a voluntary contribution from the patrons is the only revenue. If the outlaws could get one of the parks on Manhattan Island and one in Brooklyn, it is believed they could work up much interest in the United States League for Sunday games. Weekday games, baseball men think, will not be attempted by the outlaws around New York, even if they do get started.

AUTO RACING GAME LOSING INTEREST

Future of Contest Board in Hands of Manufacturers—Many Named for Chairman.

The revival of the rumor that a new Chairman of the American Automobile Association Contest Board will shortly be named to succeed William Schimpf, the present incumbent, has brought into the limelight again the status of the automobile racing game. For the the past two years there has been a gradual decline in the interest, both in track and road contest, and at present there are very few important events scheduled.

Since the death of Samuel M. Butler, during the Glidden Tour last October, William Schimpf has made an efficient Chairman of the Contest Board, but without pay. A salary of $5,000 goes with the position, and several prominent candidates have been mentioned for the place. The announcement of the probable vacancy is, however, premature. Chairman Schimpf has intimated to President Hooper of the Automobile Association of America that he would like to be relieved of the duties of the office, as he is unable to devote the amount of time he considers necessary for a Chairman of the Contest Board. As his work at the head of the board has been satisfactory, Chairman Schimpf may be induced to remain in office, with an assistant to do the minor detail work, especially as President Hooper and the Automobile Association of America Board of Governors are loth to lose the services of Mr. Schimpf.

Under the Chairmanship of Samuel M. Butler the Contest Board was an expensive undertaking, and even with Mr. Schimpf serving without pay the board cost the Automobile Association of America [illegible] last year. With the decline in racing and the falling off of the general interest in motor contests, the National organization is not particularly anxious to incur this additional expense. A general sentiment prevails that there is not enough real life in road and track racing to warrant the engaging of a high-priced Chairman, and it is probable that the whole question will be determined by the Manufacturers' Contest Association. As a matter of fact, the Automobile Association of America would be satisfied with the elimination of racing and the advancement of tours and endurance runs.

Racing throughout the country is at a low ebb. The only events of importance actually scheduled are the International 500 Miles Sweepstakes at Indianapolis on Memorial Day, Elgin National road race at Chicago, and the Santa Monica and another road contest at Los Angeles. The Atlanta Speedway has no definite programme, the Fairmount Park races at Philadelphia, the Grand Prize and Vanderbilt Cup races are uncertain.

According to advices from Savannah there is little prospect of renewing the road races in that section this year. Secretary A. W. Solomon of the Savannah Automobile Club is in New York at present [illegible] [illegible] a man prominent in motoring affairs said: "As a matter of fact, automobile racing has been killed as a sport, and has degenerated into a racing proposition. Many manufacturers have abandoned racing entirely, considering it a detriment rather than an aid to selling cars. While several of those still in the game would hail with satisfaction an opportunity to gracefully withdraw. The expense of maintaining a racing team is a serious proposition, while the result in many cases due largely to luck.

"The Automobile Association of America would not worry in the least if racing were abandoned. The development of highways is more important than anything else now, and the support given racing by the Automobile Association of America last year was more to accommodate the manufacturers than anything else. There is little doubt that the Automobile Association of America would willingly turn over the entire supervision of racing to the Manufacturers' Contest Association, as it is felt that auto contests are nearing their finish."

Jumbo Wells Beats Brown.

In a ten-round bout last night at the Mount Vernon Sporting Club, Jumbo Wells of England won on points from Bill Brown, the negro boxer of White Plains. Wells was aggressive in all rounds, while Brown preferred to hold the defense. In the third and seventh rounds Brown drew blood from Wells's nose, and this made Jumbo sail in with heavy swings to Brown's face. Wells outweighed Brown by at least fifteen pounds. Brown scored all his points by left jabs and in clinches.

Coulon to Fight Sid Smith.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion of the world, has signed to fight Sid Smith, the 112-pound champion of England. The contest will be for twenty rounds before the club offering the best purse. Bids are assured from the Pacific Coast and New Orleans.

Coster Outpoints Willie Jones.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Joe Coster of New York outpointed Willie Jones of Brooklyn in a ten-round bout to-night. Jones forced the fighting, but was met at every turn with short-arm hooks that had him in a bad way throughout the fight.

$10,000 Offer for Palzer's Contract.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Frankie Burns and Johnny Coulon, the bantamweight champion, will engage in a twenty-round bout for the title at New Orleans on Feb. 18. They have agreed to make 116 pounds ringside.

Phil Cross will engage in the hardest bout of his career when he tackles Cy Smith of Hoboken at the Olympic A. C. on Feb. 5. Next Saturday night Phil will take on Johnny Moran, the Fighting Actor, at the same club.

An interesting card has been arranged for to-night at the Long Acre A. A. In the star event Johnny Dundee, the speedy New York featherweight, will hook up with Willie Jones of Brooklyn, who recently engaged in two ten-round bouts with Abe Attell.

Kid Burns of the west side and Young Hickey will come together in the star bout at the Fairmont A. C. Saturday night. The other ten-round events will bring together Prince Henry vs. Jim Coffey, and Frankie Callahan vs. Young Lustig. The six-rounders will show Kid Rose vs. Joe Farmer and Jimmy Paul vs. Tommy Dolan. Next Tuesday night at the Fairmont A. C. Walter Coffey will clash with Eddie McGoorty, the winner to be matched with Frank Klaus, the Pittsburgh middleweight.

HOCKEY CLUB LOSES AGAIN.

New York A. C. Wins Second Game in Amateur Hockey League Series.

The Hockey Club seven made its fourth futile attempt to break into the victory column in the Amateur Hockey League race at the St. Nicholas Rink last night, losing to the New York A. C. team by the score of 7 to 3. For a brief period in the early part of the second half the Hockey Club threw a scare into the Mercury Foot brigade, completely outplaying the latter and tying the score, only to have the New Yorkers uncork a burst of speed in the closing minutes of play and win with plenty to spare.

Neither team was able to show any consistent team work and practically all the scoring was the result of strong individual play, with Jimmy Britton the star for the Hockey Club and Reinmund filling the same rôle for the Winged Foot aggregation. Britton was the lone member of the Hockey Club who shone to any advantage. He led his team on the attack, scored two of the three goals, and managed to get in some fancy defense work at the middle of the rink. He also led both teams in resting on the sidelines, due to his aggressiveness in going into the Mercury Foot attack. Once in the first half and twice in the second Britton was waived to the sidelines for rough playing, and while he was off the ice his teammates did little more than play a defensive game. Their attack was lost without their leader. The first penalty in the second half came when the Hockey Club was on even terms with the New Yorkers and outplaying them, and while Britton was serving his suspension the Mercury Foot team scored the goal which broke the tie. This goal seemed to take the heart out of the Hockey Club, and during the greater part of the final period the Hockey Club threw all attempts at team work to the winds and did nothing more than make long shots in a desperate effort to score.

Denasha, the little rover of the New York team, sustained a bad fall in the second period and for a time seemed to be badly injured, but was able to resume play after a rest of four minutes. On a speedy dash down the ice his skate caught in Norsworthy's stick as the latter made an ineffectual attempt to connect with the disc and Denasha went down hard, turning a complete somersault. He remained motionless on the ice and collapsed again after being lifted to his feet by his mates. He was assisted from the ice and resumed play after four minutes' rest, apparently none the worse for his fall. Norsworthy drew a suspension of two minutes because of the spill.

The Hockey Club scored the first goal after four minutes of play, Wadelton shooting the disc past Wood after receiving a short pass from Carter. Within the next three minutes Reinmund tied the score on a pass from [illegible], and then put his team ahead by scoring after a spectacular dash up the ice, in which he cleverly evaded the entire Hockey Club team. Denasha made it 3 to 1 after eleven minutes of play with a goal, unassisted. Just before the period ended Britton revived the hopes of the Hockey Club rooters by going the entire length of the floor and shooting the puck into the New York net.

During the first five minutes of the second half the Hockey Club kept up a continual bombardment [illegible]

DENTISTRY

There are six distinct branches in dentistry, each requiring a distinct kind of skill. Filling teeth does not increase proficiency in extracting, and making artificial teeth does not augment dexterity in crown and bridgework. Indeed, these operations are so different that constant doing of one lessens efficiency in the others.

Eighteen years ago I opened this office for specialization in dentistry. Up to the present time it is the only office where specialists in all the branches are found under one roof, also the only office where painlessness is the rule and not the exception.

Send for "Dentistry by Specialists and the Gentle Art of Painlessness," and read what others say about my methods.

HARRIS WINS IN CLASS C BILLIARDS

Defeats Stein, 200 to 128—Makes High Run of 22 Points and Average of 4.

W. W. Harris showed last night the best billiards he has played in the Class C championship 18.2 balk line tournament in progress at the Morningside Academy in Harlem when he defeated Joseph R. Stein by 200 to 128 and averaged 4 points to an inning. Harris found it almost impossible to find his stroke in the early part of the match, with the result that Stein had a lead of 30 points at the end of the thirteenth inning. From this time on, however, he executed in his best style and soon got into the lead.

Harris made five double-figure breaks, the best of which was 22 in his forty-fifth inning. He managed to hold the spheres to the line in this part of the game better than he has done at any other stage of the tournament, and it was conceded that if he displays the same speed when he plays Spear in the play-off of the tie which exists in their section he will have little difficulty in working his way into the final round.

The winner just seemed to be getting into his stride when the game was over, and despite a blank in his forty-third inning managed to roll up [illegible] points from that inning to the end of the game. After being headed about a third of the way through the game Stein's game fell off lamentably and he missed many shots which caused him chagrin.

At the afternoon session between Sylvester L. Levy and Robert Weld, open table play was the general order of the game, although some very nice nursing play was seen in the stages when [illegible] managed to amass his best groups of [illegible], and the leadership see-sawed until Levy's eleventh inning, when he went to the front with a break of 18. Immediately following this good showing with another double-figure string of 21, which put him out of harm's way, as Weld never again got within hailing distance.

In his [illegible] inning Levy displayed splendid control and gave a good exhibition of balkline execution, holding the balls on the line in capital fashion for a score of [illegible], at which point they lined up, necessitating his playing a two-cushion massé, which proved his undoing. He seemed to have had just before this miss a splendid opportunity to run the game out and incidentally score the high run mark of [illegible]. Weld executed carefully throughout and played steadily, but was unable to overcome the lead Levy got in the early half of the game. The summary of both games:

AFTERNOON GAME.

S. L. Levy—[illegible]

Robert Weld—[illegible]

Averages—Levy, [illegible]; Weld, [illegible]. High runs—Levy, 28, 21, 18; Weld, 13, 12, 11.

EVENING GAME.

W. W. Harris—[illegible]—200.

J. R. Stein—[illegible]—128.

BROWN BEATEN BY BOYD.

Scratch Man in 18.2 Knickerbocker Tourney Loses, 170 to 257.

Maurice D. Brown, one of the scratch men in the Knickerbocker Academy 18.2 balk line tournament, failed last night in his attempt to concede Frank Boyd [illegible] points in [illegible], and was beaten by a score of 170 to 257. The winner made an average of [illegible], while Brown averaged [illegible].

Brown made the best breaks, 47, 28, and 21, while his opponent's long runs netted him tallies of 20, 14, and 12. The winner lived up to the form which he has been showing in his recent games and failed to become flustered when the backmarker, who was substituted for Ferdinand Poggenburg, got the balls rolling for tidy runs.

The loser corralled the spheres for 47 in his forty-first inning and showed at this stage [illegible]

Brown—[illegible]

Boyd—[illegible]

Averages—Brown, [illegible]; Boyd, [illegible]. High runs—Brown, 47, 28, 21; Boyd, 20, 14, 12.

TRIPLE TIE AT RIVERSIDE.

Norton's Victory Over Marshall Puts Three Players in Finals.

By his victory in the 18.2 balkline billiard tournament in the Riverside Academy last night C. H. Norton caused a triple tie to occur with three players all on the five games won, two lost mark, the others in addition to last night's winner being Ed Marshall and F. W. Danbury. Norton's opponent was Marshall, who was expected to land the honors of the evening and incidentally close the tourney as the winner of first honors.

Marshall at the beginning of Norton's last essay at the table had a lead of [illegible] and a total of [illegible], having slipped up on what was voted the easiest kind of a draw. With 10 to go, Norton pulled himself together and after pounding out two fairly difficult three-cushion shots, got the balls on the rail and rounded out his required 8 for the aggregate of 100.

This proved to be his best run and was dropped in at the right time. Marshall made a double figure run of 14 in his fourth inning, but failed to get beyond 7 in any other try. The summary:

Marshall—[illegible]

Averages—Norton, [illegible]; Marshall, [illegible]. High runs—Norton, 16, 10; Marshall, 14, 7.

Boston Three-Cushion Victory.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Jan. 23.—Charles Warren of Boston to-night defeated Capt. Jack Pitcairn of this city, 50 to 39, in 110 innings, in the second game of the National three-cushion billiard tournament. Pitcairn had a high run of 6 and Warren made 4.

Roller Skating Races.

Professional roller skaters will compete in a two-mile event this evening at the Metropolitan Roller Rink. A good entry list has been secured, since this is the last opportunity that the professional skaters will have for racing at the local rink for quite some time, as the amateur championships will start next week, Feb. 1, and will occupy the rink on Thursday evenings—the regular racing night—for six consecutive weeks.

Yale Basket Ball Team Wins.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 23.—Yale won its first intercollegiate basketball game here to-night, defeating Princeton, 19 to 18. The winning point was made on a basket thrown from a foul in the last minute of play.

CLEAN SWEEP FOR HARVARD.

Columbia Squash Team Beaten in Seven Matches in Interclub League.

Squash players of the Harvard Club made a clean sweep of the seven matches played against the Columbia University Club team yesterday on the latter's courts, Gramercy Park, and thereby moved up a notch toward the championship title of the Metropolitan Interclub League. In two departments of the game—speed and placing—the players of the Harvard team showed marked superiority over Columbia. While several of the games were closely scored, only one went to the limit of three sets. That was the match in which Harold Kellock was defeated at the hands of Donald Scott. Actually Kellock was the winner on points, as his total tally was 46 to the Harvard man's 44. The set scores were in Scott's favor, however, at 9—15, 17—15, 18—16. Altogether Harvard won by a total of 229 points to 172 on the tally of the seven players.

The other match scheduled, between Princeton and the Heights Casino, was not played. It was announced that next week, when Harvard plays the Heights Casino, Steve Peron, the Harvard professional, will oppose John Beaven, the Casino professional, in a special match. The summary:

Harvard Club at Columbia University Club.—George Whitney, Harvard, defeated H. D. Buckley, Columbia, [illegible]; Du Pont Irving, Harvard, defeated [illegible], Columbia, [illegible]; [illegible], Harvard, defeated [illegible], Columbia, [illegible]; George O. Winston, Harvard, defeated A. L. Marvin, Columbia, [illegible]; W. P. Sanger, Harvard, defeated [illegible], Columbia, [illegible]; Hamilton Hadden, Harvard, defeated [illegible], Columbia, [illegible]; Donald Scott, Harvard, defeated Harold Kellock, Columbia, 9—15, 17—15, 18—16.

JUAREZ, Jan. 23.—Bourbon Beau at 10 to 1, owned by Thomas Collins of New York, proved a big surprise when he won the handicap event here to-day. The horse was considered a "good thing," and was played heavily in out-of-town poolrooms. [illegible] The summaries:

Hermis Presented to France.

When M. Edmond Blanc purchased the American stallion Hermis a few weeks ago in France for $4,000, he did so for the purpose of presenting the horse to the French Government. Hermis will stand at one of the Government breeding establishments for the improvement of military horses. Owners of racing and breeding farms and others evidently were of the opinion that the chestnut son of [illegible] of the West was bought to occupy the box in which stood the famous Flying Fox.

Irish-American A. C.'s Big Relay.

The running of Melvin Sheppard and Harry Gissing in Newark last Wednesday evening, when both of these great middle distancers came out of retirement and showed wonderful speed over the quarter-mile route, has filled Coach Robertson with confidence that the one-mile relay team that he is grooming for the Irish-American carnival in Madison Square Garden on Thursday night will set a record that will stand for years. Before seeing Sheppard and Gissing run, Robertson expected his quartet to cover the mile route in better than 3:23, but now he is claiming better than 3:21. Both Sheppard and Gissing beat 52 seconds on the little Newark track, and they will do at least a second faster on the Garden oval. Both of the other members of the Irish-American flying four, Jim Rosenberger and Abel Kiviat, are going over the boards in great style. "Rosie" is always good for 51 seconds or better, and Kiviat but recently showed his ability to carry his speed over the sprint distances by stepping 600 yards in 1:14 flat. An additional entry for the 3,000-metre special, in which George Bonhag will start, has been received from Jimmie Sullivan, the veteran one-mile champion, who has regained his speed this Winter. In a recent two-mile trial in which Bonhag covered the distance in [illegible] Sullivan kept pace with the "Indoor King" for three-quarters of the distance without much exertion.

M'GILL SWIMMERS BEATEN BY NEW YORK

Canadians Capture Only Two Events from Athletic Clubmen in Pool.

The McGill University swimmers, the crack aquatic team of the Dominion, were defeated in a competition with the New York Athletic Club at the later's natatorium last night by a score of 33 to 20. McGill failed to show the strength expected of them, although the Canadian champion, George Hodgson, won the 220-yard swim in fast time. George Draper, another Canadian swimmer, won the 50-yard event, but those were the only two first places which went to the visitors.

Hodgson is 18 years old, and holds all the Canadian records from 100 yards upward. He also won the Inter-Empire championship in England at the Coronation games. The 220 was the best race of the meet. It was for 8½ lengths of the tank, Jim Reilly of the New York A. C. taking the lead. At the end of the second length Hodgson caught Reilly and captured a slight lead, which he held to the end, finishing in front by two yards. The time, 2:38⅘, was fast, being only two seconds slower than Daniels's mark in the same tank.

George Draper of McGill took the lead at the start of the 50-yard swim, and held it to the end, beating George South of the New Yorks by about a foot. Hodgson made his first appearance in the 100-yard swim and was beaten by Nerich of the New Yorks. Hodgson lost his advantage in this race by swimming out of his line.

Arthur McAleenan, Jr., captured the fancy diving event with his specialty dive, a two and a half, in which he turned twice and plunged in forward. It was the most spectacular dive of the evening. Draper of McGill made a pretty dive, a half twist backward [illegible]. The Winged Foot swimmers had no trouble in winning the relay race. South, the first swimmer, got a good lead from F. M. McGill of McGill University, and gave his successor a good start on the second relay. The summaries:

Fine Entry for Barnard Games.

That Mercersburg School athletes, who have probably won more point trophies than any other aggregation of scholastic track and field performers, intend to add to their already long list became known yesterday when they made entries in the big Barnard series of games to be held in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory on the afternoon of Feb. 3. This school has quite a following in and around New York, where the Pennsylvania athletes have generally cleaned up since that former great hurdler, Alvin Kraenzlein, first brought them into competition with the lads of the metropolitan schools. Aside from the long list of relays the sports promise to attract in the other events all the [illegible] among the schoolboys of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania. All types of athletes are catered to, from midget sprinters to the [illegible] huskies who [illegible] weights. Gissing in Pastime [illegible]

Harry Gissing, the champion middle distancer of the Irish-American Athletic Club, has sent in his entry for the half-mile run at the Pastime Athletic Club games on Feb. [illegible] at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory. Gissing has competed in only a few events this season, but he has kept in good condition and should give a good account of himself. He will also probably start in the relay team of the Irish-American Athletic Club, [illegible] meet the best local middle distance men, and followers of athletics will have a [illegible] opportunity to form an opinion as to whether he still retains his old-time speed.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, JAN. 24, 1912.

THE DUAL SUBWAY PLAN.

The ideal subway settlement would be an arrangement whereby the cost would be defrayed entirely from the fares, and the city's interests would take precedence of the private profits. That briefly describes the arrangement whereby the city will come into possession of the present subway without having expended a penny, without having incurred risks of any sort, and meanwhile having gained tax income rivaling the private profits which some regard as excessive. Looking backward over the past decade we are better able to appreciate the ability and public spirit of those who conceived and executed that arrangement which it is not now possible to duplicate after the way has been shown so that those who run may read if their eyes are open. Those who made the duplication of that contract impossible by law are responsible for the present situation wherein the above preference in favor of the city becomes a preference in favor of the private capital which is necessitated both by aversion to public operation and by the city's straitened finances.

It does not follow that the plan now nearing consummation is to be condemned. On the contrary, although theoretically inferior, it is practically the best the conditions allow. According to the Mayor's message yesterday the city has only $36,376,472 available for subway construction, and it is embarking on a scheme requiring nearly a quarter billion of capital. It is under the necessity of doing something, since inaction would threaten the tax income from some billions of assessed valuations. There is no doubt about it, for this year the tax protests have been allowed by thousands, and there is reason to fear, unless action is thorough as well as quick, that there will be something like a collapse in tax values through broad areas in both the outer and inner districts. The city must go on, cannot go on without assistance, and is limited to what it can do by the shackles fastened on it by those whose rainbow plans have collapsed, and yet who are the severest critics of the men who have cleaned up the mess they made. Being equally without sense of shame or responsibility, they are filling the air with shouts that the city is betrayed instead of redeemed from the consequences of their day dreams.

The condition which confronts the city is that only those sections are thriving which enjoy a through ride for five cents between the residential and the commercial sections. There is no city in existence which enjoys or can support two districts of what may be called metropolitan character, meaning the financial, social, theatrical, wholesale, and retail quarters, which are supported by all the other sections and which in turn are tributary to it. There never can be another Manhattan created elsewhere in Greater New York. The expenditure of a billion in subways would not provide the population necessary to support it. But residential districts can be provided in infinite variety wherever the conditions of travel are made equally favorable. The city has the necessary area, and it is provided with the necessary veins of surface and elevated travel, but the veins have no connection with the arteries which reach into the heart of Manhattan. If the circulation of population is to be natural it is necessary that the routes in the outer boroughs shall have a distributing link in Manhattan. It is beyond possibility that the city could build either subways or elevated or surface lines everywhere, and it is undesirable that it should when there are lines in existence which are self-supporting and which can be tied into the Manhattan link, which alone is necessary to give them fresh vitality and extended capacity for public service. Accordingly the Brooklyn system gets admission to Manhattan, and allows the city to use its existing system in consideration of receiving the income it is earning. Brooklyn and large areas of Queens are placed on an equality with the Bronx, and the city stands a fair chance of repeating its profitable tax experience there. The competition between those districts, which has been unfair, becomes fair, and countless rentpayers should rejoice.

The managers of the existing subway estimate that the provision of the boon of a single fare to Brooklyn and thereabout will be at an expense to their income of five millions annually. Not for that reason ought Brooklyn and Queens and Manhattan to forego the advantages expected. But the fact had to be taken into consideration when the contract with the Interborough was under discussion. With such a deduction from income the Interborough is not able to deal as generously as otherwise. It has a contract on which it might prefer to stand if it felt able to withstand the force of public sentiment, which demands that it shall do something for the city which has done so well by it. Accordingly it assents to an arrangement making large additions to its routes by subways and elevated roads on terms approved by the city negotiators, and nobody has accused them of undue tenderness for the Interborough.

It is necessary to face the ugly fact that the city subordinates its investment to private capital for sums large enough to be embarrassing if the investment is unwise. The city enters a speculative partnership, instead of being a special partner with preference for advances. THE TIMES has done all it could to prevent this, but it seems to be agreed that something must be done. And it is necessary to consider that, although the flier in rapid transit may not prove the nickel mine which some anticipate, the city holds another string besides that held by the railways. They have no participation in the city's tax betterment and in that accommodation for its population which the city is bound to furnish, lest a worse thing happen.

MORE POLICEMEN NEEDED.

When Mayor GAYNOR signed the Equal Pay bill at an added expense to the city of over three million dollars, he said that the money might be "saved in other ways." Police Commissioner WALDO at that time appeared before the Board of Estimate to urge his bill for 1,000 more policemen. The Mayor "squelched" the Commissioner before he could speak, and told him he should get along without the increase he thought he needed. Now complaints are coming in from outlying precincts in the Bronx, from the Washington Heights section, Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond, of an abnormal increase in burglaries and crimes of violence. Commissioner WALDO freely admits that these precincts are not adequately patroled, and the Board of Aldermen has asked him to submit a letter reviewing the situation.

He cannot have his 1,000 men, that is certain. They were not provided for in the Budget, and the Charter forbids the issuance this year, to meet all emergencies, of special revenue bonds above the sum of $2,000,000. Perhaps the Board of Estimate may be persuaded to issue bonds enough to pay for 500 or 750 additional men, these to be appointed gradually. Alderman KLINE, who introduced the resolution favoring an increase of 1,000 policemen, thinks "half a loaf is better than none." The lack of policemen was sorely felt back in Commissioner BINGHAM's day, and conditions are now acute.

THE TRAIL OF THE MONEY TRUST.

The Democrats of the House begin to have misgivings about stirring up the money trust under Representative LINDBERGH's resolution. The cooler ones among them argue that, inasmuch as the National banks are subject any day, without notice, to a thorough examination by the Government; that since there has never been any loss whatever to noteholders of National banks through mismanagement and failure, and since the loss to depositors has been since the organization of the system a very small fraction of 1 per cent. of total deposits, it cannot reasonably be expected that a House investigation would bring forth fruits meet for campaign use. If the Democrats do decide to begin the investigation, however, we think they will see that it cannot be confined to New York. This is a great country, and New York is only a small part of it, so small in the banking sense that the amended Monetary Commission's bill gives it only a very small minority representation in the Board of Directors of the Central Reserve Association. The money trust is not of New York alone. He has many lairs, and his trail leads all over the country. Let the Lindbergh inquiry open every book of accounts, let it pry open every vault's door, but not in New York alone. Oh, no; let the revealing light of the investigation beat upon the banks of the interior as well.

There is not a town of 10,000 inhabitants in the country where the local banker has not made enemies who will declaim against him as violently as Mr. LINDBERGH rails against the bankers of New York. Many a humble merchant or farmer willing to pay 6 or 8 per cent. interest has been told in a freezing tone that the bank had no money to loan. Where was the bank's money? In Wall Street, loaned out at 2¾ per cent. on call to soulless Stock Exchange speculators, or put at the disposal of some great manipulator of railroad and trust securities. Let Mr. LINDBERGH look into this. He says that the "sacred reserves" of the banks are kept from the use of the people, and they are put out in speculation to manipulate stocks, to finance corners in foodstuffs, to gobble up railways and industrial concerns. Mr. LINDBERGH ought by all means to ask where the money comes from that enables the Wall Street money trust to do all these wicked things. In the year 1911 the interior banks sent to New York $687,038,000, and New York sent to them $468,861,000. New York's gain from the interior in that year was $218,177,000. The last report of the Controller of the Currency showed that the National banks of New York City alone carried in the item "due to banks, &c.," $627,091,958. Let Mr. LINDBERGH inquire how much of this money came from the banks of his own small town of Little Falls, how much from Stillwater, Kankakee, Fargo, Chillicothe, Baton Rouge, Topeka, and Little Rock. When the banker of a small interior city has spare cash he does not loan it all to the farmer or to the local merchant; he sends it to his correspondent in a near-by larger city, then it goes to a reserve city, and ultimately a great part of it comes to New York right into the clutches of the money trust, there to be loaned at 2¾ per cent. Bankers and men of affairs know perfectly well why money can be had on call at 2¾ per cent., while the merchant must pay 5 per cent. for time money. Mr. LINDBERGH does not know why this is so. In the course of the investigation, if an investigation is had, he may find out, but certainly he ought to find out why the interior banks turn a denying countenance upon local borrowers and smile upon the Wall Street Stock Exchange operator at 2¾ per cent.

Mr. LINDBERGH is perfectly sure that the Monetary Commission plan of currency reform is a gigantic conspiracy in the interest of the Wall Street money trust. Candid men who have studied the plan are convinced that the establishment of a Central Reserve Association would be an effectual check upon the great annual flow of currency from the interior to New York. It is suspected that Wall Street's opposition to the plan springs from the belief that something of that kind would happen. But the place to inquire into the currency movement is at the source, not at the reservoir. If Mr. LINDBERGH will begin with the bankers of Little Falls and other interior towns, he may discover a way to throttle the Wall Street money trust without putting a single Wall Street banker on the witness stand. Certainly if the investigation is worth making, it should be countrywide.

NEGROES' RIGHTS IN THEATRES.

When a dramatic critic was a few years ago excluded from certain theatres in this city, his case was carried to the higher courts, which decided that the theatres were private, not public enterprises, and their managers might exclude guests for any reason, or for no reason at all, provided the price paid for their seats were refunded. Three Justices of the Court of Special Sessions decided on Monday, contrary to this precedent, that a theatre must admit negroes to seats for which they have purchased tickets. The case was brought by the local Vigilance Committee of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People.

Probably the theatrical managers would admit negroes to orchestra seats as readily as white persons, if it were found profitable. It is a matter of business with them, not of prejudice. But, if compelled to admit negroes, they would find that the prejudice of white patrons deprived them of their profits. This would amount to confiscation, and an invasion of the rights of private business. If, however, the courts of appeal hold to their former ruling it will hardly be necessary to assign reasons for excluding anybody from theatres. The friends of the negroes are doing them a disservice in this matter.

"IN THE ENEMY'S COUNTRY."

Senator LA FOLLETTE told his big audience on Monday evening that he had been warned that he could not talk in New York, and when he found a crowd inside and outside of Carnegie Hall ready to listen to him and applaud him, he was very happy. He had a right to be, but he would do better not to bank too heavily on this fact. Sixteen years ago another statesman quite as sincere, eloquent, and radical came to New York as to "the enemy's country," had a far greater audience, received much more applause, and was made as happy as the Senator says he is. This agitated and agitating orator subsequently sought election as President three times. Each time he was badly beaten. To-day the station he holds is neither dignified nor enviable. It is that of mischiefmaker only, nursing the hope of hurting those he hates, quite powerless to help himself. There is enough in the parallel to give the Senator food for reflection.

The two men are, in fact, alike in several respects. Mr. BRYAN, as well as Mr. LA FOLLETTE, "voices"—to use one of their pet locutions—a certain discontent on the one hand, and a certain aspiration on the other, which are shared by a very large part of the people of the country and which are far from being without reason. The corporations which both of them attack so savagely have had many evil traits, have sought undue privileges, have got them often by corrupt means, and have exerted a baleful influence on the public affairs of the Republic. Nearly everything that either of these gentlemen says about the corporations, as a whole, is true of some of them, and the fact has created a natural and deep distrust of all of them. The discontent thus aroused, the impulse to make a clean sweep of all these evils, is inevitable. Messrs. BRYAN and LA FOLLETTE may be using it for unworthy purposes, but it would be folly to ignore that there is some reason for the sentiment they appeal to and are trying to lash into fury.

The radical trouble with the two statesmen is in the nature of the remedies they propose. They are teaching that the way to correct existing evils is to put everything—legislation, administration, the judiciary—into the hands of the voters for their direct action. Let the people initiate laws, let them, on demand, have all laws referred to a majority vote, let them review the decisions of the courts and "recall" any Judge, even of the highest, whom they disapprove, and we shall soon have everything for the best in the best of worlds. We think we do not exaggerate; we certainly mean not to, and Mr. LA FOLLETTE's speech on Monday night confirms our interpretation of his theories.

Now that the definite will of the majority of the voters, deliberately formed, consistently adhered to, and fairly expressed, should determine the treatment of public affairs in all branches, even the judiciary, is the fundamental principle of democracy. But that the hastily formed, rashly expressed wish of a majority should at any moment be able to make radical changes is not a principle of democracy at all. It is really not government, but the negation of government and the introduction of chaos; nor is it the exercise of real freedom, but rather the installment of the despotism of a fleeting majority, the oppression of the minority for the time being.

The most striking feature of the advocacy of this amazing programme is that it assumes the overwhelming defeat of the politicians. This would be ludicrous if it did not involve such serious consequences. There is no substantial doubt that the politicians—that is to say, the experts who give all their time and skill to preparations for elections—would be far more powerful under this scheme than they ever have been. One amusing piece of evidence to this effect is that the two most active managers of the movement for the scheme are of precisely this class, are politicians and very little else. Mr. BRYAN and Mr. LA FOLLETTE are avowedly experts in politics. So are nearly all the men, in either party, who are engaged with them. If they could succeed in their plans, if they could bring it about that the voters should have to act at the polls on all sorts of legislation and all phases of administration and every variety of judicial decision that can be dragged into politics, there would be ample opportunity for the experts; there would, indeed, be pressing need for them. And there is no sort of certainty that they would be as disinterested as Messrs. BRYAN and LA FOLLETTE claim to be.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Surely an Era of Reform. It is characteristic of these days—which, though not yet all they ought to be, are in probably every respect very appreciably better than what are stupidly and falsely called "the good old times"—that one railway after another is coming to the conclusion that it is bad policy as well as wrong either to ignore or to deny the right of the public promptly to know all the facts in regard to accidents to trains.

Once, and not so long ago, railway managers and their employés of every grade, the former by set purpose and the latter under orders of the strictest and sternest kind, recognized no claim for information when anything went wrong on the road, treated demands for it as an insolent invasion of private business, and only when dragged into court would they give a reluctant and scanty account of what had happened. The one thought seemed to be to avoid saying anything that might be used against the corporation in a damage suit. There are some railways that still maintain that attitude, but a considerable number of them have abandoned it to a greater or less degree. And the number is steadily increasing.

The latest addition to it has been made by the Long Island Railroad Company, which has just issued an announcement to the effect that, fully recognizing the public's right to full, accurate, and immediate information in regard to accidents and to interruptions of traffic, its General Superintendent and its Superintendent will hereafter be ready, both by day and by night, whether at their offices or at their homes, to answer any inquiries that may be made over the telephone or otherwise by representatives of the press, and to supply them with "the essential facts."

One looks a bit askance at that word "essential," for opinions differ as to what facts are and what are not essential for an adequate description of a railway accident, and a good reporter might only begin to get interested when a railway official thought enough had been said. The general tenor of the statement is such, however, that suspicions in regard to this word are probably unjust, and justifies the assumption that the company makes its promise with no "mental reservation."

Having gone so far, the company might well go a little further and recognize a special right of the passengers and would-be passengers on its trains to be told the cause of delays and their probable length, not by far-away high officials, but by conductors, station masters, and the like.

Freedom Has Its Limitations. Naturally enough, President SMITH, Senator SMOOT, and other leading lights in Mormondom cordially agree with most of the remarkable statements about their faith just made by the Episcopalian Bishop of Utah, the Right Rev. F. S. SPAULDING. They say, indeed, that he is not quite right in identifying the Mormon God with ADAM, but that, as raising no issue likely ever to be brought into court or politics, they suavely pass over, in order the more heartily to commend and corroborate his assertion in regard to polygamy—that it has never been practiced otherwise than as "a religious and sacred institution."

Of course, that delights them, for it puts their special "relic of barbarism," as they have always asserted and as only too many "Gentiles" will hastily admit, under the protection of our revered rule as to "liberty of conscience" and the "free exercise of religion." People who have thought anything about that rule, however, know perfectly well that those who established it and those who have since lived under it either consciously or subconsciously assumed that "religious freedom" did not extend to the perpetration of crimes, even though the criminals did call them "rites" or "tenets."

A very essential element of many ancient religions and of several that still survive has been human sacrifice, yet nobody, however scrupulous about protecting "liberty of conscience," would dream that sincerity in the belief that human sacrifices are laudable and necessary was enough to justify resort to it in this country. Polygamy stands in much the same relation to the law of the land, and the question whether it is or is not a part of the Mormon religion is inconsequential, no matter how it may be answered.

Possibly it is because of Bishop SPAULDING's failure or inability to see that religious liberty is and must be limited, even in a country where consciences are free, that he fails to say anything about polygamy as an institution still surviving among the Mormons or about their evident intention not wholly to abandon it as long as their politicians are able to bargain with other politicians for immunity from "persecution." For that omission, too, President SMITH and Senator SMOOT will be very grateful to him, and not at all severe on his mistakes—which, by the way, are not mistakes at all—as to ADAM.

Living Over Volcanoes. It seems to be about time to do something permanently effective for the prevention of the explosions in sewers which have become such familiar episodes in local history. We do not recall that the flying manhole covers have yet killed anybody, but they have injured not a few, and the latest of these volcanic eruptions was of sufficient violence clearly to indicate that some day one of them will cause a serious disaster.

The secret of prevention, of course, is thorough ventilation of the sewers, for an attempt to keep explosive gases from entering them, in greater or less degree, would be almost hopeless now, and it grows more and more difficult to do it as the use of automobiles increases. Inevitably some gasoline will find its way into the sewers, in spite of all that can be done in the way of passing and enforcing city ordinances. Gas mains will leak and break, too, and we are more and more resorting to impervious pavements, so that more and more of the escaping illuminant, which is also a high explosive when mixed with air, will continue to join the gasoline vapors in the only places where they can go.

More manholes, with more open covers, may be the remedy, but perhaps some system of forced ventilation will have to be adopted.

LONG-LIVED, BUT NOT OLD.

That Should Imply That the Mind Would Continue to Grow.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The theory of diet and general physiological conduct contributing to the attainment of a century of life as enunciated by Metchnikoff and synopsized in THE SUNDAY TIMES, is interesting reading, for those who wish to live long though do not want to be old.

In order to make such a great age worth living, we need a companion theory of usefulness through such a tract as shall be formulated by a congress of moral philosophers, whose lives should be consistent with their precepts. This will require the judgment of another committee, whose qualifications must be determined by still another body, and onward until it reaches the average individual who rejects all philosophy, and continues the "good old," very bad way.

Aside from the acquirement of a knowledge of the elements and wonderful adaptation in contribution to material progress, few of us make much success of life. Absence of success is failure, and as few are benefited by experience a prolongation of life to such would be nothing but an enlargement of failure.

The success of a man's life can only be determined by a discriminating estimate after his death. As the average duration of life is variously estimated at 40 years, and a few men are of special value to the world before that age, the majority of men seem only to be born to strive and to succumb to failure. We are the sons and the parents of the foolish. So accustomed are we to the self-evident truths, uttered by pagan and Christian philosophers, that we really assent to them, but are recreant in practice. The object of life seeming to be individual and collective happiness, the march of the human mind is clubfooted in action towards the coveted goal.

It is obsessed with the passion for speedy and great riches, which if attained are principally employed for vain display or to leave to the inheritance of an impatient progeny, for the same uses or wanton waste. This course excites the hatred of the envious, or is regarded with indifference or scorn by those of equal or greater wealth. Then those of less means or fewer opportunities who seek to imitate are not even miserably happy, but utter failures. Now unless along with the prolongation of life to the century mark the co-ordinate powers of mind are proportionately lengthened, the mere extension of the functions of circulation and respiration is of no benefit; perhaps rather a postponement of celestial felicitude.

If the men of 50 cannot obtain employment, those at 95 under the same condition would increase the incumbrances of society. The multi-millionaire at 50, by ordinary accretion might become something dreadful at 95, and an incumbrance of another character.

Few men beyond 70 are robust in body or mind. The few prominent ones have been remarkable exceptions also, in other respects during life. When we are all exceptions, so to speak, a century of existence may be very much worth while, and if we steadily corralled wholesome sense, retaining some and benevolently transmitting some to those in need of it, there would be an increase in the world's capital of happiness.

DOUBTING THOMAS.

The Postage on Magazines.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If your correspondent Steven T. Byington in a recent issue of THE TIMES understood the postage question he would not charge, as he did, that the low second-class rate of postage is a subsidy to the publishers.

I know this has been thoughtlessly charged by both President Taft and his Postmaster General, but it can be easily proved that if there is any subsidy about the matter it is a subsidy to the great reading public, as it was probably intended to be by the Congress which reduced second-class rates twenty-five years ago or so from 2 cents a pound to 1 cent a pound. The object was to provide cheap periodical reading matter for the people of this country, and that object has been accomplished thoroughly.

Daily papers are sold at low rates, and the subscription rates of magazines, agricultural and religious weeklies are very low. The large volume of advertising carried by these publications has also assisted in keeping prices down. A material raise in second-class postage rates would compel publishers everywhere to raise subscription prices, thereby defeating the original intention of Congress.

It is a well-known fact that the despised advertisements produce a considerable share of the profitable first-class business in the form of letters. A raise on second-class postage to the point desired by Postmaster General Hitchcock would ruin perhaps half of the publications of the country, by means of which new thousands of men and women earn their living, to say nothing of the employment provided in printing offices and in papermaking.

TO SING OR NOT TO SING.

Brooklyn Choir on Sympathetic Strike Because of Leader's Dismissal.

What next Sunday may bring forth in a musical way is an anxious question among members of the South Reformed Church, Fifty-fifth Street and Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn. The music committee occasioned the resignation of Choirmaster Joseph F. Wright two weeks ago, and on Sunday, a week ago, there was no choir music, the choir members remaining away to show their loyalty to Mr. Wright. Last Sunday many of them still stayed away, and it is feared that Mr. Wright's resignation has permanently disrupted the choir.

The choirmaster wrote a letter to the choir in which he spoke strongly of the manner in which his resignation had been practically demanded, and a meeting of the choir was held in the home of J. O. Otto, general manager of the Royal Dutch West Indies Steamship Line, at 429 Forty-ninth Street. They expressed their sympathy with Mr. Wright, and while they didn't put the matter to a vote they seem tacitly to have agreed not to sing in church except under Mr. Wright's leadership.

The Rev. William MacDonald, pastor of the church, said that Mr. Wright had been elevated from a post in the choir to its leadership when the former choirmaster went away. He said the duties required more technical skill than the music committee believed Mr. Wright to possess, and that the young man agreed with them when the members of the committee told him their views. The minister would not admit that there was such a thing as a sympathetic strike of the choir.

PASTORS SCORE RICH MEN.

Some Steal, Says One, and Others Would Do So if Ill Paid.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—At to-day's meeting of the Men and Religion Forward Movement in this city, the Rev. I. J. Lansing of Chicago, condemning what he termed the deplorable industrial condition in Philadelphia, and the low wages paid workers in the textile, machinery, and building trades, said:

"The great wonder of it all is that more of these men are not driven to steal. If you, Mr. Well-Dressed Man, and myself saw our wives and children threatened with starvation, I wonder how long our ethical or moral sense would withstand the strain, and how long we would refrain from stealing or other crimes that might relieve them?"

Mr. Lansing declared that many men of wealth are actually thieves, and that to aid the unfortunates through charity only assisted their employer in maintaining a starvation wage scale.

"Why," asked the Rev. J. W. Francis of Boston, "are our communities sprinkled full of Christians, while the communities themselves remain pagan? It is one of the great faults of our modern life that so many of our men of affairs are long on personal virtue and almighty short on economical, industrial virtue."

McKINLEY HEIRS BARRED.

Sister of ex-President's Widow Gets the Latter's Estate.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 23.—By a decision of the Supreme Court rendered to-day, affirming the judgment of Starke County Court, the estate of Mrs. Ida McKinley, widow of President William McKinley, goes to her sister, Mrs. Mary Barber, not to the late President's brothers and sisters and their children.

The suit was brought to obtain a construction of President McKinley's will, under the terms of which his estate was to go to his widow and at her death to the President's brothers and sisters. Because the estate was entailed and because Mrs. McKinley died without issue, it was held that the estate should go to Mrs. Barber, her sister and heir. Mrs. Barber thus comes into permanent possession of the McKinley block in Canton.

The nephews and nieces of the martyred President are barred from sharing in the property. Mrs. Barber and her husband, Marshall C. Barber, took possession of the real estate in litigation.

RARE TAPESTRIES IN EXHIBIT.

Original Drawing of Famous Chancelor Livingston in League's Display.

It is thought that the tapestry owned by Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry was woven for a Louis XVI. design, which will be in the annual exhibition of the Architectural League opening with the reception on Saturday. This is one of the series of rare drawings representative of the French school of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, recently purchased and presented by the council to the Cooper Union Museum.

This collection is known as the De Cloux collection and contains 350 original designs, forty of which have been arranged for the league show by Miss Eleanor Hewitt. The famous works of art known as the Chancellor Livingston are of unique character and rarely beautiful in design.

The Death of Campion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the mad excitement of escaping from death all men are equal, unless true heroism makes one man greater than another. This was the case with Chief Walsh at the Equitable fire. Was it not also true of Campion? Campion was not even on duty. He lost his life through his voluntary desire to be of service. Should not his two daughters share in the public's testimonial to heroism? Campion saw his companion in distress rescued. Hope sprang anew to life in his breast, and then the curtain of death fell once more as that mass of ice shut off his last chance of escape.

The terrible picture of those frozen hands clinging to the iron bars is one which should place him side by side with Walsh in the hero's hall of fame.

Elevator Shafts and Fires.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Much has of late been written of destructive fires and in particular the dangerous drafts in the elevator shafts. Would it not be well to experiment with double drops or other means, to be closed or opened as required while the elevator moves up and down the shaft?

Young Widow's Slender Earnings.

A young widow, 26 years old, has four little children for whom to make a home. She is a practical, intelligent mother, and the children are sent to school regularly and are being well brought up. The mother's earnings at piece work, which she can do while keeping an oversight of the four-year-old boy, cannot exceed $5 a week. The Charity Organization Society asks for $175 to pay the rent and to increase the widow's weekly income for a year, that she may keep her children with her and be able to give them plenty of nourishing food.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The Charity Organization Society acknowledges with thanks the following contributions received in answer to previous appeals in THE TIMES:

FALSE.

Beneath my window ledge he stands
With upturned face and outstretched hands,
In attitude benign.
It almost seems he says to me,
"Pray, Maiden, come with me and flee!
I seek no love but thine!"

Then peering closer I observe
His back has not the slightest curve,
And that my lover bold
Is false—all false! I see it now!
Alas! It was a snow-man's vow—
Just slippery and cold!

LURANA SHELDON.

GIVES $25,000 FOR A HORSE HOSPITAL

HER HUSBAND JUST SMILES

Women's League for Animals Applauds, but He "Doesn't Know Who Did It"—A Grafting Dog Doctor.

A hospital where lame and sick horses may obtain not only liniment for their bruises, but warm stalls to rest in under a doctor's care until they are able to return to the pavements, is the latest plan for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

It is brought forward by the New York Women's League for Animals, of which Mrs. James Speyer is President. Mrs. Speyer described her hopes for the hospital at an annual meeting of the league at the Hotel Plaza yesterday. While she was speaking of the farm for retired horses and the first-aid dispensary, which have convinced the league of the need for a permanent horse hospital as well, the Treasurer, Clark Williams, interrupted to read this note, which had just arrived by special messenger:

> Dear Mr. Williams: Believing, as you do, in the humane treatment of dumb animals and in the need for a permanent free hospital for their care, I send you herewith my check for $25,000 to assist in the erection of such a hospital. I sincerely hope that the remaining amount necessary to erect such an institution may be speedily forthcoming. Very sincerely,
>
> A FRIEND OF THE CAUSE.

There was a short gasp as the letter was read, followed by applause from the 500 or more women and score of men gathered in the Plaza's large ballroom. The applause was echoed in the galleries, where another 100 women were seated, and when it subsided Mrs. Speyer found that she no longer had to speak of her "hopes" for a hospital, but of actual plans to commence its immediate erection.

At the close of the meeting many of those present tried to find out the identity of the anonymous giver of the $25,000, but both Mrs. Speyer and Treasurer Williams merely smiled. James Speyer, who watched the proceedings from a position near the principal entrance, was named by several persons as the donor of the large check. This he smilingly denied, but he would not offer any suggestion as to who was the donor.

The hospital for horses, when it is added to the League's permanent equipment, will be operated in connection with the free dispensary at 325 Lafayette Street, where 13,000 treatments have been given to horses, dogs, cats, and birds within the past two years, and to the Rest Farm at Matteawan, N. Y., where the horses of poor workingmen are sent to rest up without cost to their owners.

Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the Museum of Natural History, presided at yesterday's meeting of the league. Addresses were made by Dr. Henry M. Leipziger, Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards, (who recited a poem of his own composition,) Police Commissioner Waldo, Dr. William O. Stillman, and Otis Skinner. Miss Beatrice Herford of Boston recited an original monologue.

Bogus Dog Doctor's Graft.

In reporting the year's work for 1911 Mrs. Speyer said it was the best year in the league's history. She told of 8,000 stray dogs and cats humanely destroyed, and praised Billy, the oldest horse in the work-horse parade of last Summer, who had thirty-six years of steady work to his credit.

The league's plan of sending out dogs with contribution boxes attached to their collars had brought in $600, Mrs. Speyer said, and this convinced her that "the well-to-do dogs have worked hard and faithfully for their poorer brethren."

Then there was the matter of draughty show windows with birds and other pets in them during the extreme cold weather. The league's agents visited scores of bird stores and put a stop to that. Chicken vendors also had been visited and warned that overcrowding of crates will be followed by arrests and fines.

Work horses owned by poor drivers had not been overlooked, and to such horses fifty chest protectors had been donated by a single wealthy member. For the hot Summer months 400 fly nets were given out, and for the Winter 400 sets of chain shoes to prevent horses from slipping.

To the dispensary in Lafayette Street came one man with many dogs, hardly a day passing on which he did not put in an appearance with a new pet for treatment. Mrs. Speyer's assistants became suspicious, she said, and found that this man was making a good living by posing as a dog doctor and canvassing for the patients he brought to the dispensary.

To the league's watering trough, among the 1,000 horses receiving free drinks last Summer was one, a big gray, who never missed a day and never missed trying to bathe in the trough after drinking.

Mrs. Speyer told of animal hospitals in Europe and of her regret, growing constantly more keen, that the first city in the United States should be so far behind the European centres in this respect. She urged that funds be provided for a horse ambulance, so that it can be put into use at once in connection with the dispensary and, later, as a "runner" for the hospital.

"Big Bill" Recites a Poem.

To Henry M. Leipziger, Supervisor of Lectures for the Board of Education, the poem "Old Dog Tray" appealed as much as any poem in the language, and he said he wished to pay a tribute to it as such, and to "Black Beauty" as a work of great power in prose. He said he wanted all children to know both of these masterpieces, so that they would learn to be kind and sympathetic to animals.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards followed Otis Skinner, who spoke humorously. "Big Bill" ventured an opinion that he was brought on to play a "heavy" rôle after the comedian's departure. He had difficulty at first in maintaining his composure before so many women listeners, but he finally became self-possessed and recited this poem:

"Why don't they keep the parks a little greener?"
You ask with annoyance not undue.
"Why don't they keep the streets a little cleaner?"
You ask, with anger in your voice, too.
And while you score the Park and Street
Departments,
Do you ever stop to think that "they"
means "you"?

"I want to tell you," said Commissioner Edwards, "that it makes me feel very bad to see a Street Department horse slip down on the ice. But what can I do? I advertise for pads. I have to advertise. The cheapest bidder has to get the contract. The cheapest bidder furnishes the cheapest rubber. It is unfit stuff; it wears out, and the horses suffer. I am powerless in the red tape of the City Government."

Police Commissioner Waldo, blushing furiously, said he thought executives ought not to try to make addresses, but he simply couldn't help thanking the women who have taken so much interest in the welfare of the police horses. "You simply have no idea," he confided, "how these fine horses gain almost human intelligence through constant contact with policemen. That kind of a horse shouldn't be sold out to go on a junk wagon when he gets old. You ladies should have him for your farm, or he should be given a good home. I am glad you are thinking of horses like these."

Among those present were Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Cadwalader Jones, Mrs. Edward R. Wharton, Mrs. George Bathune Adams, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. W. Orme Wilson, Mrs. Charles Greenough, Mrs. Edward Breitung, Mrs. Edmund Baylies, and Mrs. H. H. Hollister.

TURKEY TROT LURES RUBINSTEIN CLUB

Dancers Practice It in the Waldorf Corridors and Then Slip Into the Ballroom

EVEN WHEN MUSIC STOPS

Ballroom Transformed Into a Southern Pine Forest—Calcium Lights on the Dancers.

The "turkey trot," condemned along with the "grizzly bear" and the "bunny hug" by half of society, and barred at the recent dance of the National Arts Society at the Hotel Astor by proclamation of Mrs. J. Christopher Marks, who promised that any one trying it would be forced to leave the ballroom, proved to most of the 800-odd dancers at the third annual dance of the Rubinstein Club held last night in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf a fascinating mystery, which they spent the better part of the evening trying to solve.

Not just one couple, but many tried the intricate step of the much-discussed dance, and there were moments, even when the orchestra was quiet, that the eager neophytes gave over to practice in the corridors and halls off the ballroom itself.

The large number of dancers kept those on the floor from trying the "turkey trot," unless they could extricate themselves from the crush, and slip into a corner. Those who succeeded instantly fell into the step and soon the corners were full of studious couples. Then some one discovered the corridors, and presently little groups formed there, experimenting with the step. Those who caught the rhythm and swing of the movement whirled off into the ballroom when the music resumed again.

The "turkey trot" as it was danced at the Waldorf was graceful and pretty, and as unobjectionable as a twostep or waltz. And there was no comment when such couples as could slip far enough from their neighbors tried the dance.

There were probably more than 1,100 persons at the dance. All the boxes in the three tiers were occupied, and the capacity of the rose room was taxed when supper was served.

The ballroom resembled a glen in a Southern pine forest, for around the walls were Southern pines and smilax, in which red and white electric bulbs were concealed. Frequently through the evening the lights were lowered and colored calcium rays were thrown on the dancers.

In the cotillion 150 couples took part, and a feature of it was the releasing of automatic butterflies in one movement. They flew about the room like live things.

Miss Lorena Manville danced two fancy dances in costume, one a Polish dance and the other a Hungarian dance, to the music of Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2. Mrs. H. C. Hallenbeck and Mrs. Charles Tollner arranged and managed the dance.

Among those present were Mrs. W. H. H. Amerman, Mrs. Werner Anderson, Mrs. L. V. Armstrong, Mrs. W. F. H. Armstrong, Miss Mary Jordan Baker, Miss Helen Barrett, Mrs. C. G. Braxmar, Mrs. A. H. MRS. WILSON GIVES DINNER.

Mme. Maeterlinck and Edward Clement Sing for Her Sixty Guests.

Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Sr., gave a large dinner last night at the Wilson residence, 3 East Sixty-fourth Street, and afterward Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, with a number of their dinner guests, attended the ball given by Ambassador and Mrs. Reid for the Connaughts.

The Wilson residence, one of the largest in New York, was simply decorated, and the sixty dinner guests were seated at five flower-decked tables in the large pale blue and gold dining room.

The dinner guests included Col. J. J. Astor and Mrs. Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Bourke Cockran, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Griscom, Mr. and Mrs. Grand d'Hauteville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, Miss Mabel Gerry, Mrs. Frederick Bronson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. Starr Miller, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reick, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. F. Gray Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. After dinner the guests went up to the ballroom, in blue and gold, and Mme. Maeterlinck and Edward Clement sang. About seventy-five additional guests came in for the music. This was Mme. Maeterlinck's first private appearance in New York, and the programme was therefore of unusual interest.

Mme. Maeterlinck's selections were unpublished French translations by her husband, Maurice Maeterlinck, set to music. The first group was made up of "Toi mon desir," "Les Disgracies," made up of three parts—"Les amoureux s' en vont danser," "J'Ai dans le couer un grand amour," and "Je marche parmi ceux qui vivent"; "Ta face pale," also by Schumann, followed.

Her second group of musical recitations were poems by Maeterlinck, set to Fabre's music, and were "Elle l'enchaina," "Quand l'amant sortit," "Les Sept filles d'Orlamonde," and "J'ai marche trente ans."

Mr. Clement's songs were "Ouve tes yeux bleus," by Massenet; Faure's "Le Secret," and Franck's "Le Marriage des Roses"; Paer's "Tendre Souvenir," (17th century;) "La bataliere," (18th century,) by Weckerlin, and Massenet's "Le Reve de Manon."

Mrs. George Bird's Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bird gave a dinner of fifty covers last night in the private dining room of the Gotham. The guests were seated at one long table, and the decorations throughout were of American Beauty and pink roses. The guests included Dr. W. CAPT. J. A. SITGREAVES DEAD.

Veteran Who Is Believed to Have Fired First Gun of Civil War.

Capt. Julius A. Sitgreaves, a Confederate war veteran, who is believed to have been the man in charge of the company at Fort Moultrie, which fired the first gun of the civil war, died suddenly at his desk in the editorial offices of The American Art News yesterday morning. Dr. H. R. Humphreys, who was summoned, gave the cause of his death as apoplexy.

The question of the first gun of the civil war, which is brought up again by the death of Capt. Sitgreaves, may be answered by assigning to Capt. Sitgreaves's company the firing on the United States ship Star of the West, which was sent to Charleston several months before the real outbreak of the war by the firing on Fort Sumter, and which was fired upon from Fort Moultrie. The first gun fired at Fort Sumter in April is generally assigned to Ruffin, a South Carolina editor.

Capt. Sitgreaves was 73 years old. He was born in Rockhill, S. C., and was educated at the Charleston Military Academy. He enlisted very early in the first disturbances of the civil war. He lost his right leg in one of the battles. He settled in Wheeling, W. Va., after the war, and came to New York in 1887.

Beverly Sitgreaves, the actress, a member of the New Theatre Stock Company last season, is his daughter. Marion, another daughter, is also on the stage. He leaves two sons, who live in New York, Allen and Raymond Sitgreaves. His widow and youngest daughter are at present in San Francisco.

NO STEEL-HARVESTER DEAL, SAYS FARRELL

NO GRAB OF EXPORT TRADE

Shows How Foreign Buyers Pay More for Steel Rails—Thinks Rail Price Will Be Raised.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Despite the report of the Commissioner of Corporations, Herbert Knox Smith, on the cost of the production of steel, the Stanley Steel Committee insists upon having access to the United States Steel Corporation's original cost sheets. President Farrell promised to allow the committee's expert accountant, Farquhar J. MacRae of New York, to examine these cost sheets upon the express stipulation that the original figures would not be made public.

President Farrell has furnished the committee with cost data upon the original sheets, which are to be made accessible to Mr. MacRae merely for the purpose of enabling him to check up the composite statements now filed by the Steel Corporation.

President Farrel denied that the Steel Corporation is on any close terms with the International Harvester Company. Before the Rules Committee it has been charged by advocates of an investigation of the alleged Harvester Trust that the latter and the United States Steel Corporation are controlled and dominated by the same majority stockholders. President Farrell, when asked whether the Steel Corporation, as alleged, grants special allowance to the Harvester Company, said:

"We do not. We have done no business with the International Harvester Company for five or six years. The Harvester Company has boycotted subsidiary companies in the United States Steel Corporation. Beginning with a mere quibble between salesmen, it has resulted in complete estrangement between the International Harvester Company and the United States Steel Corporation. We do not even do business with them."

President Farrell flatly denied that the Steel Corporation has any desire to gobble up the export trade of the world at any price. His attention was called to a criticism of the Steel Corporation made by a British writer, in which this charge was made.

"A monopoly of the iron and steel trade of this country is neither possible nor feasible," Mr. Farrell asserted. "There is no monopoly, nor anything approaching it. Since the Steel Corporation was organized there has been much new capital attracted to the industry, and many furnaces have been built, which are now controlled by the Steel Corporation. The charge that the corporation is seeking to drive other countries out of the export market is wide of the truth.

"The British steel industry must export 40 per cent. of its product to live. Germany must export 50 per cent. and Belgium 80 per cent. The product of this country is greater than that of England, Germany, and Belgium combined. The domestic consumption is so much greater that the export trade is not so vital. It is not the aim of the Steel Corporation to grab the export trade of the world. We are conducting our export trade on a safe and sane basis, without jealousy toward other nations whose export trade is of such vital concern."

Democratic members' notions regarding export prices of the Steel Corporation products were also rudely shaken by the testimony given by Mr. Farrell. The Democratic contention has been for years that the prices to foreign consumers is lower than that to the American buyer of steel. As Mr. Farrell, before becoming head of the corporation, had been in charge of its export business, Democratic members, especially Judge Bartlett of Georgia and Representative McGillicuddy of Maine, decided to put Mr. Farrell through a stringent examination on export prices. They expected to prove their case by his testimony. Instead they considerably weakened it.

Foreign Rail Buyers Pay More.

Precise figures given by Mr. Farrell show that the foreign prices of the products of the Steel Corporation generally were higher than those to domestic consumers. The domestic price on barbed wire in 1911 was $1.85 at the mills. The export price on barbed wire was $2, delivered ready for export. The domestic price on nails was $1.55 a keg; the foreign price was $1.65 at New York, to which must be added the cost of transportation, which the foreign consumer would have to pay.

The price of standard steel rails to domestic buyers is $28 a ton. The price of American-made steel rails to consumers abroad is $31.70. The Steel Corporation paid the freight.

"We pay the freight," said Mr. Farrell, "but the consumer pays the price. Our price to the foreign consumer is $31.70. After we deduct the freight the result to us is $24.98, but the foreigner does not get his rails at that price. The difference to the consumer abroad is the increase in freight charges. The price of rails is to-day lower than in any other country in the world. The price in Great Britain is $28.50, in Germany $28.75, in Belgium $28.13, in France $32.81, in Russia $35.46, in Italy $36.89, and in Canada $32. The tariff on steel rails in various countries is: Germany, $6.03; France, $17.70; Russia, $28.60; Spain and Italy, $11.76; Austria-Hungary, $12.32, and Canada, $7.84. The tariff on rails entering the United States is $3.92."

Asked by Mr. Beall if officials of the Steel Corporation, when they decided to change prices, were not bound to tell their competitors, President Farrell answered in the negative.

"There is no understanding that such notification should be given," he continued. "Whenever a change of prices is made competitors find it out within ten minutes. If I should meet a competitor on the street or at lunch I would not hesitate to tell him we were going to make a change in prices if one had been decided upon."

President Farrell denied that the Steel Corporation gave any rebates or discounts to the Standard Oil Company on tin plate for cans.

"The minutes of the Carnegie Company," said Mr. Stanley, "show that rebates were given to the Standard Oil on tin plate."

"Before or after the formation of the Steel Corporation?" asked Attorney Reed.

"Afterward," said the Chairman.

Oil Trust Not Favored.

"Since I have been President of the Steel Corporation," said Mr. Farrell, "all tin plate has been sold to the Standard Oil Company and all other companies at a flat price."

Representative Gardner sought an explanation of the fact that the price of standard steel rails had remained fixed at $28 a ton for ten years, when the price of all other steel products had fluctuated. Mr. Farrell explained that the $28 figure for years had been regarded as a fair price, and because the cost of manufacture of rails had steadily increased no one would lower the price.

"But why don't you raise the price?" Mr. Gardner asked.

"I believe that the price will be raised," Mr. Farrell responded. "I do not think it will remain at $28 a ton much longer. The Republic Iron and Steel Company, which has a rail mill, has never operated it because it thought the price did not bring a fair return."

Mr. Farrell explained that the United States Steel Products Company, the subsidiary company handling the foreign business of the corporation, owned a steamship line, known as the Isthmian Steamship Company, which they were forced to build because they could get none of the foreign steamship companies to handle their freight to countries in Central America.

The export profits of the Steel Corporation had increased, he said, from $31,000,000 in 1904 to $60,000,000 in 1911.

Bonuses to Employes.

President Farrell, when asked about the distribution of the Steel Corporation's bonus fund to employes, said that last year this fund amounted to $1,400,000.

"Who benefits by it, the laborer or salaried man?" asked Chairman Stanley.

"Both; foremen and skilled men largely," was the reply. "We have at the entrance of the mill a question box, wherein men may give suggestions. Beneficial suggestions are rewarded. It is reward for merit. It gives an opportunity for men to develop ideas. There are a great many people in this world who carry ideas around in their heads and never get an opportunity to develop them or get any benefit from them."

"The bonus goes to everybody who deserves it," said Mr. Farrell. "For instance, a brakeman recently invented a dumping machine for which he received a bonus."

Attorney Reed, for the corporation, explaining the method under which employes subscribe for stock, said that 5,923 men, receiving less than $800 a year in 1910, subscribed for one share each, and men earning between $800 and $2,500 took a total of 14,122 shares, while the high-salaried employes took 4,535 shares.

"A bonus dividend of $5 a share is credited to the employe purchaser until the stock is all paid for. Then it is turned over to him."

"Suppose such a stockholder is discharged for cause?" asked the Chairman, "what becomes of the accumulated bonus dividend?"

"It is forfeited to the fund, as in the case of an employe who buys stock and drops out on his payment," said Mr. Reed. "The money turned in in this way is divided pro rata among the remaining employe stockholders."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Term "Machine Tool" Not Restricted to Metal-Working Appliances.

In sustaining a protest filed by the Georgia Pulp and Paper Company, the Board of United States General Appraisers decides that the term "machine tool" as used in the Tariff act of 1909 is not restricted to machines used exclusively in the working of metals. The board holds that the provision may be applied as well to wood-working appliances. The machines in controversy are barking or rossing machines used in cutting or stripping the bark from pulp wood. Duty was assessed at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem under the provision for "manufactures of metal," whereas the importers alleged a tax of 30 per cent. as being "machine tools."

It appears that the wood-working machines are power-driven appliances for working on wood with cutting tools. The Government claimed before the board that it established by the record that the term "machine tool" is used in trade to refer only to such machines as are used in the working of metal. Judge Fischer disagrees with this view, and finds that there is no such definite, uniform, and general understanding of the term as would bring it within the commercial designation sought by the Government. He says: "Altogether it is a question that affords more than doubt that if you turn iron in a lathe it is a machine tool, but if you turn wood it must belong to another class. The question may be better stated when we say that it does not appeal to us that if a lathe for metal working is purchased, a machine tool is bought and sold, while if you buy a wood-working lathe, then the particular name of the machine (lathe) is what the trade understands as the object of purchse and sale. A machine tool is a term which in common use would without question embrace a power-cutting machine used in wood working. We hold the merchandise to be machine tools."

BLAME UNFAIR RATES FOR LOSS OF TRADE

New York Exporters Tell Inter-State Commission Other Cities Are Getting the Business.

FIVE COMPETITORS FAVORED

Two-Cent Inland Differential Freight Rate Said to Divert Traffic to Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—New York complainants against the differential inland freight rate enjoyed by five competing cities over New York continued the presentment of their case before the Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day. There was a great disparity between arguments of some of the chief witnesses.

John H. Crawford, Freight Traffic Manager for the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad, testified that the elimination of the differential would not greatly benefit New York, as the ocean steamship lines made the export rates in such a way as to suit their own purposes, apportioning it to the ports where business conditions were favorable to the steamship service.

F. F. Kneelan, an exporter, of New York said that the differential was injuring New York greatly because tramp steamers would make the same charge for transportation from New York as from the other ports to England on grain shipments. He pointed out that the other cities had the advantage of a two-cent inland differential freight rate.

The day was given over entirely to the hearing of New York witnesses, who incuded grain exporters and railroad men, representing roads which run directly from the West to New York and do not reach through their own lines the other ports affected.

Thomas S. Downing, a customs broker, said that his business had diminished 75 per cent. since the imposition of the differential in 1910. He said that much of the business had gone to Baltimore, especially the burlap importation. All of the high-grade traffic had been diverted to the other ports, the witness testified.

"Do you mean to testify that the burlap importation comes through Baltimore?" asked A. C. Trippe, a lawyer, of Baltimore.

Baltimore Gets Grain Trade.

James F. Parker, a grain exporter of New York, said that that port, despite its natural advantages, had lost a great percentage of the grain business since 1906, and that the diversion of grain exportation was apparently settling down to a permanent thing, due, he said, to the differential freight rate. In 1899 he said that New York exported 9,000,000 more bushels of grain than Philadelphia and Baltimore combined, while these two cities shipped 9,000,000 more bushels than New York in 1910.

George Stuart Patterson showed that New York had gained quite as much as the percentage of gains of other ports. He presented statistics which show that in 1898 New York shipped 52.6 per cent. of the wheat. In 1911 New York shipped 51.8 per cent., or a loss of .08 per cent. The corn exportations from New York were in 1898 30 per cent. and in 1911 34.7 per cent. New York flour shipments in 1898 were 25 per cent. and in 1911 45 per cent.

J. W. Warner, a New York grain exporter of 22 years' experience, said that the differential had virtually wiped out the business of New York, and Baltimore had absorbed the trade during the rush season.

"All that New York gets is the overflow of Baltimore," added the witness. Mr. Warner said that Baltimore's Chamber of Commerce charged one-fourth of a cent for the inspection of grain to outside shippers and made it hard for traders who did not belong to the Chamber of Commerce to do any business from that port.

When F. F. Kneelan testified that tramp steamers did not make any greater charge for transportation cargoes from New York than they did from the other competing ports, and that New York was at a disadvantage due to the differential, he was asked by Commissioner Clarke:

"Then you do not agree that the differential is all absorbed by the steamship lines?"

"No. Some of it goes to the tramp steamers and the shippers who charter these steamers, and there are many such steamers plying from Baltimore and Philadelphia to foreign ports," he replied.

The witness said that, prior to the Elkins law, the railroads did not have a fixed rate, and that they made rates to suit their business, but since 1909 the rates were as fixed as a stone wall.

Traffic Diverted from New York.

William E. Eaton, General Freight Agent for the Erie Railroad, read a number of letters from the agents of that company at Cincinnati, Chicago, Columbus, and other points, which showed that much of the traffic was being diverted from New York.

"Do you mean to say that New York cannot compete in provisions shipments with Baltimore and Boston?" asked Mr. Patterson.

"No. She can," he replied, and then explained that most of the provision shipments to New York were from the South and points east of Chicago.

When John H. Crawford, Freight Traffic Manager for the Delaware & Lackawanna Railroad, was called, he read many letters from agents of his road, which showed that New York was getting decreased shipments of imports. This, he said, was due to the differential freight rate.

Mr. Crawford would not say upon cross-examination by Mr. Patterson that the falling off in New York business was due entirely to the differential. He said that much of the trade which heretofore had gone to New York was now being shipped through Canadian ports, and that New York's loss in business was not diverted to Baltimore and Philadelphia.

"New York has not been hurt very much by the differential," Mr. Crawford admitted.

New York will occupy the most of tomorrow, and then the other cities will present their side of the dispute.

NO WAR IN THE FRUIT TRADE

Emil L. Boas, Resident Director and General Manager of the Hamburg-American Line, yesterday denied there was any truth in the report that the Hamburg-American Line might have to take over the Atlantic Fruit Company's fleet because of an impending trade struggle between the United Fruit and the Atlantic Fruit Companies. According to this report the Hamburg-American Company, as holder of a large amount of Atlantic bonds, would have to take over the line to protect its investment.

"The report is entirely false," Mr. Boas said yesterday. "These are the facts: The contracts between the Hamburg-American Line and the United Fruit Company for the transportation of bananas having expired, the renewal was found impossible because of the unacceptable conditions demanded by the latter company. The Hamburg-American Company thereupon entered into transportation contracts with the Atlantic Fruit and Steamship Company, and has subscribed to a limited amount of the bonds of that company. Under the circumstances the Hamburg-American Line will certainly give the Atlantic Fruit and Steamship Company, on whose board they are represented, their best support."

SOME BANKS' SURPLUS LOW.

Controller Murray to Insist That New Ones Pay In at Organization.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—While the National banks of the country as a whole possess an enormous surplus, there are a number of institutions whose surplus is so low that comparatively slight reverses would impair their capital, according to a statement issued by Controller of the Currency Murray to-day. In future, the Controller announced, he would ask all the new national banks to pay in a substantial surplus at the time of organization to bear the organizing and running expenses without encroaching upon their capital.

Of the 7,300 national banks, 1,284 have surplus averaging only 10 per cent. of their capital. In the cases of sixteen banks, Mr. Murray said, a loss of $1,000 each would impair their capital. There are eighty-one banks in which a loss of $2,000 and ninety-three in which a loss of $3,000 would wipe out their surplus and profits and impair their capital.

Trading in Moderate Volume, with Strength Shown.

Curb trading was in fair volume yesterday. Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company, "when issued," reported transactions of 2,000 between 190 and 195, and closed at the high figure. It was the most active of the industrials. In the mining list the coppers showed strength. In advance of the dividend declaration, Greene-Cananea was only moderately active, reporting transactions of 1,885 between 9⅛ and 8⅞. The close at 9 was even with the opening.

RUTLAND STOCK UP NEARLY 11 POINTS

Earlier Gains Also Made on Minority's Suit to Enjoin the Central-New Haven Deal.

CLOSE AT 70 BID, 85 ASKED

A rise of nearly 11 points in Rutland preferred yesterday, following smaller gains from time to time in the last few months, drew attention to the arrangements for transfers of interests, including the Rutland, between the New York Central an dthe New Haven Road. These transfers have been denounced by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the minority stockholders' Protective Committee, as constituting a violation of the anti-trust law, in that they contemplated a division of territory between the two big systems.

The Rutland preferred stock, which is 7 per cent. cumulative, and of which 90,000 shares were issued, was exchanged by the road in 1890 for its common stock. The accumulated unpaid dividends upon it now amount to 199 per cent. It had been paying 2, 3, or 4 per cent. when, in 1905, the New York Central acquired control of the road from W. Seward Webb and his associates, the holdings transferred being about 47,000 shares. After the New York Central got it, it paid 1 or 2 per cent. for awhile and then ceased to pay anything.

In 1906 the Protective Committee was formed by the minority stockholders. The stock, for which some of them had paid par, was then selling around 28. An English firm of chartered accountants was put to work on the books, in accordance with the privilege of the stockholders under the Vermont law. Suit was started against the New York Central for an accounting and for the appointment of a receiver.

It was contended that the New York Central and the Rutland had been competing roads, and that the Central was holding the Rutland in contravention of the Sherman act, "right in the teeth" of the decision in the Northern Securities case. It was also charged that the Central was defrauding the Rutland in the division of joint rates, the Central taking several times as much as the Rutland got for a very much shorter part of the haul. It was charged that the Central diverted traffic from the Rutland to its own lines, where they were parallel. It was also charged that the Central had turned over to the Rutland properties which it did not want, at excessive valuations.

Rutland Sold at Fancy Price.

In November last the minority stockholders learned that in the preceding February the Central had sold half its holdings in the Rutland to the New Haven Road at 104. At that time the market price was 32. The Central also sold the New Haven a half interest in the Boston & Albany. In neither case was the consent of the up-State Public Service Commission obtained or even sought. When this was brought out later President Mellen of the New Haven said it was due to an oversight, the fact having been overlooked that both the New Haven and the Rutland were subject to the commission's jurisdiction. Last month the New Haven made application to the commission for leave to buy the other half of the Central's holdings of Rutland. On behalf of the minority stockholders, Mr. Untermyer applied to the courts for an injunction to prevent this second purchase.

At the same time the New York Central applied to the commission for leave to buy from the New Haven the control of the New York, Ontario & Western. Mr. Untermyer opposed these applications on the ground that they were parts of a scheme for a division of territory between the Central and the New Haven, the latter taking the Ontario & Western and keeping a half interest in the Boston & Albany, while the New Haven mastered the New England field by taking the other half of the Boston & Albany and all of the Rutland. He also argued that the New Haven could not legally acquire the Rutland, because it owned the Boston & Maine, a competing line, and that the Central could not legally acquire the New York, Ontario & Western, because it was a competitor with its own lines.

Minority Wants the Same Price.

Mr. Untermyer set up another legal point that was a new one in these cases. He argued that the Public Service Corporation was created to protect the stockholders as well as the public, and that since it had authority to prevent such acquisitions it had power to fix the conditions on which it would approve them. He, therefore, urged that if the commission authorized the deal it should insist that the same terms be made for the acquisition of the minority stock as were made for that of the controlling interest. This basis, with accumulated dividends, was 108 at the time of the hearing before the Public Service Commission, two weeks ago, while the market quotation for Rutland was 40.

Mr. Untermyer also asked that President Brown of the Central and President Mellen of the New Haven be subpoenaed, offering to show by their testimony that the whole scheme was to make a division of territory in violation of the Sherman act. Without passing on this request, the commission adjourned the hearing, and no date has been set for its continuance.

Since that time Rutland has been steadily advancing in the market. There are 15,000 or 20,000 shares of free stock that were not deposited with the Protective Committee. One of the minority stockholders intimated yesterday that somebody was trying to buy these in before the Public Service Commission continues its hearings, and said he would not be surprised if this was followed by an offer to the minority stockholders for their shares.

The rise in Rutland yesterday was 10⅝ points, to 65. At the closing 70 was bid and 85 asked.

EXPECT A CUT IN ST. PAUL.

Firm Belief Directors Will Reduce Dividend from 7 to 5 Per Cent. at Once.

Because of a widespread belief that at last the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul's dividend is to be reduced from 7 to a 5 per cent. per annum basis, to-morrow's meeting of the Board of Directors is being awaited with an unusual amount of interest in the financial district. The St. Paul makes two payments a year, and it has long been expected that at the January meeting a declaration of only 2½ per cent. would be made. One of the company's Directors has made no secret of the fact that he would favor a reduction unless earnings showed a considerable increase, and this improvement has not materialized.

If the St. Paul returns to a 5 per cent. basis with the next payment it will be the first time in twelve years that this company has paid as low a rate. The dividend has been 7 per cent. without an interruption since 1902. Construction of the Puget Sound extension, coming at a time when business was feeling the effects of the panic, and the failure of traffic to increase as expected when this line was projected has made serious inroads in the company's surplus. At 108, the price of the stock is believed to have discounted a cut in the dividend.

New Trolley Link in the Bronx.

The construction by the New York City Interborough Railway Company of a connecting link in the Bronx street railway lines was sanctioned yesterday by the Public Service Commission. It provides for the extension of the New York City Interborough's lines from Dongan Street and Intervale Avenue along East 163d Street and down to Elton Avenue to connect with the Union Railway's tracks in East 161st Street. The New York City Interborough and the Union Railway are now operated in concert by the Third Avenue Railway Company.

CUT IN EARNINGS OF BIG RAILROADS

BUT COST LESS TO RUN THEM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The Bureau of Railway Economics established by the great railroads of the country issued to-day a preliminary statement showing that in November, 1911, the earnings of the railroads decreased about $18 a mile as compared with the same month the year before. This estimate is based on passenger, mail, and freight traffic and is compiled from the reports made by the roads to the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The reports cover about 90 per cent. of the total mileage in the United States, practically the total mileage of the inter-State lines. The statement shows, however, that about $2 a mile of the loss reported finds compensation in reduced operating expenses.

The average receipts were $1,054 a mile. The decrease occurred in both freight and passenger service. The lines of the eastern part of the country show only a slight decrease in comparison with November, 1910, while the lines in the southern section show a slight increase and the lines in the western section a falling off. In the total operating revenue, the receipts for freight transportation represent 71.7 per cent. and receipts for passenger transportation 20.8 per cent., the remainder coming from mail, express, and other sources.

Operating expenses also show a lower average per mile. These include all costs of maintaining track and equipment, the cost of operating trains, of obtaining traffic, and of administration, but do not include new construction. Expenditure for maintenance of tracks and buildings was reduced by an average of $2.40 a mile. For the maintenance of equipment there was an increase averaging 10 cents a mile; and the cost of conducting transportation, an item representing about one-half the total operating expense, was reduced by an average of 8 cents a mile. By the reduction in expenditure for maintenance of track and buildings the roads were enabled to make a slight offset to the shrinkage in operating revenues.

The revenues averaged $16 less per mile, a decrease of 4.3 per cent. This so-called net revenue is, in fact, gross profits out of which must come taxes, amounting in November to $9,676,976, or an average of $43 a mile; rentals, interest on bonds, dividends, and appropriations for improvements. The falling off of 1.6 per cent. in operating revenues contrasts with an increase of 12.7 per cent. in taxes.

Williamsburg Savings Bank Gains.

The annual statement of the Williamsburg Savings Bank has been issued. It shows total deposits of $58,829,207 and assets of $66,996,067, leaving a surplus of $8,166,859. Probably the best piece of fiction she has ever written, now first published in this country in

Next Sunday's Times

It is a story of a hero who avenged an insult, but at a high cost to himself. The story is called, after the chief character, PABLO DOMENECH.

There also will be an unusual display of striking pictures and photographs in the

Pictorial Section

THE HOME COMING OF CARDINAL FARLEY
Including a portrait study that every one will want to see.

THE NEWEST SENSATION— "SUMURUN"

SHARP RISE IN RUTLAND

Had it not been for the very considerable degree of activity in Reading, yesterday's trading on the Stock Exchange would have lacked all animation except for the exceptionally wide movements which occurred in a few of the less active issues. The hold which the anthracite coal road situation still had on trading interests was indicated not only by the fact that nearly a third of the transactions were in Reading but also by the renewed strength in Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Central Railroad of New Jersey. There was no new suggestion offered for the continued preponderance of Reading in Stock Exchange transactions, but the old explanations were repeated. The most striking of the exceptionally wide movements of the day was the advance of over 10 points in Rutland Railroad preferred, which was followed by a further advance of 5 points in the bid price recorded for the stock at the close of the day. The minority holders of this stock are insisting upon their right to the same treatment as is accorded to the majority stock in the sale recently arranged between the New York Central and the New Haven. It was to the stand which the minority interests have taken in this matter that yesterday's rise in his stock was attributed.

There was a surplusage of news bearing on the steel trade, but nearly all of it fitted in closely with preconceived expectations, and probably for this reason it was practically without effect upon the market for the steel shares. Besides the further testimony of the President of the United States Steel Corporation before the Stanley Committee in Washington the financial community had before it yesterday the summary of the second part of the report of the Commissioner of Corporations on the United States Steel Corporation. The point emphasized apart from those made in connection with the corporation's production costs was that the control of vast ore bodies and of transportation lines are the two factors upon which rests any monopolistic power which the Steel Corporation may possess. This suggestion is closely in line with the conclusion reached by the Commissioner of Corporations in the first section of his report, and throws no new light on the essential features of the Steel Corporation's position. The Commissioner goes on to argue that the Corporation has a supply of ore sufficient for at least fifty years at the present rate of consumption, and this, he says, is an unduly large reserve. The extent to which it is advisable to provide for future ore requirements is largely a matter of business judgment, but in itself the statement is not convincing that fifty years is too long a time for which to provide in advance. Moreover, it is almost inevitable that production will largely increase, and that ore reserves will be drawn on much more rapidly in the future than in the past. So far as the proposed tariff revision's influence upon the steel trade is concerned, much interest attaches to the manner in which some problems of foreign competition have actually been met during the period of depression in steel prices, from which the trade is slowly recovering.

Repetition yesterday of the reports dealing with readjustments of the relations of the Western roads, including the Burlington and the Denver & Rio Grande, in respect to the Western Pacific, supplied no new specifications, and left the matter apparently just where it stood last week. It is known that certain banking opinion is strongly in favor of alliances which would make the Western Pacific the Pacific Coast outlet not only of the Gould roads but of the Burlington, and possibly of the Rock Island as well, but the definite measures which would bring about such an arrangement have apparently not yet been undertaken.

Announcement yesterday of the importation of $600,000 gold from Canada did not come as a surprise to those who had been watching Canadian rates of exchange on New York, which for a good many days have been practically at the gold point, but nevertheless the transaction presents some anomalous features. With New York lending money to Europe and with Canadian interest rates ranging upward from 5 per cent., and money here, the cheapest market in the world at the present time, commanding 3 per cent. or less, the more natural movement would seem to be from New York to Canada instead of the reverse. It would appear, however, that the Canadian banks had previously drawn on their New York balances as far as they felt it desirable to do so, and that remittances from Canada are now difficult except in the shape of gold shipments. It is necessary to bear in mind in this connection that Canadian banks look upon their New York credits to a large extent as reserves rather than as ordinary balances.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Gas Company's Dilemma.

Pity the poor gas man. If he runs his business economically and shows good profits a representative of the people at Albany demands another reduction in the price of gas. On the other hand, if he succeeds in reinvesting his earnings under the guise of operating expenses, renewals, and repairs, and so keeps down his apparent profit, his cleverness is rewarded by a loud wail from the stockholder, who wants an increase in his present rate or an extra distribution to make up for past deprivations. A speculative group has been boosting Consolidated Gas stock for several weeks past; has shown that the company is really making some 18 per cent., and will shortly let the shareholders benefit to compensate for the three years when they had to accept a lowered return. Yesterday, just two days before the Directors' meeting, at which some action of this nature might have been taken, Senator Timothy Sullivan chose to introduce his bill cutting the prevailing rate from 80 cents to 70 cents. How can Directors declare an extra dividend in the face of action like that? The people who had been whispering 175 for Consolidated saw it sell off 1⅛, to 140, yesterday.

The Daily Subway Settlement.

When the boy finally cried "Wolf" in earnest, it will be remembered, the neighbors smiled understandingly and continued their discussion of politics. On one of these days, perhaps in the near future, the city authorities, the Public Service Commission, the Interborough, the bankers, the lawyers, the taxpayer with a penchant for bringing suits, and every one else concerned in the long-drawn-out negotiations will reach something approximating a common understanding, and New York will be assured of a new subway. The announcement will get a place on the first page of all the papers, but it will not interest any one, at least in the financial district. On subsequent days the news may filter into the readers' understanding and arouse attention. But those who read the news tickers and listen to the gossip around brokerage offices have seen the whole question definitely settled, or about to be definitely settled, on so many occasions that they would be skeptical of an agreement now, even if it were vouched for in a signed statement by J. P. Morgan and Mayor Gaynor.

Is There a Money Trust?

A number of bankers who were asked as to the existence of the alleged "Money Trust" in Wall Street all denied it. Being bankers, they could not have well admitted that a preponderance of power was controlled by one group of interests, even if they had known that to be a fact. In the country a banker can speak frankly, and usually does; in New York he always want to know just what use is to be made of his answer and frames his reply accordingly. These bankers who were asked about the "Money Trust" said that there was undoubtedly some interchange of information among the banks, and sometimes comparisons as to loans, but as for any agreement leading up to common action by all the members of a group, why they knew nothing about it. If the Congressional Investigating Committee has a suspicion that it will find any tangible evidence of co-operation among leading financial institutions for the purpose of crushing out competition, it is probably doomed to disappointment. If such co-operation exists, it is through "interlocking Directors" and subtle understandings which are too fine for the heavy hand of the law to grasp.

Railroads Swell Dividend List.

Out of the $77,000,000 which Dow, Jones & Co. estimate to be the aggregate of dividend and interest disbursements in February, the dividend payments by the railroads amount to $23,856,302 and the industrial disbursement to only $8,969,932. February is one of the off months for distributions to stock and bond holders, the total comparing with $207,000,000 disbursed in January, but the railroad dividends have been swelled to unusual proportions by the 10 per cent. extra declared by the Lehigh Valley. This aggregates more than $6,000,000. None of the industrials which make distributions in February touches the million mark, in fact, the only one to exceed $500,000 is the Cambria Steel Company, whose distribution next month amounts to $562,500. Of the $42,204,672 to be disbursed to bondholders the railroads contribute $19,788,887 and the industrial and miscellaneous companies $8,610,817. Of course the list of industrials included in these statistics is far less complete, as compared with the total in the country than the railroad list, practically all of the important roads' stocks and bonds being listed on the Exchange.

Another Curb Reform.

The Curb Association has taken up the matter of quotations of curb stocks which have long been a subject of complaint because of the lack of system in recording sales and prices, and is now furnishing an official list of quotations which will in a measure correspond to the official records of sales and prices made by the Stock Exchange.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Lack of Buoyancy in Evidence on Most of the Other Exchanges.

DROP IN CALUMET & HECLA

Sells Down Five Points in Boston and Other Copper Shares Follow Suit.

A heavy tone developed in yesterday's trading in several of the Exchanges in other cities. Chicago proved an exception.

The Baltimore market was slightly less active yesterday on bonds, the demand centring heavily on only a few securities, with a consequent advance in their prices over yesterday. United Railway incomes continued a big seller. The stock market fell off considerably, and the issues dragged. The Boston market inclined toward slightly lower levels under moderate realizing sales. The tendency was most marked in copper shares, Calumet and Hecla selling off 5 points, to 425, Centennial a point, to 20½, and Live Oak 2, to 41. Others, including North Butte and Granby, sagged small amounts on light transactions. American Telephone dropped a point on the filing of a private petition asking that the Government bring suit to dissolve the company, but the stock was not active after the first few minutes of trading. A fair amount of business was done in some of the minor coppers, including Mayflower and Gold Colony, but net changes in prices were insignificant, and the movement failed to attract attention to the coppers as a group. Rutland Railroad preferred went up to 69 on the local board; this is the highest price that has been quoted on this stock in more than five years.

Stocks traded in on the Chicago exchange ruled rather strong, though advances generally were small. Gains of fractions were made by Swift, Diamond Match, Can common and preferred, Commonwealth Edison, Illinois Brick, Chicago Railways Series 2a and People's Gas, while National Carbon receded fractionally.

The early heaviness of United States Steel exerted a depressing effect upon Cambria Steel, and one or two local issues in Philadelphia, but the pressure was not great, and the tone became generally firmer after the first hour. Philadelphia Electrics eased off also during the morning, and so did Union Traction and P. R. T., but in none of these were the offerings particularly large. Electric Storage Battery, on the other hand, continued to display a decidedly firm tone, crossing 55, and this was also true of Reading, which, though quoted ex-dividend, promptly proceeded to recover it. Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing scored a large gain.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

At the opening of business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange floor sentiment was very bearish. At the same time early offerings were well absorbed and there was evidence of good support. The strength developed by Reading, which was accompanied by aggressive buying, causing more than a recovery of its dividend, checked for a time efforts of the bears to bring about a general decline. In the later dealings, however, heaviness again showed, particularly in Union Pacific and Steel common. Reading sold off with the rest of the list, but failed to lose all its gain.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Setback on London Exchange Due in Part to Political Outlook on Continent.

PARIS AND BERLIN WEAK

Market for Americans in London Opens Irregular, but Closes Steady—Money There Scarce.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 24.—The Times in its City article to-day says:

"The money market was very poorly supplied yesterday, but by selling a few short bills to the Bank it liquidated the small total of loans which fell due at that institution. The pressure slightly raised the open market rate for day-to-day advances.

"The discount market was very quiet and showed a weak tendency, quotations for bills of all dates being a shade lower.

"A large amount of sovereigns was withdrawn from the Bank for export to Egypt to replace consignments of these coins already sent to India from Cairo and Alexandria. The Paris Cheque remained firm.

"The stock markets on the whole were very idle. Profit taking was in progress in those stocks which have risen of late, and elsewhere no dispotion was shown to increase commitments. Gilt-edged securities were dull owing to rumors of a new Indian loan.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Money was scarce but discount rates were easy to-day.

The stock market during the forenoon was somewhat depressed by foreign politics, and later the approach of the settlement induced realizing and a general setback, in which Omnibus and Electric Railway were the weakest features. Kaffirs and home rails recovered partially and closed steadier.

American securities opened irregular. There was very little support during the first hour, and the list sagged below parity. Then Wall Street offerings caused further losses, but covering brought about a rally in the late trading, and the market closed steady.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3 13-16@3⅞ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3 11-16@3¾ per cent.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The Bourse opened firm but closed heavy to-day.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—Realizing caused a weak tone and lower prices on the Börse to-day. The trading was sluggish.

Money, 2 per cent.

Private discount rate, 3 per cent.

BUYERS OF CARNEGIE VAULTS

Not Officially Named, but Names and Purposes Are Fully Discussed.

In addition to the young bankers of the Morgan group who are the purchasers, as announced in THE TIMES yesterday, of the Carnegie Safe Deposit Company's big armor steel vaults in the basement of 115 Broadway, the American Exchange National Bank, it was reported yesterday, will have an interest in the deal. Although the names of those in the purchasing syndicate were not disclosed, it was generally believed yesterday that Albert H. Wiggin, President of the Chase National Bank; Charles H. Sabin, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, and possibly Lewis L. Clarke, President of the American Exchange National Bank, and Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., and a Director in both the Guaranty Trust Company and the Bankers Trust Company, would appear among the officers of the company which will be incorporated to take over the Carnegie Safe Deposit Company.

It was stated to THE TIMES that the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company was not directly or indirectly concerned in the purchase, but notwithstanding this a story which was given credence yesterday offered a logical solution of the problem that the burned-out safe deposit company has to meet and at the same time allowed for a technical insistence that the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company was not identified with the purchasing syndicate. The Mercantile Company was originally owned by the Mercantile Trust Company, and when that institution was absorbed by the Bankers Trust Company the stock passed with it.

The Bankers Trust Company is closely allied with the interests concerned in the purchase of the Carnegie vaults, and there is little doubt that a sale could be arranged which would obviate the delay of building new vaults for the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company. In the long period which would necessarily elapse before the old company could be housed again it is natural to expect that many of the old clients would be lost. Meanwhile the Guaranty Trust Company is building only across the street from the Carnegie vaults, the American Exchange National Bank is already located on the opposite corner, and the Bankers Trust Company itself would find the basement of 115 Broadway almost as convenient as the premises occupied in the northwest corner of the Equitable Building by its old subsidiary.

MORGAN SUES FOR $135,823.

Seeks to Recover on Bonds Pledged as Collateral for a Loan.

J. Pierpont Morgan and other members of the former firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co. began suit yesterday in the Supreme Court against Philip S. Hill and Daniel T. Reiff, as administrators of the estate of Josiah C. Reiff, who died on Feb. 28, 1911.

The suit is brought to foreclose on certain bonds Reiff pledged with Drexel, Morgan & Co., as collateral for a loan, which, with interest, now amounts to $135,823.24. The bonds include $65,000 of those of the American Copper Mining Company and 315 bonds of the Alpha Copper Company of a par value of $1,000 each.

The complaint asks that a court decree be issued for the sale of the bonds in their entirety, alleging that only in that way can a fair price be obtained.

From a letter of Mr. Roberts Walker, Chairman of the Executive Committee of The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company, we quote as follows:

"The $20,000,000 Debentures which you have bought from us are the direct obligation of The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company (the old Company), which was formed in the year 1880, from which time it has uninterruptedly paid dividends on its capital stock, and since 1899 at not less than 5 per cent. per annum.

The average annual surplus of The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company for the five fiscal years 1907 to 1911, after providing for all fixed charges, taxes, rentals, etc., amounted to $5,965,089, equal to nearly six times the interest charges upon the above $20,000,000 Debentures had same been outstanding.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, the surplus of The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company, after providing for all fixed charges, taxes, rentals, etc., amounted to $5,442,714, equal to nearly five and one-half times the interest charges on the above $20,000,000 Debentures had same been outstanding.

The sale of the above $20,000,000 Debentures will, it is expected, provide the Company with funds for the next two years for the purchase of additional terminals, and for second track, sidings and general betterment of the lines of the System. Therefore the Railway Company will not create or sell any additional Debentures prior to January 15, 1914, nor will it sell any First and Refunding Mortgage Four Per Cent. Bonds or other Direct or Guaranteed Bonds during this period, but all such Bonds as may become available will be retained as Treasury Assets of the Railway Company.

One of the terms of the Trust Indenture to the Bankers Trust Co., New York, as Trustee, securing the above Debentures, is that the Railway Company, as long as any of the Debentures are outstanding and unpaid, agrees not to make any new mortgage upon its railroad without also thereby including therein every Debenture issued thereunder equally and ratably with every bond issued under and secured by any such mortgage, such covenant, however, not to prevent the renewal, extension or refunding of any existing mortgage."

HAVING PLACED PRIVATELY THE LARGER PART OF THE ABOVE ISSUE, WE OFFER THE UNSOLD BALANCE AT 97½% AND ACCRUED INTEREST TO DELIVERY, YIELDING 5.20% PER ANNUM.

The subscription books will open at 10 A. M. on Monday, January 29, and close at 3 P. M., or earlier, on the same day.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Wheat, Corn, and Oats Tumble—Cotton Firm—Coffee in Suspense.

The wheat market was slightly easier on more liberal receipts and disappointing cables. The large decrease in world's supplies had only temporary influence. [illegible] Cotton was quiet and steady. The slightly bullish ginning report had little effect with pressure light, however, and large interests apparently holding aloof. Coffee was weak early on liquidation in the near positions, rallying with better support, the trade disposed to await the valorization sale.

WHEAT.

The wheat market was very quiet all the session, with the tone a little heavy, prices closing at ¼ to ⅜c net decline. The greatest [illegible] was in the Northwest, owing to the continued heavy receipts of wheat there. [illegible] making a grand total reduction of [illegible] bushels, against an increase of 1,976,000 bushels the previous week and 3,947,000 bushels last year. The reduction in the United States visible the past two weeks has been quite heavy. Foreign markets were dull and easier, with the Argentine market lower on better weather conditions, and there were some reports indicating probability of early settlement of the labor trouble. Montreal reported somewhat better export business, but total sales given out were only eight loads. The foreign crop summary was favorable. Cash wheat was firm, with No. 2 red, $1.02¼; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.20¾; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.11, and No. 1 Manitoba, $1.14⅛.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN was dull and also slightly easier, closing at a slight net loss. The market was influenced by the quiet conditions in other markets and reports of increased country offerings. Receipts were again large and in two days have gained 500,000 bushels over last week. Interior cash markets were reported weak and ½c to 2c lower. Cash demand was slow for export, with only 8 loads reported. The visible supply showed a decrease of 304,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 148,000 bushels the previous week. Cash corn was quiet locally, with No. 3, 70c, elevator, export; steamer, 71¼c; No. 2, 71¾c, free on board.

OATS—The market was dull and fractionally lower. There were some reports of better offerings from the country, and there has been a moderate increase in the interior movement this week. The visible showed the liberal decrease of 1,118,000 bushels. Cash oats were quiet, with standards and No. 3 whites quoted at 55½c; No. 2 whites, 56c.

PROVISIONS.

Trade in hog products was slow, with the opening slightly lower on the liberal movement of hogs, but later there was a steady tone and a quiet close. The hog receipts for the day were 153,000 head.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Selling pressure converged chiefly upon the near positions, although a fair scattered demand prevented a setback of importance. Refiners were credited with selling February and buying March. Crude is still offered sparingly, and on this account the pressure in the future market is extremely light. The ginning report of 14,511,000 bales was somewhat smaller than generally anticipated, but induced little comment. Strength in pure lard was not unnoticed although it was natural for this to have little influence, inasmuch as the recent setback at the West led only to unimportant liquidation. COFFEE.

COFFEE met unexpected and decided weakness abroad, where Havre declined 1¼@2f and Hamburg 1@1¼ pfennigs. Prices opened 10 to 18 points lower. Later in the day there was heavy selling which, at one time, carried prices down 16 to 21 points. The close was steady at a net loss of 8 to 15 points. Total sales were 140,250 bags. Rio was steady, 25 reis up, while Santos was 50 reis higher.

COTTON.

Net price changes were inconsequential, and with the range between the high and low of the active positions only from 4 to 7 points the quiet conditions which prevailed yesterday are best understood. This apathy was not appeased by the fact that the Census Bureau issued its report on ginning, which was slightly bullish and instrumental in initial advances of from 3 to 5 points. Aside from a little Southern selling, which made its appearance on the bulge, the operations were not considered as important, with prominent spot concerns inactive, although the general disposition in the trade is to anticipate support from these quarters on material recessions.

The cables from Liverpool were slightly below a parity, but spot business there was large, amounting to 12,000 bales. The official ginning of 178,000 bales for the period being from 50,000 to 100,000 under estimates nullified the effect of the unresponsive foreign advices. To Jan. 16 there were 14,511,000 bales ginned, against 11,253,000 last year and 12,666,000 in the large crop year of 1908. There were advices received, however, stating that a number of gins were idle during the period, due to the unfavorable weather, and generally the impression is that the final census report, which will include linters, will disclose a total in excess of 15,500,000 bales. This would mean that ginning to the end of the season must amount to 1,000,000 bales. Last season from Jan. 16 on there were 713,000 bales reported; in the small crop years of 1909 and 1905 approximately 598,000 and 735,000 bales respectively, while in the large crop seasons of 1908 and 1906 the volume of cotton to the termination of the season was 766,000 and 1,130,000 bales. Incidentally the belief was again expressed that unless there was an enhancement of values toward the close of the season the amount brought into sight would not correspond with the Census Bureau statistics.

The weather conditions at the South were again favorable and the movement was larger. Port receipts yesterday were about 57,000 bales, against 48,000 a week ago and 30,000 last year, with the movement to the ports to-day estimated at 40,000 bales, against 41,000 a week ago and 28,000 last year. The tenor of Southern spot dispatches was indicative of an improved inquiry at several points, but there are still claims of the urgent demand, being largely representative of January commitments.

Exports total to about 6,400,000 bales to date, against 5,237,000 last year. Manchester reports a good demand for cloth and yarns. The American trade situation is fairly encouraging, although the situation at Lawrence, Mass., is without much improvement. Local warehouse stocks of cotton are 159,000 bales, against 154,000 last week. The local spot cotton market was unchanged; middlings, 9.50c.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Investor Buys Madison Avenue Corner at 49th Street—$500,000 Deal in West Side Apartment Houses—Harlem Furnishes 125th Street Sale and Apartment Trade—Good Bronx Market.

An important deal which illustrates the rapid commercial transformation of Madison Avenue above Forty-second Street was closed yesterday by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, which sold to a prominent investor three old-fashioned dwellings at the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and Forty-ninth Street. The property transferred includes 24, 26, and 28 East Forty-ninth Street.

The first-named was sold for Mrs. Matilda C. Vatable, 24, for Admiral James E. Tolfree, and 28, being the immediate corner parcel, for Mrs. George E. Hastings, having a frontage of 27 feet on the street and 59.5 feet on the avenue. The combined plot fronts 60.8 feet on Forty-ninth Street and 59.5 feet on Madison Avenue. The deal represents close to $300,000, at which price the three parcels were held. No plans for immediate improvement have been made.

$500,000 West Side Deal.

An important west side deal, which shows the steady investment demand for well-situated apartment houses, has just been concluded by Frederick Zittel & Sons, involving an interchange of properties aggregating in value over $500,000. For the North Holding Company, Harry B. Mulliken, President, the brokers have sold the new eight-story apartment house known as the Runeia at 267 West Eighty-ninth Street, covering a plot 75 by 100 feet. This is one of the new houses erected last year on the old Evans block. It occupies the centre of the block, between Broadway and West End Avenue, on the north side, the twelve-story Admaston being on the Broadway corner and another twelve-story apartment on the West End Avenue corner. The Runeia has been held at $350,000.

The buyer is the F. B. Taylor estate, which gives in part payment the six-story apartment known as the Arleigh, at 620 West 115th Street, occupying a plot 75 by 100, and which has been held at $180,000.

Resale of Big Loft Zone Plot.

Judson S. Todd is reported to have resold the large plot which he accumulated recently in the midtown loft zone to interests that will erect a twelve-story commercial building.

The property includes the plot at 62 and 64 West Thirty-ninth Street and 63 to 67 West Thirty-ninth Street, which Mr. Todd purchased from various owners at prices averaging about $4,000 a front foot. The property has a frontage of 46.4 feet on Thirty-ninth Street and 51.8 feet on Thirty-eighth Street, adjoining the Sixth Avenue frontage of the block.

Investor Buys Heights Apartment.

Francis Colely has sold to a client of Daniel H. Renton for investment 502 West 176th Street, a five-story apartment house on a plot 44 by 99.11. The property adjoins the southwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue.

West Harlem Activity.

Another deal on West 125th Street, where there has been considerable activity since the first of the year, was reported yesterday in the sale of 63 and 65 West 125th Street to H. M. Danton. The property, which consists of two old three-story buildings on a lot 25 by 100, has been held for a number of years by Mrs. Nellie Thompson. Last week 29, on the same block between Fifth and Lenox Avenues was sold.

Harlem Apartment in Trade.

The six-story apartment at 509 West 124th Street, on plot 50 by 100, has been sold by George Tiemeyer to Katherina V. Mitchell, who gave in part payment a plot of lots on Eighty-third Street, Brooklyn, 40 by 100; five lots on Milford Street, Brooklyn; three lots located on Logan Street, Brooklyn, and 1,500 lots at West Riverhead, Suffolk County, L. I.

The deal was negotiated by John A. Clarke and Bernard W. Webel, and they have resold for Mr. Tiemeyer the Brooklyn and Riverhead property to Dr. Leo F. Giebérich, who gave in part payment two-family houses on East 236th Street in the Bronx.

Tenant Buys 54th Street House.

The five-story American basement dwelling, 26 East Fifty-fourth Street, on a lot 20 by 100.5, has been sold by Ira Barrows to the present tenant, Mrs. C. C. Cuyler. Douglas L. Elliman negotiated the sale.

Last of the Evans Realty Transferred

Harris Mandelbaum and Fisher Lewine took title yesterday to the property at 125 Fulton Street and 44 Ann Street, which the buyers contracted to purchase three years ago from the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Institute Society. This is the last of the extensive holdings in this city formerly held by Thomas W. Evans, the American dentist in Paris for many years, to pass from the control of the society to which it was bequeathed on his death. BUILDING MATERIAL.

STAMFORD

Some makers of steam and hot-water heaters claim that they furnish ventilation because they make the air which is in the room circulate around in it.

When we have used water for washing purposes we do not stir it up and try to fool ourselves into thinking it is clean. We get a fresh supply.

The Stamford Furnace keeps up a constant supply of fresh, clean air, suitably warmed.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

PUBLIC NOTICE.
BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT, CITY OF NEW YORK.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment held this day, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The Bronx Traction Company has, under date of November 24, 1911, made application to this Board for the grant of the right, privilege, and franchise to construct, maintain, and operate a double track street surface railway as an extension to its existing system upon and along Westchester Avenue from Westchester Square to Eastern Boulevard, Borough of the Bronx; and

WHEREAS, Section 172 of the Railroad Law and Sections 72, 73, and 74 of the Greater New York Charter, as amended by Chapters 629 and 630 of the Laws of 1905, provide for the manner and procedure of making such grants; and

WHEREAS, in pursuance of such laws this Board adopted a resolution on November 29, 1911, fixing the date for public hearing thereon, as December 21, 1911, at which citizens were entitled to appear and be heard, and publication was had for at least fourteen (14) days in "The New York Press" and "The New York Times," newspapers designated by the Mayor, and in the City Record for ten (10) days immediately prior to the date of hearing, and the public hearing was duly held on such day, and

WHEREAS, this Board has made inquiry as to the money value of the franchise or right applied for and proposed to be granted to the Bronx Traction Company, and the adequacy of the compensation to be paid therefor; now, therefore, it is

RESOLVED, that the following form of the resolution for the grant of the franchise or right applied for by the Bronx Traction Company, containing the form of proposed contract for the grant of such franchise or right, be hereby introduced, and entered in the minutes of this Board, as follows, to wit:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Estimate and Apportionment hereby grants to the Bronx Traction Company the franchise or right fully set out and described in the following form of proposed contract for the grant thereof, embodying all of the terms and conditions, including the provisions as to rates, fares, and charges, upon and subject to the terms and conditions in said proposed form of contract contained, and that the Mayor of the City of New York be and he hereby is authorized to execute and deliver such contract in the name and on behalf of The City of New York, as follows, to wit:

PROPOSED FORM OF CONTRACT.

THIS CONTRACT, made this .... day of ...., 1912, by and between the City of New York (hereinafter called the City), party of the first part, by the Mayor of said City, acting for and in the name of said City, under and in pursuance of the authority of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of said City, (hereinafter called the Board), and the Bronx Traction Company, (hereinafter called the Company), party of the second part, witnesseth:

In consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements herein contained, the parties hereto do hereby covenant and agree as follows:

Section 1. The City hereby grants to the Company, subject to the conditions and provisions hereinafter set forth, the right and privilege to construct, maintain, and operate a double track extension to its present street surface railway, with the necessary wires and equipment, for the purpose of conveying passengers only in the Borough of the Bronx, in the City of New York, upon the following route, to wit:

Beginning at and connecting with the existing double track railway of the Company at or near the intersection of West Farms Road with Westchester Avenue; thence in, upon, and along Westchester Avenue to its intersection with Eastern Boulevard, and to cross such other streets and avenues, named and unnamed, as may be encountered in said route.

The said route, with turnouts, switches, and crossovers hereby authorized is shown upon a map entitled:

"Map Showing Proposed Extension of The Bronx Traction Company in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, to accompany petition dated November 24th, 1911, to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment," —and signed by Edward A. Maher, President, and T. F. Mullaney, Chief Engineer; a copy of which is attached hereto, is to be deemed a part of this contract, is to be construed with the text thereof, and is to be substantially followed, provided that deviations therefrom and additional turnouts, switches and crossovers which are consistent with the foregoing description, and the other provisions of this contract, may be permitted by resolution of the Board.

Sec. 2. The grant of this privilege is subject to the following conditions, which shall be complied with by the Company:

First—The consent in writing of the owners of half in value of the property bounded on said streets and avenues to the construction and operation of said railway shall be obtained by the Company within three (3) months from the signing of this contract by the Mayor, and a copy of such consents shall be filed with the Board within such time, or in the event that such consents cannot be obtained within such time, the Company shall within said three (3) months or within one (1) month thereafter, make application to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for the appointment of Commissioners in the manner provided by the Railroad Law to determine if said railway ought to be constructed; otherwise this grant shall cease and determine.

Second—The said right to construct, maintain, and operate said railway shall be held and enjoyed by the Company from the date upon which this contract is signed by the Mayor, until January 19, 1936, with the privilege of renewal of said contract for the further period of twenty-five (25) years upon a fair revaluation of such right and privilege.

If the Company shall determine to exercise its privilege of renewal it shall make application to the Board, or any authority which shall be authorized by law to act for the City in place of the Board. Such application shall be made at any time not earlier than two (2) years and not later than one (1) year before the expiration of the original term of this contract. The determination of the revaluation shall be sufficient if agreed to in writing by the Company and the Board, but in no case shall the annual rate of compensation to the City be fixed at a less amount than the sum required to be paid during the last year prior to the termination of the original term of this contract.

If the Company and the Board shall not reach such agreement on or before the day one (1) year before the expiration of the original term of this contract, then the annual rate of compensation for such succeeding twenty-five (25) years shall be reasonable, and either the City (by the Board) or the Company shall be bound upon request of the other to enter into a written agreement with each other, fixing the rate of such compensation at such amount as shall be reasonable, but in no case shall the annual rate so fixed be less than the sum required to be paid for the last year prior to the termination of the original term of this contract, and if the parties shall not forthwith agree upon what is reasonable, then the parties shall enter into a written agreement fixing such annual rate and at such amount as shall be determined by three disinterested freeholders selected in the following manner:

One disinterested freeholder shall be chosen by the Board; one disinterested freeholder shall be chosen by the Company; these two shall choose a third disinterested freeholder, and the three so chosen shall act as appraisers and shall make the revaluation aforesaid. Such appraisers shall be chosen at least six (6) months prior to the expiration of this original contract, and their report shall be filed with the Board within three (3) months after they are chosen. They shall act as appraisers and not as arbitrators. They may base their judgment upon their own experience and upon such information as they may obtain by inquiries and investigations, without the presence of either party. They shall have the right to examine any of the books of the Company and its officers under oath. The valuation so ascertained, fixed and determined shall be conclusive upon both parties, but no annual sum shall, in any event, be less than the sum required to be paid for the last year of the original term of this contract. If in any case the annual rate shall not be fixed prior to the termination of the original term of this contract, then the Company shall pay he annual rate theretofore prevailing until the new rate shall be determined, and shall then make up to the City the amount of any excess of the annual rate then determined over the previous annual rate. The compensation and expenses of the said appraisers shall be borne jointly by the City and the Company, each paying one-half thereof.

Third—The Company shall pay to the City for the privilege hereby granted the following sums of money:

(a) The sum of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) in cash within three (3) months after the date on which this contract is signed by the Mayor and before anything is done in exercise of the privilege hereby granted.

(b) During the first term of five (5) years an annual sum which shall in no case be less than one thousand five hundred and fifty dollars ($1,550), and which shall be equal to three (3) per cent. of its gross annual receipts if such percentage shall exceed the sum of one thousand five hundred and fifty dollars ($1,550).

During the second term of five (5) years an annual sum which shall in no case be less than two thousand eight hundred dollars ($2,800), and which shall be equal to five (5) per cent. of its gross annual receipts if such percentage shall exceed the sum of two thousand eight hundred dollars ($2,800).

During the third term of five (5) years an annual sum which shall in no case be less than three thousand one hundred dollars ($3,100), and which shall be equal to five (5) per cent. of its gross annual receipts if such percentage shall exceed the sum of three thousand one hundred dollars ($3,100).

During the fourth term of five (5) years an annual sum which shall in no case be less than three thousand four hundred dollars ($3,400), and which shall be equal to five (5) per cent. of its gross annual receipts if such percentage shall exceed the sum of three thousand four hundred dollars ($3,400).

During the remaining term expiring January 19, 1936, an annual sum which shall in no case be less than three thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars ($3,750), and which shall be equal to five (5) per cent. of its gross annual receipts if such percentage shall exceed the sum of three thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars ($3,750).

The gross annual receipts mentioned above shall be that portion of the gross receipts of the Company as shall bear the same proportion to its whole gross receipts as the length of the extension hereby authorized shall bear to the entire length of the railway of the Company in operation within the limits of the City.

The annual charges shall commence from the date upon which this contract is signed by the Mayor.

All annual charges as above shall be paid into the Treasury of the City on November 1 of each year and shall be for the amount due September 30 next preceding. Provided, that the first annual payment shall be only for that proportion of the first annual charge as the time between the date upon which this contract is signed by the Mayor and September 30 following shall bear to the whole of one year.

Whenever the percentage required to be paid shall exceed the minimum amount as above, then such sum over and above such minimum shall be paid on or before November 1 in each year for the year ending September 30 next preceding.

The annual charges herein provided are intended to include the percentages of gross receipts now required to be paid by railway companies to the City, pursuant to the Railroad Law, as amended.

Any and all payments to be made by the terms of this contract to the City by the Company shall not be considered in any manner in the nature of a tax, but such payments shall be made in addition to any and all taxes of whatsoever kind or description, now or hereafter required to be paid by any ordinance of the City, or resolution of the Board, or any laws of the State of New York.

Fourth—The annual charges or payments shall continue throughout the whole term of this contract (whether original or renewal), notwithstanding any clause in any statute or in the charter of any other railway or railroad company providing for payment for railway or railroad rights or franchises at a different rate, and no assignment, lease or sublease of the rights or privileges hereby granted (whether original or renewal), or of any part thereof, or of any of the routes mentioned herein, or of any part thereof, shall be valid or effectual for any purpose unless the said assignment, lease or sublease shall contain a covenant on the part of the assignee or lessee that the same is subject to all the conditions of this contract; and that the assignee or lessee assumes and will be bound by all of said conditions, and especially said conditions as to payments, anything in any statute or in the charter of such assignee or lessee to the contrary notwithstanding, and that the said assignee or lessee waives any more favorable conditions created by such statute or its charter, and that it will not claim by reason thereof or otherwise exemption from liability to perform each and all of the conditions of this contract.

Fifth—Nothing in this contract shall be deemed to affect in any way the right of the City to grant to any individual or other corporation a similar right or privilege upon the same or other terms and conditions over the route hereinbefore described.

The use of the railway constructed by the Company under this contract, including the tracks, wires and other equipment or any structures used in connection therewith in streets and avenues hereinbefore described shall be permitted by the Company, to any individual or corporation to which the City may have granted, or may hereafter grant, the right or privilege to use such streets and avenues for street railway purposes, upon payment of an annual sum by such individual or corporation to the Company, which shall equal the legal interest on such proportion of the actual cost of the construction of such railway and structures, and additions and betterments thereto, as the number of cars operated by such individual or corporation shall bear to the number of cars operated by the companies then using the same; and also such proportion of the cost of keeping the tracks and electrical equipment in repair, and the cost of additions and betterments thereto, such proportion of laying and repairing of pavement and removal of snow and ice and all other duties imposed upon the Company by the terms of this contract in connection with the maintenance or the operation of said railway so used, as the number of cars operated by such individual or corporation shall bear to the number of cars operated by the companies then using the same, together with the actual cost of the power necessary for the operation of the cars thereon of such individual or corporation, Provided, however, that if, in the opinion of the Company, the legal rate of interest upon the cost of such railway shall be an insufficient sum to be paid for the use of such tracks, it may appeal to the Board and the Board may fix a percentage upon the cost to be paid to the Company, at a sum in excess of the legal rate of interest, if, in its opinion, such action is justified.

The Company shall not at any time oppose, but shall, upon the request of the Board, consent to the construction or operation of any street surface railway which may necessitate the use of any portion of the railway which shall be constructed by the Company pursuant to this contract.

Sixth—The rights and privileges hereby granted shall not be assigned, either in whole or in part, or leased or sublet in any manner, nor shall the title thereto, or right, interest or property therein, pass to or vest in any other person or corporation whatsoever, either by the act of the Company, or by operation of law, whether under the provisions of the statutes relating to the consolidation or merger of corporations or otherwise, without the consent of the City, acting by the Board, evidenced by an instrument under seal, anything herein contained to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding, and the granting, giving or waiving of any one or more of such consents shall not render necessary any subsequent consent or consents.

Seventh—Upon the termination of this original contract, or if the same be renewed, then at the termination of the said renewal term, or upon the termination of the rights hereby granted for any cause, or upon the dissolution of the Company before such termination, the tracks and equipments of the Company constructed pursuant to this contract within the streets and avenues shall become the property of the City without costs, and the same may be used or disposed of by the City for any purpose whatsoever, or the same may be leased to any company or individual.

If, however, at the termination of this contract, as above, the Board shall so order by resolution, the Company shall, upon thirty (30) days' notice from the Board, remove any and all of its tracks and other equipment constructed pursuant to this contract and the said streets and avenues shall be restored to their original condition at the sole cost and expense of the Company.

Eighth—The Company shall commence construction of the railway herein authorized within three (3) months from the date upon which the consents of the property owners are filed with the Board or from the date of the order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court made pursuant to Section 174 of the Railroad Law confirming the determination of the Commissioners appointed thereunder, that such railway ought to be constructed, and shall complete the construction and place the same in full operation within three (3) months from the date of filing such consents or the date of such order; otherwise this right shall cease and determine, and all sums paid, or which may be deposited with the Comptroller of the City, as hereinafter provided, shall thereupon be forfeited to the City; provided that the period for commencement and the period for completion and placing the railway in full operation may be extended by the Board, but the total extension of time for either of such periods shall not exceed in the aggregate six (6) months; and provided, further, that when the commencement or completion of said construction shall be prevented by legal proceedings in any court or by works of public improvement, or from other causes not within control of the Company, the time for the commencement or completion of such construction may be extended for the period of such prevention, but no delay shall be allowed for unless the court proceedings shall be diligently prosecuted by the Company, and provided, further, that in no case shall such delay be deemed to begin until the Company shall have given written notice to the Board of any such court proceedings or other occasion of delay, and deliver to the Board copies of any injunction or other orders, and the papers upon which the same shall have been granted, and unless upon the request of the Board the Company shall, in writing, consent that the Board either in its own name as a party, or in the name of the City as a party, may intervene in any such proceedings.

Ninth—Said railway shall be constructed and operated in the latest approved manner of street railway construction and operation, and it is hereby agreed that the Board may require the Company to improve or add to the railway equipment, including rolling stock and railway appurtenances, from time to time, as such additions and improvements are necessary, in the opinion of the Board. Upon failure on the part of the Company to comply with the direction of the Board within a reasonable time, the rights hereby granted shall cease and determine.

Tenth—Said railway shall be constructed, maintained and operated subject to the supervision and control of all the authorities of the City who have jurisdiction in such matters, as provided by the Charter of the City.

No construction upon said railway shall be commenced until written permits have been obtained from the proper City officials.

In any permits so issued such officials may also impose such conditions, as a condition of the granting of the same, as are necessary for the purpose of protecting any structures, in the streets and avenues, over which such officials have jurisdiction and the Company shall comply with such conditions.

The electrical equipment to be installed by the Company for the operation of the railway within the limits of the City, whether the same be upon streets and avenues or upon private property, shall be constructed and maintained under the supervision and control of the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Eleventh—Said railway may be operated by overhead electric power substantially similar to the overhead electric system now in use by street surface railways in the Borough of the Bronx, or by any other motive power except locomotive steam power or horse power, which may be approved by the board and consented to by the abutting property owners, in accordance with the provisions of law, and by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York.

Twelfth—Upon six (6) months' notice by the Board to the Company, all wires for the transmission of power, except trolley wires for the operation of the railway, upon all or any portion of the route hereby authorized, shall be placed in conduits beneath or alongside of the railway. The Company shall provide in such conduits two (2) ducts not less than three (3) inches in diameter for the exclusive use of the City. Such ducts shall be used only by the Company for the operation of its railway and by the City, as above.

Thirteenth—The rate of fare for any passenger upon said railway shall not exceed five (5) cents, and the Company shall not charge any passenger more than five (5) cents for one continuous ride from any point on its road, or on any road, line or branch operated by it or under its control, to any other point thereof, or of any connecting branch thereof, within the limits of the City.

The Company shall carry free upon the railway hereby authorized during the term of this contract all members of the Police and Fire Departments of the City, when such employees are in full uniform.

Fourteenth—No cars shall be operated upon the railway hereby authorized, other than passenger cars and cars necessary for the repair or maintenance of the railway, and no freight cars shall be operated upon the tracks of said railway.

Fifteenth—The Company shall attach to each car run over the said railway proper fenders and wheel-guards, in conformity with such laws and ordinances as are now in force, or may hereafter, during the term of this contract, be enacted or adopted by the State or City authorities, or as may be required by resolution of the Board.

Sixteenth—All cars which are operated on said railway shall be heated during the cold weather, in conformity with such laws and ordinances as are now in force, or may hereafter, during the term of this contract, be enacted or adopted by the State or City authorities, or as may be required by resolution of the Board.

Seventeenth—All cars operated on said railway shall be well lighted by electricity, or by some lighting system equally efficient, or as may be required by resolution of the Board.

Eighteenth—Cars on said railway shall run at intervals of not more than thirty (30) minutes, both day and night, and as much oftener as reasonable convenience of the public may require, or as may be directed by the Board.

Provided, however, that the Company during the first five (5) years of this contract shall not be required to operate its cars between the hours of one (1) o'clock a. m. and five (5) o'clock a. m. each day, unless the Board shall determine after a hearing had thereon that public convenience requires the operation of cars during said hours.

Nineteenth—The Company, so long as it shall continue to use any of the tracks upon the streets and avenues in which said railway shall be constructed, shall, if directed by the President of the Borough of the Bronx, cause to be watered at least three (3) times every twenty-four (24) hours when the temperature is above thirty-five (35) degrees Fahrenheit, the entire width of the streets and avenues, except when the width of such streets and avenues shall exceed sixty (60) feet between curb lines, in which case the Company shall cause to be watered only sixty (60) feet in width of such roadway, and the Company shall provide for such purpose at least one tank car, the capacity of which shall be sufficient to water such streets and avenues in a satisfactory manner.

Twentieth—The Company shall at all times keep the streets and avenues upon which the said railway is constructed, between its tracks, the rails of its tracks and for a distance of two (2) feet beyond the rails, on either side thereof, free and clear from ice and snow; provided, however, that the Company shall, at the option of the Commissioner of Street Cleaning, enter into an agreement for each Winter season, or part thereof, to clean an equivalent amount of street surface from house line to house line.

Twenty-first—As long as said railway, or any portion thereof, remains in any street or avenue, the Company shall pave and keep in permanent repair that portion of the surface of the street or avenue in which the said railway is constructed, between its tracks, the rails of its tracks and for a distance of two (2) feet beyond the rails on either side thereof, under the supervision of the local authorities, whenever required by them to do so, and in such manner as they may prescribe. In case of the neglect of the Company to make pavement or repairs after the expiration of thirty (30) days' notice to do so from the President of the Borough of the Bronx, said President may make the same at the expense of the Company. And the City shall have the right to change the material or character of the pavement of any street or avenue, and in that event the Company shall be bound to replace such pavement in the manner directed by the proper City official, at its own expense, and the provisions as to repairs herein contained shall apply to such renewed or altered pavement.

Twenty-second—Any alteration to the sewerage or drainage systems, or to any other subsurface or to any surface structures in the streets, required on account of the construction or operation of the railway, shall be made at the sole cost of the Company, and in such manner as the proper City officials may prescribe.

Twenty-third—It is agreed that the right hereby granted to operate a street surface railway shall not be in preference or in hindrance to public work of the City, and should the said railway in any way interfere with the construction of public works in the streets and avenues, whether the same is done by the City directly or by a contractor for the City, the Company shall, at its own expense, protect or move the tracks and appurtenances in the manner directed by the City officials having jurisdiction over such public work.

Twenty-fourth—Should the grades or lines of the streets and avenues in which the railway is hereby authorized be changed at any time after the railway has been constructed and during the term of this contract, the Company shall, at its own expense, change its tracks and appurtenances to conform with such new grades and lines, and during the construction of any public improvement upon said streets and avenues the Company shall take care of and protect the tracks and appurtenances at its own expense, all to be done subject to the direction of the City official having jurisdiction over the construction of such change.

Twenty-fifth—The Company shall submit to the Board a report not later than November 1 of each year for the year ending September 30 next preceding, and at any other time, upon request of the Board, which shall state:

1. The amount of stock issued, for cash, for property.
2. The amount paid in as by last report.
3. The total amount of capital stock paid in.
4. The funded debt by last report.
5. The total amount of funded debt.
6. The floating debt as by last report.
7. The total amount of floating debt.
8. The total amount of funded and floating debt.
9. The average rate per annum of interest on funded debt.
10. Statement of dividends paid during the year.
11. The total amount expended for same.
12. The names of the Directors elected at the last meeting of the corporation held for such purpose.
13. Location, value, and amount paid for real estate owned by the Company as by last report.
14. Location, value, and amount paid for real estate now owned by the Company.
15. Number of passengers carried during the year.
16. Total receipts of Company for each class of business.
17. Amounts paid by the Company for damage to persons or property on account of construction and operation.
18. Total expenses for operation, including salaries.

—and such other information in regard to the business of the Company as may be required by the Board.

Twenty-sixth—The Company shall at all times keep accurate books of account of the gross receipts from all sources within the limits of the City, and shall, on or before November 1 of each year, make a verified report to the Comptroller of the City of the business done by the Company for the year ending September 30 next preceding in such form as he may prescribe. Such report shall contain a statement of such gross receipts, the total miles in operation within the limits of the City, and the miles of railway constructed and operated under this contract, and such other information as the Comptroller may require. The Comptroller shall have access to all books of the Company for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of its report, and may examine its officers under oath.

Twenty-seventh—In case of any violation or breach or failure to comply with any of the provisions herein contained, or with any orders of the Board acting under the powers herein reserved, the franchise or consent herein granted may be forfeited by a suit brought by the Corporation Counsel, on notice of ten (10) days to the Company, or at the option of the Board by resolution of said Board, which said resolution may contain a provision to the effect that the railway constructed and in use by virtue of this contract shall thereupon become the property of the City without proceedings at law or in equity. Provided, however, that such action by the Board shall not be taken until the Board shall give notice to the Company to appear before it on a certain day not less than ten (10) days after the date of such notice, to show cause why such resolution declaring the contract forfeited should not be adopted. In case the Company fails to appear, action may be taken by the Board forthwith.

Twenty-eighth—If the Company shall fail to give efficient public service at the rates herein fixed, or fail to maintain its structures and equipment as herein provided in good condition throughout the whole term of this contract, the Board may give notice to the Company specifying any default on the part of the Company, and requiring the Company to remedy the same within a reasonable time; and upon failure of the Company to remedy such default within a reasonable time, the Company shall, for each day thereafter during which the default or defect remains, pay to the City the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) as fixed or liquidated damages, or the Board, in case such structures or equipment which may affect the surface of the streets shall not be put in good condition within a reasonable time after notice by the Board as aforesaid shall have the right to make all needed repairs at the expense of the Company, in which case the Company shall pay to the City the amount of the cost of such repairs, with legal interest thereon, all of which sums may be deducted from the fund hereinafter provided for.

Twenty-ninth—The Company shall assume all liability to persons or property by reason of the construction or operation of the railway authorized by this contract, and it is a condition of this contract that the City shall assume no liability whatsoever to either persons or property on account of the same, and the Company hereby agrees to repay to the City any damage which the City shall be compelled to pay by reason of any acts or default of the Company.

Thirtieth—This grant is upon the express condition that any and all sums of money or any and all securities heretofore deposited with the Comptroller by the Company under and pursuant to franchises heretofore granted to it by the City as a fund for the security for the performance by the Company of the terms and conditions of the franchises so granted shall likewise be a fund for the security for the faithful performance by the Company of all the terms and conditions of this contract and compliance with all orders of the Board acting under the powers herein reserved, especially those which relate to the payment of the annual charges for the privilege hereby granted, the rendering of efficient public service at the rates herein fixed, the repairs of the street pavement, the removal of snow and ice, the quality of construction of the railway and the maintenance of the property in good condition throughout the whole term of this contract, and in case of default in the performance by the Company of such terms and conditions or compliance with such orders, or either or any of them, the City shall have the right to cause the work to be done and the materials to be furnished for the performance thereof after due notice, and shall collect the reasonable cost thereof from the said fund without legal proceedings; or after default in the payment of the annual charges, shall collect the same, with interest, from the said fund after ten (10) days' notice to the Company; or in case of failure to observe the said terms and conditions of this contract and orders of the Board acting hereunder, relating to the headway, heating and lighting of cars, fenders, wheel-guards, and watering of street pavements, the Company shall pay a penalty of fifty dollars ($50) per day for each day of violation, and the further sum of ten dollars ($10) per day for each car that shall not be properly heated, lighted or supplied with fenders or wheel-guards, in case of a violation of the provisions relating to those matters, all of which sums may be deducted from said fund.

The procedure for the imposition and collection of the penalties in this contract shall be as follows:

The Board, on complaint made, shall give notice to the Company, directing its President or other officer, to appear before the Board on a certain day not less than ten (10) days after the date of such notice, to show cause why the Company should not be penalized in accordance with the foregoing provisions. If the Company fails to make an appearance, or, after a hearing, appears in the judgment of the Board to be in fault, said Board shall forthwith impose the prescribed penalty, or, where the amount of the penalty is not prescribed herein, such amount as appears to the Board to be just, and without legal procedure direct the Comptroller to withdraw the amount of such penalty from the security fund deposited with him. In case of any drafts made upon the security fund the Company shall, upon ten (10) days' notice, pay to the City a sum sufficient to restore said security fund to the original amount, and in default thereof this contract shall be canceled and annulled at the option of the Board acting in behalf of the City. No action or proceeding or right under the provisions of this contract shall affect any other legal rights, remedies or causes of action belonging to the City.

Thirty-first—The words "notice" or "direction," wherever used in this contract, shall be deemed to mean a written notice or direction. Every such notice or direction to be served upon the Company shall be delivered at such office in the City as shall have been designated by the Company, or if no such office shall have been designated, or if such designation shall have for any reason become inoperative, shall be mailed in the City, postage prepaid, addressed to the Company at the City. Delivery or mailing of such notice or direction as and when above provided shall be equivalent to direct personal notice or direction, and shall be deemed to have been given at the time of delivery or mailing.

Thirty-second—The words "streets or avenues" and "streets and avenues," wherever used in this contract, shall be deemed to mean "streets, avenues, highways, parkways, driveways, concourses, boulevards, bridges, viaducts, tunnels, public places or any other property to which the City has title or over which the public has an easement," encountered in the route hereinabove described, and upon or in which authority is hereby given the Company to construct a railway.

Thirty-third—If at any time the powers of the Board or any other of the authorities herein mentioned or intended to be mentioned, shall be transferred by law to any other board, authority, officer, or officers, then and in such case, such other board, authority, officer or officers, shall have all the powers, rights and duties herein reserved to or prescribed for the Board or other authorities, officer, or officers.

Section 3. Nothing in this contract shall be construed as in any way limiting the present or future jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission under the Laws of the State of New York.

Section 4. This grant is also upon the further and express condition that the provisions of Article 5 and the other provisions of the Railroad Law pertinent hereto shall be strictly complied with by the Company.

Section 5. The Company promises, covenants and agrees on its part and behalf to conform to and abide by and perform all the terms and conditions and requirements in this contract fixed and contained.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board of Education will hold a meeting this afternoon. Among the matters that will come before it are teachers' retirement, transfers, nominations, and promotions; also nominations and transfers of Principals and the retirement of District Superintendent John L. N. Hunt.

The last undergraduate dance of the season was held at Normal College yesterday. This afternoon the faculty reception will take place. To-morrow seventy-five graduates will receive their diplomas from President George S. Davis. President Emeritus Thomas Hunter will deliver the opening address. It is expected that Chancellor Elmer E. Brown of the University of New York will be present. Miss Minnie Perlman will deliver the class valedictory, and Miss Bertha Guttenberg will be the salutatorian. Prof. Edward S. Burgess will present the candidates, and President Egerton L. Winthrop of the Board of Education will be among the speakers. Prof. Helen Gray Cone of the Normal College and of the class of '76, has writen the graduation song, entitled "The Good Ship Alma Mater." The music is by G. Mangold. On Friday the class day luncheon and the class day exercises will bring commencement week to an end.

Miss Grace C. Strachan will address the assistants to Principal at 4:15 P. M., to-morrow, at Grant Hall, 489 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn.

There is considerable criticism on the part of the elementary teachers over the action of the By-Laws Committee of the Board of Education in withholding, because of the readjustment of classes under the equal-pay law, of the bonus of $60 which has been allowed teachers who have had mixed classes of boys and girls. The teachers maintain that they are entitled to this extra pay, but the By-Laws Committee takes a different view. It is said that unless the committee withdraws its action litigation is certain to ensue. It is claimed that the new ruling works injustice to many teachers. For instance, a teacher who, under the old law, received $680 salary, and $60 bonus for mixed class work, under the new rule will get only $720 for both. Model teachers will also be sufferers.

The Board of Examiners up to date has gone over only about one-quarter of the examinations into the superior merit of High School teachers. They will have to make faster progress in the future if the pay schedules for the High Schools giving increments and arrearages, are to be in readiness for the payments for February work.

The new term of the evening High Schools will begin on Feb. 1. New classes will be formed, promotions made, and additional courses instituted.

At the meeting of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers, at the Metropolitan Life Building, Manhattan, on Feb. 2, the question of injustice to teachers under the equal-pay law enforcement will be considered.

Teachers are complaining of the rule adopted by the Board of Superintendents that "No teacher in the grades 7A-8B whose ratings of B were in excess of her ratings of A and B plus can be passed as fit and meritorious." It is pointed out that for twelve years the rating B has been considered by Principals as proof of "fitness and meritoriousness," and that, if it had not been so considered the Principal could have rated the teacher B plus. The injustice of this new rule, the teachers say, is therefore manifest, and they threaten that they will appeal to the law, if necessary, against this ruling of the Board of Superintendents.

RAN TRAIN TOO CLOSE BEHIND HARAHAN CAR

Illinois Central Schedule Was Supposed to be Ten Minutes, but Was Only Five.

AIRBRAKES NOT DEFECTIVE

Flagman of Limited Saw Express Bearing Down on Them When He Had Gone Back Only Sixty Feet.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 23.—Although no decision was reached to-day by the Board of Inquiry into the wreck on the Illinois Central Railroad at Kinmundy, Ill., enough evidence was obtained to indicate that responsibility for the accident was due more to human fallibility than to mechanical devices.

The inquiry is being conducted by a joint board composed of representatives of the State, the railroad, and the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and technical authorities. Further hearings probably will be held in Chicago to-morrow.

Testimony of trainmen showed that the Panama Limited, which ran into the private car of Second Vice President F. O. Melcher of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, in which he, with former President J. T. Harahan of the Illinois Central and two other railway men were killed, was following the New Orleans express, to which the car was attached, too close for safety. It was testified that only five minutes intervened, while they were supposed to be "running ten minutes apart on the schedule."

The theory that defective airbrakes on the limited were the chief cause was exploded by the testimony of Engineer Stuart, who declared the brakes on his engine and train were working perfectly. He was borne out in this by other members of the train crew.

John H. Brainerd, conductor of the New Orleans Express, said he had cautioned his flagman at Effingham to look out for the Panama Limited, as that train was following the express closely. He said he was astounded to learn later that the flagman had not gone back more than sixty feet before the crash came.

Harry J. Boecker, the flagman, described his attempt to flag the Panama limited. He said:

"I was scared when I looked back and saw the headlight. I did not run back more than 100 feet. I swung my danger lantern. The limited seemed to be three-quarters of a mile or a mile away."

Robert Stuart, engineer of the Panama limited took the stand with his face swathed in bandages. He said:

"I could not see the tail lights on Train No 25, the express, because of the steam. I saw only the west light and supposed it was the interlocker signal. It was too late to slow up when I saw the danger lamps. I could have seen a fusee for miles. I could have stopped in 300 feet more. I had shut off steam to comply with the slow-up order at Kinmundy."

Many questions were asked as to whether fusees would have prevented the accident, and Engineer Stuart asserted he had no doubt the wreck would have been avoided if the trainmen on the express had set out fusees to warn him.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 23.—Funeral services for Major E. E. Wright, who was killed in a train wreck on the Illinois Central, near Centralia, Ill., yesterday, will take place Wednesday.

Among hundreds of messages of condolence received by former War Secretary Luke E. Wright was one from President Taft, which said:

"Won't you convey to Mrs. Wright and accept for yourself the sincerest sympathy of Mrs. Taft and myself in your great sorrow, due to the loss of your son Elbridge? He had attained such prominence and success in his profession and such an envied position in the community that all will mourn him."

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Arrangements for the funerals of the three Chicago men killed in the Illinois Central wreck, J. T. Harahan, F. O. Melcher, and E. B. Peirce, were completed to-day.

The funerals of Mr. Harahan and Mr. Melcher will be held here to-morrow. The body of Mr. Peirce has been taken to the former home of his wife, Fort Smith, Ark. The funeral of Mr. Peirce also will be held to-morrow.

VERBECK TO STAY AFTER ALL.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 23.—National Guard circles were greatly surprised to-day by an early report from New York that Adjt. Gen. William Verbeck had sent his resignation to Gov. Dix to take effect on May 1. For three hours those who had heard the report were kept in suspense while the Adjutant General and the Governor were speeding to the Capitol on the same train, but in separate cars.

Upon their arrival they conferred for an hour in the Governor's private office, and it was then announced that Gen. Verbeck had withdrawn his resignation and consented to stay in his present position.

While no one was taken into the confidence of either with regard to what transpired at the conference, Gen. Verbeck was asked by Gov. Dix to make a very significant change, in an official statement which he made public after his talk with the Governor. In its original form the statement read as follows:

"My resignation having been sent to Albany, Gov. Dix had not as yet received it when I traveled with him on the Empire State express from New York to Albany. After consultation with the Governor in the Executive Chamber I was permitted to withdraw my resignation before it reached his hands.

"By withdrawing my resignation I am glad to show my loyalty and great respect for the Commander in Chief."

According to the reports that preceded Gen. Verbeck's arrival at the Capitol, he decided to send his resignation last night, after a conference he had had at the Waldorf-Astoria with Gen. Charles F. Roe, commanding the National Guard forces in this State. The conference, according to the report current here, had to do with the selection of a successor to Gen. Charles F. Roe, as head of the National Guard. One candidate for the place is Major John F. O'Ryan, who is in command of the First Battalion of Field Artillery. He has the backing of Tammany Hall.

It is known that Gen. Roe and his friends have not looked with friendly eyes on the plan to jump Tammany's candidate to the position of Major General over the head of senior officers. Gen. Verbeck has figured in recent reports as a candidate for the position himself, but has denied the allegation. He is a personal friend of Major O'Ryan, and thinks well of his ability, but is not committed to him. According to the report in circulation here, the discussion at the Waldorf last night waxed warm, with the result that Gen. Verbeck was accused of using his official position to bless or blight the legitimate aspirations of worthy officers in the Guard.

Gen. Verbeck is said to have resented this accusation hotly, and to have declared that he could dispose of that unjustifiable charge by getting out altogether. On the spur of the moment and while chafing under this reflection on his official reputation, according to the report, he sent his resignation.

SYNGE'S DEFENDER JEERED.

They Deride Him and Carry His Opponent Out in Triumph.

James P. Conway, an Irishman and a student of Irish literature, failed totally last night in an effort to talk "The Playboy of the Western World" and its author, John M. Synge, into the good graces of an audience of Irishmen that filled the clubhouse of the New Amsterdam Council of the Knights of Columbus at 307 West Fifty-fourth Street.

Mr. Conway talked not only on behalf of the play, but on behalf of the company of players that produced it here and in Philadelphia. Among his hearers were many of those who participated in the riots following its first appearance in this country.

The upshot of the evening's effort was that the auditors carried the opponent of Mr. Conway, who denounced the play and its author and the players, out of the hall on their shoulders, cheering him wildly and proclaiming that they would never cease to seek the play's suppression and to taboo it and hiss it at every opportunity.

The attack on the "Playboy" was led by Michael Conway, a former member of Parliament, who was indicted with others for working too aggressively for home rule in Ireland. He it was who was carried from the stage in triumph. He could not and would not tolerate, he said, any Irish literature fostered by English patronage or written by others than native-born Irishmen feeling and fighting for their country's cause.

Yeats was dubbed "a cheap pensioner of the hated British crown," while Lady Gregory, patron of the Irish Players, was styled "the daughter of an odious whisky merchant, who attached herself to the odious aristocracy of Ireland, is now trying to rid herself of in her demand for home rule." The play, the players, their patron, and their defenders were declared to be, amid the wildest applause of the audience, "the bribed tools of the British in an effort to make Irish Nationalism look silly and ridiculous, and to satirize it out of countenance before its demands are pressed too far in Parliament."

IRISH PLAYERS DISCHARGED.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—Judge Carr, in Quarter Sessions Court, handed down a decision to-day directing the discharge of the eleven members of the Irish Players and Manager L. A. Blumberg, manager of the Adelphi Theatre, from custody.

Judge Carr gave the decision on the writ of habeas corpus which had been sworn out after the arrest of the players and the theatrical manager on the charge that "The Playboy of the Western World" which had been produced and had caused riots was an immoral play. The arrests had been made at the instigation of several local Irish-Americans.

In granting the writ Judge Carr made no comment on the character of the play.

Following the dismissal in Philadelphia of the charges of giving an immoral play, brought against the Irish Players who appeared in "The Playboy of the Western World," Liebler & Co., managers of the Players, have decided to take some action on their part. The charges were brought by a saloon keeper named McGarrity, and Liebler & Co.'s attorneys were instructed last night to bring separate action for damages for each member of the company against the saloon keeper.

THE MARGULIES TRIO.

Music by Schumann, Dohnanyi, and Gretchaninow at Its Second Concert.

A programme of more than usual interest was given by the Adele Margulies Trio at its second concert in Carnegie Lyceum last evening. It comprised Schumann's trio in D minor, Op. 63; Ernst von Dohnanyi's sonata for piano and 'cello in B flat minor, and a trio by Gretchaninow in C minor. The last was new and played for the first time, and probably few of the audience had had an opportunity to hear Dohnanyi's sonata before. And even Schumann's trio has been much neglected by chamber musicians, not altogether with reason, for it has delightful qualities and some real Schumannesque characteristics.

Dohnanyi's sonata is an interesting and clever composition in its details, in which the composer has managed to make the 'cello say all manner of things, serious and gay, and yet keep to its own style and its own native utterance, even in the breathlessly rapid scherzo. There is much that is finely wrought in the last movement, a theme with variations. Mr. Schulz and Miss Margulies played the sonata with evident enthusiasm, and with an entire command of its great difficulties. The name of Gretchaninow is known here as that of the composer of certain choruses that the Musical Art Society has sung in recent years, and hardly otherwise. His trio shows him to be a musician of a somewhat stronger fibre than some of the Russians of the present day. The slow movement has much real beauty, and the finale engages the attention of the listener by its felicitous musical ideas expressed in ingenious construction and with some novel and complicated rhythmic treatment. Gretchaninow has made little use of the folk song idioms of his native land, unless there be a touch of it in the principal theme of the last movement; the work as a whole has an individual character. It was admirably played by Miss Margulies, Mr. Lichtenberg, and Mr. Schulz.

BONCI SAYS CARUSO SCREAMS

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 23.—Signor Alessandro Bonci, lyric tenor, arrived to-day for an appearance at the Odeon to-morrow night. He was minus his mustache, which some persons said made him resemble Enrico Caruso. Signor Bonci denied this resemblance caused him to change his appearance. He said there was a difference between himself and Caruso.

"There 'ees as great difference as between one who sings and one who screams. He screams and I sing. I do not seek to thrill my audience by bluff and gesture.

"Many do not appreciate the difference between art and bluff. By art, I mean the cultivation of a voice so that it is perfect, not so the voice is merely beautiful. Beauty of voice comes naturally and many persons, especially women, have beautiful voices. But they are not artistically and carefully trained.

"And there is Mary Garden. She may have art as an actress, but she does not sing."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Lewis Waller, who is now appearing in "The Garden of Allah," will be among the features of the programme at the performance for the benefit of the National Alliance for the Protection of Stage Children, to be given at the Century Theatre on the afternoon of Feb. 9.

Newport Ministers' Union Indorses Action Against Gamblers.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 23.—The Ministers' Union met this afternoon and unanimously indorsed the action of Gov. Pothier in ordering Newport gambling resorts closed. This dispatch was forwarded to Gov. Pothier to-night:

OIL TRUST FINED $55,000.

Convicted in Buffalo for Violating Elkins Act by Accepting Rebates.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 23.—A fine of $55,000 was imposed on the Standard Oil Company of New York to-day by Judge John R. Hazel in United States District Court for violating the Elkins act governing inter-State commerce by accepting concessions from the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads on shipments from Olean to Burlington, Vt. Sentence was pronounced after motions for a new trial and for an arrest of judgment, made by Daniel J. Kenefick, on behalf of the defendant, were denied by Judge Hazel.

"Efficient work on behalf of the Government prosecutors has shown carriers in this district that no favoritism can be shown, and I believe that the laws are religiously lived up to at the present time," said the Judge.

There is a general belief that the Standard Oil Company will not appeal.

The company was indicted a year ago by the Federal Grand Jury on 188 counts, of which forty-five were quashed on motion of the Government, and the defendant was found guilty on 143 counts.

The prosecution by United States Attorney O'Brian of violators of the Elkins act has resulted in fines aggregating $128,000 as follows: Standard Oil Company, $20,000; New York Central Railroad, $33,000; Pennsylvania Railroad, $20,000, and to-day's fine of Standard Oil Company, $55,000. All except the last have been paid.

GREENE-CANANEA PAYS.

25 Cents a Share Declared on $50,000,000 of Stock Outstanding.

The Greene-Cananea Copper Company declared its first dividend yesterday. It is 25 cents a share on $50,000,000 outstanding $20 par stock, and was made possible by the collection of a 60 cent dividend from the Greene Consolidated Copper Company and the Cananea Central Copper Company, which are the principal operating properties of the Greene-Cananea. It was not specified for what period the dividend should apply, but it is payable on March 1, to stockholders of record Feb. 10.

The 60 cent disbursements on the stocks of the subsidiaries amounts to $960,000 and of this the holding company receives approximately $930,000, not having acquired all of the outstanding stocks of the two subsidiaries. The payment of 25 cents a share will leave a surplus of about $325,000 to cover previously incurred expenses.

William E. Corey, former President of the United States Steel Corporation, was elected to the board to succeed James Hoatson. Mr. Corey is also a member of the board of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company.

The estimated result of the Greene-Cananea for the year ending Dec. 31, 1911, show: Copper produced 45,247,218 pounds; cost per pound, 9¼ cents; construction per pound ⅝ cents; total cost per pound 10⅛ cents; net profit $1,140,000, after deducting construction expenses.

14,510,676 COTTON BALES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The vast 1911 cotton crop of the United States had been ginned and baled to the extent of 14,510,676 bales on Jan. 16, according to the Census Bureau's report issued to-day, showing 193,674 bales were ginned during the period from Jan. 1 to 15 inclusive.

Ginneries this season have been forced to greater activity than ever before by the enormous crop. A considerable quantity still remains to be ginned before the close of the season. The exact amount will be made known by the Census Bureau's final ginning report on March 20, giving figures up to Feb. 28.

To-day's ginning report is about 375,000 bales less than the Department of Agriculture's estimate of production, which was 14,885,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

The 14,510,676 bales thus far ginned compare with 11,253,147 bales last year, when 97.3 per cent. of the 1910 crop was ginned prior to Jan. 16; 12,666,203 bales in 1909, when 96.8 per cent. of the 1908 crop was ginned, and 12,767,600 bales in 1905, when 94.9 per cent. of the 1904 crop was ginned.

SMOKELESS VIEWS THE RULE.

The crusade against smoking factory chimneys has had such a good effect that many manufacturers who used to circulate pictures of their factories with chimneys belching smoke as an indication of business activity have now eliminated the smoke from the pictures altogether.

"One of the hopeful signs of the times is that manufacturers are beginning to be ashamed of having smoking chimneys. This is indicated by letterheads and views of the works, where the chimneys have, in the past, been shown with clouds of smoke escaping from them, with the evident thought of illustrating a rushing business. Now, however, we note a change of sentiment, and modern shops are being represented with smokeless chimneys.

"This is as it should be, for with the awakening interest in cleaner, healthier, and more attractive cities—cities with parks and tree-lined streets; cities with fine public buildings and business blocks; cities with all these and many other desirable and necessary features of modern life—there is no place for smoke, and those responsible for pouring clouds of it into the atmosphere are growing to be held as enemies to the public good.

"There is another reason why manufacturers should be ashamed to show smoke on their views of the works, or more important still, to allow it to issue from the chimneys of their works. This reason is because it is an admission to the world that they are still employing antiquated methods and operating at an economic loss by wasting into the air combustible material which should be consumed to generate more power, and which would be if they had modern power plants in operation."
